Job Situation Reassured by Cabinet's Aid

Means Sought to Shift Ousted Workers to the Emergency Agencies.

By Robert C. Albright.

The Federal reemployment situation yesterday took a more reassuring turn, as developments in many quarters brightened prospects for Washington's growing army of Government jobless.

From the White House came word that a committee of the President's Cabinet is studying ways and means of hiring back ousted workers in the new Federal emergency agencies.

Both Secretary of Commerce Roper and Secretary of the Navy Swanson called on the Public Works Administration for additional funds, part of which could find their way back into Government pay rolls.

Secretary Roper, chairman of the Cabinet committee investigating reemployment possibilities, outlined steps already taken looking to the transfer of surplus personnel to the new set-up, through civil service channels.

Guests of President.

The President indicated he would have nothing to say until his Cabinet committee renders a full report on the situation. Two members of the committee, Secretary Roper and Secretary of Interior Ickes, lunched with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday. It was said this subject was not discussed. Postmaster General Farley is the third member of the committee, which as yet has held no meeting, Secretary Roper said.

Meanwhile, fresh separations from the Commerce Department added to the total of departmental and field workers who have paid the price of Federal retrenchment. The department reported an aggregate of 600 workers released in Washington, and 960 in the field. An additional 296 have been placed on indefinite furloughs in Washington, and 35 in the field.

As forecast in last Friday's Washington Post, President Roosevelt yesterday extended for at least another six months, the general 15 per cent pay cut, from which employes in many of the new emergency agencies will be exempted. The cut will apply as usual in old line Government establishments.

Cost of living statistics prepared for the White House gave an index figure for the first six months of 1933 which was 23.9 per cent below the base figure for the six months ended June 30, 1928. Restoration of the Government cut may await the wiping out of this differential.

The Commerce Department yesterday was reported to have requested $10,000,000 of public works funds to continue various activities necessary to the recovery program. Approval of the grant, it was estimated, would permit the rehiring of 1,500 employes already released.

Secretary of the Navy Swanson sought $77,000,000 from the Public Works Administration, in addition to the funds already allotted for ship construction, to modernize the Navy's battleships. Officials believe

Port au Prince, Haiti, July 5 (A.P.).—Capt. Errol Boyd and Co-pilot Robert Lyons took off at 6:20 p. m. (E. S. T.) today, in the veteran plane Columbia for a nonstop flight to Washington, D. C.

For several days they had awaited favorable weather and suddenly decided this afternoon to attempt it. Boyd is carrying a letter and a gift of coffee from President Vincent to President Roosevelt. They expect to reach Washington in about 16 or 17 hours.

Alleged Leaders In Dope Ring Held

San Francisco, July 5 (A.P.).—Juda and Isaac Ezra, alleged heads of a gigantic smuggling ring with ramifications in China, pleaded guilty in Federal Court here today to violation of the narcotics laws.

Pending a further investigation into smuggling activities in the Orient, a delay in sentencing the brothers was ordered until September 2 by Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure.

Three men and a woman, indicted in connection with the narcotics ring, also pleaded guilty today and were remanded to jail. Two of them have been at liberty on their own recognizance.

Florida Girl Cyclists Bring Greeting

Reminders of Florida waters were brought to this city by Helen and Addie Nickel who cycled from Jacksonville, Fla., to present the "theoretical" key to the beach of that city, to the Chief Executive. They will continue to New York on their cycles.

2 Saved at Sea Tell of Death Of 3 Sailors

Norfolk, Va., July 5 (A.P.).—Two men who watched three companions, including a son of one of them, slip to watery graves were brought here today and with them came the story of seamen swinging down by their heels to accomplish a thrilling rescue and of a dog that left a boat to follow his master in death.

H. A. Knowles, of Jacksonville, Fla., a passenger on the barge S. G. Wilder, of which his son, Capt. B. W. Knowles, was skipper, and Mac Sturko, of Perth Amboy, N. J., seaman on the barge, were the survivors who arrived on the tug Nassau. Those who lost their lives after the barge foundered in a raging northeaster last Sunday were Capt. Knowles, 31, who also made his home at Jacksonville; "Pop" Lewis, and a third man known only as "Frank."

Charles F. Smith, second mate of the Nassau, told how a partially submerged dory was sighted yesterday morning about 60 miles northeast of Cape Charles with its two remaining occupants showing no sign of life.

"They made no move to answer our signals," he said. "It was risky business picking them up, but our entire crew volunteered for the work. We hung over the side with ropes around our heels in order to loop lines about the men and pull them aboard."

Capt. L. M. Smith, skipper of the Nassau, said the survivors presented a pitiful sight.

"The poor old gentleman (Knowles) had seen his son washed overboard and lost," he said. "He was too exhausted to help himself."

Roosevelt's Stand Backed by Herriot

Says President Was Misinterpreted; Pleads for U. S. Understanding.

Paris (Thursday), July 6 (A.P.).—Former Premier Edouard Herriot became today the first notable Frenchman to defend President Roosevelt in the stand he has taken at the World Economic Conference.

Declaring the American President has been misinterpreted, the former premier made a vigorous plea in his newspaper Ere Nouvelle for a better understanding with the United States. He warned that "an association in which the Anglo-Saxons are not a part is insufficient to assure world peace," and that if France is to lose contact with the United States it also will lose contact with England.

The former government chief said he found "much truth in the Straus speech"—referring to the Fourth of July address by United States Ambassador Jesse I. Straus, in which the latter said European criticism of the United States was unfair and that the success of the American "experiment" would benefit the world.

Kansas City Gangster Also Sought in Fatal Effort to Rescue Robber.

Kansas City, July 5 (A.P.).—E. C. Reppert, director of police, announced tonight Verne C. Miller, a former sheriff of North Dakota, and William Weissman, of Kansas City, were sought as the identified killers of four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, a bank robber, in front of the union station here June 17. Miller is wanted in several cities for other crimes, Reppert said.

The police head announced the massacre resulted when officers defied Miller's attempt to rescue Nash as he was being transferred from train to motor car on his way to the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans.

A Nation-wide search has been instituted by the police and the United States Bureau of Investigation for Miller and Weissman, a brother of Solly Weissman, Kansas City gangster, who was killed here a few years ago.

Reppert, in a statement, detailed the police view of how the shooting occurred.

"Miller and Weissman drove to the station and parked Miller's sedan in the south parking lot opposite the east door of the station," Reppert said, "and when the Government officers came across the street with Nash and they saw them all in a group and without firearms in readiness to shoot, Miller and Weissman decided to take Nash at the station. Miller was armed with a machine gun and Weissman carried two .45 automatic pistols.

"Miller covered the group and stated they wanted Nash. Detective Grooms (Police Detective W. J. Grooms, Kansas City, was one of the four killed) pulled his gun and started shooting, the first shot striking Miller in the left arm, causing a slight wound. Then Miller opened up with the machine gun, with the results as are already known. Nash was shot accidentally in the burst of fire."

300 Battle Police After Mass Meeting

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—A crowd estimated by police at between 300 and 500 persons, after holding a mass meeting in Union Square, marched to the center of the fur district today and engaged in a fight with about 35 policemen when the police balked an attempt to hold a meeting at Twenty-ninth street and Seventh avenue.

Fists and rolled-up magazines, some of which were said to have contained metal pipe, were used freely and when the disorder was stopped about half a dozen arrests had been made and several minor injuries required medical attention.

1,000 Bolivians Killed In Drive on Paraguayans

Asuncion, Paraguay, July 5 (A.P.).—A communique of the ministry of war issued today said that the Bolivians lost 1,000 soldiers when Paraguayans repulsed a strong attack in the Nanawa sector yesterday.

Gas Tax Fund Use for D. C. Work Vetoed

But Offers $1,918,000 Projects Under U. S. Recovery Act.

Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas late yesterday informed the District Commissioners by letter that he would not approve their proposed expenditure of $1,500,000 approximated by Congress from the District surplus gasoline tax fund.

As an alternative, he promised to approve certain public works out of the list of projects totaling $28,716,500 submitted to the national recovery administration on June 28.

By vetoing the gasoline tax fund expenditure, the budget director cancels a contemplated program of new employment which would have amounted to 8,300 man-months and probably will necessitate the dismissal of several hundred men in the District highway department.

District officials declined to discuss the matter last night on the ground that negotiations with the Budget Bureau have not been terminated, but it was learned from authoritative sources that they had received a letter denying the gasoline tax fund expenditure.

Amounts Not Determined.

The amount and the projects which Budget Director Douglas has agreed to approve as public works in lieu of the gas tax appropriation have not been determined definitely, it is understood, and it is for this reason that the Commissioners refused to discuss the Budget Bureau's rejection.

The $1,500,000 now will accumulate as surplus revenue along with the other estimated $400,000 from the gas tax fund and bring the estimated 1934 municipal surplus to more than $3,000,000 unless unemployment relief demands additional appropriations when Congress reconvenes.

The $1,500,000 appropriation was included in the District act only after a vigorous fight was waged for the District in the Senate. Members of Congress who had fought for a small District budget in the face of a huge surplus, won a partial victory, however, in applying the provision that expenditure of this appropriation must be approved by the Budget Bureau.

While the disallowal of the $1,500,000 highway improvement program will prevent the usual schedule of street construction projects and maintenance from being followed by the Highway Department, it will be relieved somewhat by the Federal grant of $1,918,469 to the District under the highway provision of the public works act.

Bridge Construction Included.

It is expected that the Calvert Street Bridge construction and the proposed widening of Constitution avenue from Second to South Capitol streets will be taken care of under this fund. The Commissioners had asked $575,000 for the bridge and $45,741 for the Constitution avenue job under the gasoline-tax appropriation.

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, expects to improve and extend 10 or 12 main thoroughfares with this fund, allocating 60 per cent to United States marked routes and 40 per cent to feeder highways. Some 12,000 to 13,000 man-months of employment will be created thereby, he estimates.

Only four items in the long list of 40-odd projects submitted by the Commissioners meet the requirement that the Federal grants of 30

Young Pilot Is Killed By Plunge of Biplane

Denton, Kans., July 5 (A.P.).—A biplane crashed in a cornfield late today, killing the pilot, Winton Smith, 22, of Kansas City, and injuring Howard Stewart, about 25, of Denton.

Woman, 22, Is Jailed In Baby Kidnap Threat

Pineville, Ky., July 5 (A.P.).—Gladys Wells, Negro, 22, was held to the grand jury under $1,000 bond in county court today on a charge of threatening to kidnap Reese Bentley, 16-month-old son of George R. Bentley, cashier of the First State Bank and nephew of George Reese, president of the bank, unless Bentley put up $5,000.

Powers Agree to Suspend London Economic Parley; Way to Resumption Cleared

Gold Bloc Nations Will Set up Fund

Paris (Thursday), July 6 (U. P.).—Representatives of the central banks of the gold bloc nations—France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and Poland—will meet at the Bank of France Saturday to establish a fund to protect the gold standard.

The conference, it was said, will be prefaced by a manifesto by the six nations that they will maintain the gold standard, agreeing to act cooperatively and energetically to defend it.

Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, will preside at the meeting. M. Moret is believed to be the author of the project, which is deemed necessary in view of the increasing flight of gold from Holland.

Managed Cash Plan Revealed At White House

President Is Determined to Resist Basis Pending Price Recovery.

By Lawrence Sullivan.

No decision has been reached as yet concerning the price level ultimately to be accepted as the basis for domestic stabilization of the dollar. Mr. Roosevelt is determined, however, to resist restoration of the gold standard until the sharp advance in commodity prices at home, which now has been under way for about three months, has further stimulated general business activity.

What form of currency management will be employed in the ultimate stabilization will not be determined until the President is satisfied the advance in commodity prices has gone far enough to reestablish something approaching a "normal" relationship between prices and long-term debts.

The formula to be used in determining the desired normal relationship is not yet precisely defined in Mr. Roosevelt's mind.

In connection with the monetary problem, the White House also made it plain that no project for international exchange stablization could be considered by the United States until the domestic recovery program has expanded business operations to approximately normal.

Mr. Roosevelt was confident the London Economic Conference will not abandon its entire agenda because of the failure of the effort to stabilize international exchange. At the same time, he holds himself in readiness to pursue a vigorous program of national self-sufficiency if London fails to provide a sound basis for international trade.

Disclosure of the administration money program came only a few hours after President Roosevelt had

"Suicide's" $800 Check Recovered

"Look, a suicide," screamed a woman.

Policeman John Gribbel threw a "stop" light, halting all traffic. Hundreds gathered on City Hall Plaza and in the street, shouting and signaling for the man to get back. Women turned their heads in horror.

Then a small piece of paper was seen floating slowly to the ground. It was an $800 check which had blown out a window. The "suicide" was trying to tell the policeman to get it. The policeman did.

Final Victory Of Idea Seen By Roosevelt

Believes Each Country Must First Stabilize Own Currency.

(Associated Press.)

Still holding hope of ultimate success for the London Economic Conference, President Roosevelt received in silence last night the decision reported from abroad to suspend the parley. His position against the demands of the European gold bloc for immediate stabilization of currencies is final.

The Chief Executive, at the same time, hopes for ultimate stabilization of the world's monetary system, but he is convinced that this can not be brought about until each nation has stabilized its own currency in relation to its own domestic purchasing power.

Mr. Roosevelt maintained close touch with the rapidly shaping events in London. Lifting the telephone on his desk during the day, he talked with Chairman Hull, of the American delegation, concerning the impasse reached at the parley.

More Important Issues.

It has been the conviction of the President that the conference which carries the hopes of the world would go ahead to other problems which he considers of more importance than temporary monetary stabilization.

News from London last night of the decision to temporarily suspend the parley, possibly for two months, brought no immediate word from the White House, from where Mr. Roosevelt has made his position very clearly known to the other powers gathered at London.

The London crisis brought a fuller exposition at the White House yesterday of the President's attitude on currency stabilization, which he concedes may be important to the European nations but not to the United States.

Intent on Raising Prices.

It was pointed out that an endeavor to fix currencies in international exchange would involve the creation of a stabilization fund by the United States and a moral obligation on the part of this country to support the dollar with exports of gold.

Mr. Roosevelt, who clamped down an embargo on gold at the outset of his administration, was described as intending to keep the national gold supply within this country as collateral for American currency.

European theorists contend that gold should be used as a medium of international exchange rather than

President's Latest Word Regarded, However, as Conciliatory and Opening Path to Further Sessions When U. S. Is Ready to Stabilize.

London (Thursday), July 6 (A.P.).—Great powers of the Old and New World agreed early today to suspend the world economic conference until a more propitious time.

Thus this historic assemblage, called together in an effort to improve economic conditions throughout the world, admitted itself defeated by a violent collision of the monetary policies of the gold countries led by France, and of the nongold countries, headed by the United States.

The final decision came in a midnight meeting of the gold bloc nations, where it was decided the American stand, as reiterated by the United States delegation last evening after cable and telephonic communication with Prsident Roosevelt, only emphasized the differences which, temporarily at least, were irreconcilable.

While Americans expressed a firm conviction in the declaration addressed to the secretary general of the League of Nations that the way was still open for the conference to continue with its labors, they informally expressed willingness to acquiesce to a recess. This was tentatively set for two months' duration.

Loophole for Reopening.

The gold countries evidently were concerned over their inability to win over Great Britain, which skillfully maintained a neutral attitude, while showing distinct leanings toward the United States, and a statement issued from the yellow metal camp left wide a loophole for resumption of the conference.

The gold bloc's declaration said the American statement "will facilitate recalling of the conference" and permit it to resume later "in an atmosphere of sympathy."

Preparations were complete for presentation of the recess resolution to the steering committee meeting today.

While the American reiteration of the United States monetary stand last evening was regarded as making further progress impossible at this time, an official spokesman for the European group said "It will facilitate recalling of the conference" and expressed pleasure at the more temperate tone of the statement than that issued by President Roosevelt on Monday.

Conciliation Seen.

"It marks definite progress over the last message and confirms the differences existing between the monetary policies of the United States and Europe," the spokesman said.

"The most important aspect of the document is its evident good will and desire for understanding. If the conference adjourns now it can begin later in an atmosphere of sympathy which could not have existed if there had been violent divergences of views among the delegations. The gold bloc considers the declaration very conciliatory and it effaces whatever irritation existed over the last communication."

The conference can now be recalled, the spokesman said, whenever Mr. Roosevelt is ready to stabilize, but it is impossible to say when this would be. The spokesman indicated the view that this would not be possible for several months.

U. S. to Ignore Foreign Advice On Economics

By Harold J. T. Horan.

American foreign policy will be coordinated to the new doctrine of economic self-sufficiency, it became apparent here last night. The President's determination to ignore all considerations foreign to the increase and maintenance of American commodity prices will be followed by corresponding developments in the diplomatic world to keep pace with the tempo of the rehabilitation program.

The first of these developments already has taken place by the insertion in the national industrial recovery act of executive authority to effectively embargo all imports which threaten the home market.

This, however, is an economic weapon which the President only will have recourse to with great reluctance. It is hoped to obviate this minatory gesture by the work of whatever committees still remain in action at the London conference.

The second of these developments is the withdrawal from the league convention to abolish importation and exportation restrictions of the United States. Acting Secretary of State Phillips has formally notified the league secretary of the American decision.

Small merit was attached to the convention after it became evident that one of the signatory countries, Japan, could quite loyally keep to its agrement under the convention and still flood the United States and other countries by debasing its own currency. No gold-backed money could hope to meet the competition of this sort.

The third trend in self-sufficiency is the apparent intention of the American State Department to

Elberton Man Named To House in Georgia

Athens, Ga., July 5 (A.P.).—The Tenth Georgia Congressional District by an overwhelming vote today elected Paul Brown, attorney, of Elberton, to serve out the unexpired term of the late Charles H. Brand.

Carrying 16 of the 17 counties in the district, Mr. Brown polled a vote which was approximately two and a half times the combined vote of his eight opponents. He rolled up 12,205 votes, while his eight opponents combined had polled 5,847, with only a small number of isolated precincts not reporting.

Bank Robbed by Bandits As Townspeople Watch

Kenton, Ohio, July 5 (A.P.).—While a group of townspeople watched through the windows, two masked and heavily armed men today robbed the Wharton Bank, at Wharton, 12 miles northeast of here, and escaped with between $3,000 and $4,000.

One of the robbers remained outside while the two young men entered and forced Emory Kear, assistant cashier, to open the vault and hand them the money. The men escaped in an automobile.

Big Advances By Kuhn, Loeb To Firms Cited

$88,000,000 Loans in Five Years Cited; Taplin to Be Quizzed.

(Associated Press.)

Evidence that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. loaned more than $88,000,000 to 175 stock brokerage firms in the five-year period that saw the stock market boom and crash was made public yesterday by the Senate Banking Investigating Committee.

The evidence was contained in an exhibit submitted last week at the request of Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, who has been endeavoring to learn sources of loans for stock market purposes up to and immediately following the 1929 debacle.

The exhibit covering the years 1927 to 1931, inclusive, also listed nine loans, totaling more than $70,000,000, by the New York private banking house to foreign and domestic corporations in which the collateral consisted of securities in the issuance of which Kuhn, Loeb & Co. participated.

These disclosures coincided with preparations by the committee for resumption of its hearings today. Frank E. Taplin, Cleveland capitalist, will be questioned regarding stock he sold to the Pennroad Corporation in 1929 for $38,000,000, far above the market price at that time.

Kuhn, Loeb Was Adviser.

Mr. Taplin is a former president of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railway, stock control of which was purchased four years ago by the Pennroad Corporation, holding company of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. advised the corporation on its financing.

Mr. Taplin will be asked why he did not appear before the committee last week when it was testified that he knew the investigators were trying to serve him with a summons.

Others due to appear today before the committee winds up its investigation until October are Henry H. Lee, president of Pennroad, and A. J. County, official of that corporation and vice president of the Pennsylvania System.

The committee investigators are curious about evidence that Mr. Taplan borrowed $1,950,000 from Pennroad on June 20, 1929, a few months before he sold them the stock.

Taplin Got $37,898,100.

Mr. Taplin paid off the loan October 16 of that year when he received $37,898,100 for 222,930 shares of Pittsburgh & West Virginia stock, or about 73 per cent of that road's outstanding issue.

The Pennroad paid Mr. Taplin an average of $170 a share for the stock and testimony has been given that it was selling on the market from $110 to $140 a share at the time.

The nine Kuhn, Loeb loans aggregate more than $73,000,000 and in which Kuhn, Loeb participated in the securities pledged as collateral, were made to seven corporations as follows:

Fujimoto Securities Corporation of Japan, $1,000,000; United States Rubber Co., $1,400,000; Pennsylvania Co., subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad, $62,500,000; Delaware & Hudson Co., $113,743; Lenox Corporation, $841,199; Wellington Finance Corporation, three loans totaling $5,754,821; Adolph Zukor, $2,423,022.

Mr. Taplin was in Washington last night prepared to tell Senate investigators today why he failed to answer their summons to explain why he sold stock to the Pennroad Corporation from $30 to $60 a share above the 1929 market price.

One hour after he was scheduled to testify last Thursday, Mr. Taplin will tell his questioners, he received the committee summons in New York, where he had gone from Cleveland, presumably on business not connected with the investigation.

Mr. Taplin was in Washington last Wednesday and would have remained for the hearing Thursday had he but known the committee was expecting him, he said.

Use of Tax Fund For Works Vetoed per cent of the cost of labor and material be matched with 70 per cent by the State or municipality. Under such a strict regulation, the District would not get more than $960,000 to assist in the construction of the Calvert Street Bridge, the Woodrow Wilson High School, the Anacostia Junior High School and the contagious disease ward at Gallinger Hospital.

Projects May Be Disallowed.

For all the other projects, save the first unit of the Municipal Center, the District has no funds at all to match Federal grants. Unless these projects are accepted as Federal, in which case the public works administration would furnish 100 per cent of the cost, they probably will all be disallowed.

While the District has $500,000 to start the first unit of the $10,000,000 Municipal Center, it would be entirely inadequate to match a Federal grant.

The other items on the public works list includes numerous school improvements, a new jail, a new adult tuberculosis hospital, a new morgue, several branch libraries, reclamation of the Anacostia River flats, the Michigan avenue viaduct, Washington aqueduct, and several large sewer jobs.

Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals this week will submit to his fellow Commissioners a lengthy report on the merits of the two plans for the Calvert Street Bridge.

Commissioner Gotwals declined to reveal the contents of the report, which is based on a study demanded by the last Congress in the District appropriations act, or his recommendations. It is believed, however, that he will propose the utilization of the plan for a steel arch span instead of the masonry design of George Oakley Totten, jr.

The Fine Arts Commission must approve the new plan after the District heads have acted upon Maj. Gotwals report before the bridge can be put under construction.

Son Fears Factor, Kidnaped, Is Dead

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—Jerome Factor professed tonight to have grave fears for the life of his father as the fifth day passed without word from the kidnapers of John Factor, alleged swindler of British investors.

He acknowledged that two messages had come by telephone demanding first $75,000 and then $200,000 for his father's ransom, but pronounced each a hoax.

"If they had been authentic, the kidnapers would probably have followed them up with something more definite," young Factor said.

Lack of communications had set his family to worrying, he added, for he had personal experience with kidnapers and anticipated some action before today.

"From my own experience, I know this is not the usual procedure," Jerome, 19-year-old college student, said. He was kidnaped for eight days last April. "They kept me for eight days, but only a few days elapsed before negotiations were begun by my father. Our only hope is that the men are dealing directly with him."

There seemed to be little activity about the Loop hotel quarters. Mrs. Factor was described as "prostrated." Police were notably absent.

Sugar Chiefs Prepare Plan For America

(Associated Press.)

After laboring a full week, Sunday and the Fourth of July included, leaders of all elements supplying the United States Sugar Market, meeting as a conference subcommittee, yesterday completed a draft agreement which will be submitted today to the general committee for debate.

Considerable debate was in prospect, as only one point of complete agreement was reached in the formula—the arbitrary fixing of the probable domestic sugar consumption in 1933-34 at 6,200,000 tons.

Individual estimates of production, domestic, insular and the suggested Cuban quota were said to aggregate considerably higher than the total which it was agreed would fill the United States sugar bowl next year.

The draft agreement to be considered under the farm relief act follows with a proposal that the various sections serving the United States market be allotted annual quotas, but goes no further than this.

Where quotas were mentioned, blank spaces were left after the names of each continental and insular division, to be filled in if understandings to that end can be reached in the steering committee. The question of Cuba's allotment also has been held in abeyance, although a figure somewhat under 2,000,000 tons has been most discussed.

The draft plan recognizes that the 1933-34 crop already is in the ground and nothing could be done at this time to curtail production for the coming year.

By this method, farm act administrators next year will have available definite data on domestic consumption and the 1933-34 production totals for the United States cane and beet sugar industries, Hawaii, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, and a fair estimate of what may be expected from Cuba.

White House Bares Managed Cash Aim

Whether the conversation imparted news of decisive developments in the economic conference was not revealed. To all appearance, however, the President's program contemplates an early recess at London, if not a final adjournment of the conference this week.

As the President views the matter, permanent stabilization of international exchange on a sound basis might be achieved eventually by every country's following a monetary policy similar to that laid down for the United States.

Through managed currency, each country eventually would achieve a stable money. This accomplished, the determination of exchange rates would follow naturally. These exchanges would remain stable so long as the various national currencies were soundly managed.

But Mr. Roosevelt has not yet made any effort to work out all the subtle complexities of such an arrangement. For the moment his every energy is centered upon further advancing American prices. He is confident that the success of the program in the United States will offer ample incentive to other nations to follow our example.

White House authorities offer no explanation of the confusion which developed at London concerning the American attitude on temporary exchange stabilization. There has been no official denial that in the preliminary conversations here in April Mr. Roosevelt committed himself to quick stabilization at London, but if such a policy was set down at Washington in April, as London, Paris and Rome appeared to understand, it has been for the time being wholly abandoned.

From early March, when President Roosevelt determined upon his policy of managed currency, it has been generally understood in administration circles that the general objective of the program was the restoration of 1926 price levels. Now, however, there is some uncertainty in official quarters whether the 1926 level is not a bit too high for a permanent base.

There are several schools of thought on the question and Mr. Roosevelt is still considering the whole problem with an open mind. He believes that perhaps it may be wise not to attempt permanent domestic stabilization on the basis of a rigid price index as of any particular date.

There was no indication concerning what the President has in mind as a money-value formula if no definite and specific price index is used.

More Industry Codes Wanted By WhiteHouse

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

President Roosevelt yesterday plunged into the task of speeding up the workings of the machinery set up to revive the economic life of the Nation.

Confronted with growing evidence of delays in setting up codes for various industries, designed to increase wages and employment, the Chief Executive called into a long conference yesterday Secretary of Commerce Roper, head of the Industrial Recovery Board, and Secretary of Interior Ickes, head of the Public Works Board. Today he is to confer again with Secretary Roper and Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the industrial recovery machinery.

One of the problems which the President is expected to be called on to decide is what to do about rapidly increasing production and increasing prices in many industries.

Reports received by the Recovery Administration show that many manufacturers are running their plants at maximum capacity in expectation of fatter profits when wages are increased in their lines under the proposed new codes.

Gen. Johnson has said he would be loath to employ either the punitive powers provided in the act through licensing or the curtailment of production on the part of individual manufacturers or whole industries, but labor representatives and others have urged need for quick action.

So far there has been only one code, that of the cotton textile industry, acted on. That has not yet gone to the President for his approval, which is necessary to make it effective. The women's wear industry is expected to be taken up formally in the next few days and several other industries have submitted codes. But many of the larger industries have not been able to get together, apparently, and some manner of speeding their submission is being looked for by officials.

Edward R. Stettinius, jr., vice president of the General Motors Corporation, was named yesterday by the industrial advisory board as its liaison officer with the recovery administration. Mr. Stettinius is a member of the board of eight prominent business men who comprise the board. He will have offices in Washington.

Redmon Entry Wins Culpeper Plate Event

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 5.—Holly, E. L. Redmon entry, won the Culpeper challenge plate in the hunter championship to climax the two-day Culpeper horse show which concluded here today.

Clearanfast, winner last year for Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Plummer, of Washington, did not compete. The plate must be won three times by the same exhibitor to become his property. Only 2,500 people, the smallest crowd in years, attended the show today.

U. S. Will Pass Up Economic Advice

choose its partners for reciprocal trade agreements, instead of according all the countries of the world the opportunity of quid pro quo tariff pacts.

Acting Secretary of State Phillips was dubious yesterday of the breadth of purpose of the reciprocity disposition of this Government. Many countries had sent special missions to the United States at the time of the White House exchange of views with the idea of subsequently erecting on that foundation a substantial and profitable trade agreement between their individual selves and the United States.

Argentina Plans Action.

The Argentine government was planning to send a trade commission to the United States to study the possibilities of closer trade relations between the two countries. Great Britain had hitherto absorbed most of the Argentine products, not, of course, without certain corresponding advantages to British banks which the Argentine entrepreneur often found onerous.

The intention of the Argentine government has failed, however, to stir any reciprocal enthusiasm in the official ranges of the United States Government. The disposition of this Government seems to be in favor of a reciprocal agreement with the "coffee bloc" countries, which did not compete in any agricultural degree with the United States.

Cuba and Mexico also seem to be assured of a place on the preferred list of the State Department, but Canada, toward which the United States is extending the most cordial invitation to trade reciprocity, seems to be sulking. The sudden devaluation of the American dollar has caused swift reaction in Canadian commercial circles in favor of a closer monetary union with Great Britain, even going so far as the substitution of the British pound.

Grain Nations Ask Aid of Consumers

Committee Named to Seek Plan for Restriction of Production.

London, July 5 (A.P.).—Negotiations for a wheat production restriction program to permit a depletion of the huge North American surplus and to aid in an increase of price shifted today from the big four producing nations to discussion with European producing and consuming states.

The purpose was to determine how far they will be willing to cooperate.

Appointment of a committee to carry on such work was made after an announcement that the four principal wheat-producing countries of the world, the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina had agreed "in principle on a policy of temporary adjustment of production and trade to world demand."

Regular Expenses Will Be Segregated From Those of Recovery Drive.

(Associated Press.)

The Government put a double budget system into effect yesterday under which the regular, general expenses of Federal departments will be segregated from expenditures listed as extraordinary.

Under the latter heading will come the moneys spent for carrying on the various organizations that have been set up for the recovery program. The normal expenses of governmental departments will be listed as usual.

The plan was decided upon some time ago. The President, in his efforts to balance the budget, has said that he did not consider that extraordinary expenses should be placed in the same category with the regular and normal costs of Government departments.

Sees War-Time Analogy.

Some time ago he was described as feeling that, just as war-time expenditures are funded over a long period, so should those of a peace-time emergency. Thus the expenses of his recovery drive would not be placed under the head of current operations.

The new bookkeeping methods, put into effect July 1 at the start of the 1934 fiscal year, prevented issuance yesterday of the Treasury's usual daily statement, pending final determination of the form of the balance sheet.

The statement, issued for every business day in the year, details all expenditures and receipts of the Government. With the start of the new fiscal year it was planned to change the form so that it would not only give all of the information contained in the old statement regarding the general expenditures of the Government, but also would show receipts and expenditures of the extraordinary operations of the Government.

Assailed by Republicans.

Under the system the Government would endeavor to balance its ordinary budget and keep its general expenditures in step with its receipts during the fiscal year. Under the extraordinary section of the statement would be included the operations of the organizations which would be financed from bond issues. These, although they would bring about an increase in the public debt, would not affect the Government's regular budget.

Physical Education Stressed by Doctor

Mackert, in Talk at Club, Advises Parents on Care of Children.

"Parents should investigate the physical education given their children in schools just as they make periodical examinations of their automobiles," said Dr. Charles L. Mackert, director of physical education of Maryland University, in a talk at the Optimist Club luncheon yesterday.

"Taxpayers are too prone to turn their children over to the schools at the age of 6 and never take the trouble to investigate what they receive in the way of physical education," said Dr. Mackert.

Dr. Mackert warned middle-aged persons that physical culture practices for them were frequently dangerous and often did more damage than good.

Roosevelt Visions Ultimate Success

as collateral for national currencies.

Purchasing Power Key.

He was pictured as believing it would be futile to seek a stabilization in international exchange of currencies until all nations have found the level of their own domestic purchasing power.

After this is accomplished the President was said to be hopeful that a permanent exchange value might be made in relation to other currencies. In determining the domestic purchasing power of the dollar Mr. Roosevelt was described as believing more time is required, but it was said to be the intention of the President to find the averages in each commodity.

Some advisers are urging that the 1926 price level be taken. Others contend this is too high and that the basis of prices of 1924 or 1925 should be sought.

Mr. Roosevelt was depicted as desiring to know why there is need for such hurry for stabilization of currencies in international exchange. It was pointed out at the White House that the United States has been off the gold standard only three months, whereas England has had almost two years to find her bearings adrift from the gold standard and that France was off the gold standard for almost four years.

Sees Parley Continuance.

Showing his confidence in a continuation of the London parley, Mr. Roosevelt dispatched Lawrence Steinhardt, his minister to Sweden, to the London conference yesterday with oral instructions to the delegates. Steinhardt will leave today and expects to remain at London for a week before going to his post at Stockholm to make a special study of the Russian problem.

In giving his attention to the domestic situation in the campaign to raise prices and wages, the President conferred during his first day back at the White House from his sea vacation with the heads of the special recovery boards—Secretaries Ickes, Roper and Wallace.

At the White House belief was expressed that the London Economic Conference could not quit. Upon this thought and hope, Mr. Roosevelt bases his confidence that the meeting will tackle other problems aside from currency stabilization.

It was the understanding at the White House that the Federal Reserve banks have no right to speculate in the foreign exchange in an effort to peg the dollar.

Rotary Club's New President Takes Office

Dr. H. E. Howe Installed as Dr. A. C. Christie Is Given Watch.

Dr. Harrison E. Howe, science writer, was installed as president of the Washington Rotary Club at its annual report luncheon yesterday at the Willard Hotel. Dr. Howe succeeds Dr. Arthur C. Christie.

Work of the club during the past year, outlined in the annual report, included loans to college students, maintenance of the Georgetown Boys' Club and operation of the Rotary Club bus. The reports were given by A. F. E. Horn, club service committee; Edwin S. Goodloe, vocational service committee; Henry N. Brawner, jr., community service.

Dr. Christie was presented with a gold watch and special past president's badge. Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, made the presentation.

The new president is editor of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, and is the author of a number of books on science.

Twenty-two visiting Rotarians, including a number from foreign countries, were introduced at the meeting.

When he returned he discovered that some one had found the hiding place of his money and made way with it.

Rules for Sales Of Securities to Be GivenToday

Baldwin Bane, of Virginia, Will Administer Law Protecting Public.

(Associated Press.)

Regulations for protecting the investing public against the sale of worthless securities were completed by the Federal Trade Commission late last night and will be promulgated today.

They are the rules by which the commission will administer the Federal securities act for government supervision of interstate sales. The law signed by President Roosevelt, May 27, was a major item in his special session program. Along with the regulations, the commission will make public the forms on which any business issuing securities must report a detailed financial statement to the government.

Chairman Charles March said the first registration certificates will be received by the commission Friday and not on Thursday, as originally planned. It was learned, also, that Baldwin B. Bane, a Virginia Democrat, will have charge of the securities division of the commission and serve as administrator of the law. Bane has been a trial attorney for the commission since 1919, served overseas during the war and is a graduate of Randolph-Macon and Washington and Lee University. He is 42 years old.

That registration of all securities sold in interstate commerce does not become mandatory until July 27. Registration statements, however, must be on file 20 days before becoming effective. Therefore, in order to sell new securities for 20 days after July 27, companies must report their financial condition beforehand.

The commission has ten days after receiving a registration statement to notify filers of any inaccuracies. It may at any time thereafter, however, cancel the registration, should it decide the statement contained misrepresentations.

"Let the seller beware" is the watchword of the new act, which March said "will change the artery of commerce." Civil and criminal liability is possible for violators of the law. The act covers both domestic securities issues and those of foreign governments. In both cases the commission will define what facts sales prospectuses must contain.

Frederick Special Primary Is Called

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 5.—Democratic executive chairmen of the City of Winchester and Clarke and Frederick Counties today called a special party primary for August 1 to select a candidate for the special election August 7, when a member of the Virginia House of Delegates will be selected to fill out the unexpired term of the late Joseph S. Denny, of this district.

Calling of the special primary was made necessary by Gov. Pollard's order for special elections to fill all legislative vacancies before the Virginia Legislature convenes in extraordinary session August 10 to consider the legalizing of beer.

Candidates for the party primary must file with the clerks of the court in this district by Saturday, the chairman ruled.

Anti-Stabilization Stressed In Text of U. S. Parley Note

London, July 5 (A.P.).—The text of the statement handed to the secretary-general of the League of Nations in London today concerning the stand of the United States in connection with the World Monetary and Economic Conference follows:

The President has made it clear that he saw no utility at the present time in temporary stabilization between currencies of countries whose needs and policies are not necessarily the same.

Such stabilization would be artificial and unreal and might hamper individual countries in realizing policies essential to their domestic problems.

He urged the conference to seek consideration of its fundamental tasks of facilitating policies by the different nations directly, not to temporary expedients but to mitigating and, if possible, remedying the harassing evils of the present economic situation.

U. S. Interest Cited.

In the hope that the United States may be of help to the conference, to whose success and friendly cooperation the President continues to attach the greatest importance, it may be useful that we should develop this thought somewhat more fully.

Revaluation of the dollar in terms of American commodities is an end from which the Government and people of the United States can not be diverted.

We wish to make this perfectly clear. We are interested in American commodity prices. What is to be the value of the dollar in terms of foreign currencies is not and can not be our immediate concern.

The exchange value of the dollar will ultimately depend upon the success of other nations in raising the prices of their own commodities in terms of their national money, and can not be determined in advance of our knowledge of such fact.

Nothing Mimical Seen.

There is nothing in our policy inimical to the interests of any other country and we are confident that no other country would seek to embarrass us in the attainment of the economic ends required for our economic health.

When the currencies of those great nations of the continent of Europe—France, Italy and Belgium—depreciated over a period of years, there was no criticism from us, nor did we criticize their ultimate devaluation.

And when Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries went off the gold standard there was only sympathetic understanding in the United States.

Great Britain has been off the gold standard for nearly a year and three-quarters, and the United States has been off less than three months.

Nevertheless we are glad to be able to associate ourselves with the statement of British policy made yesterday, July 4, in the House of Commons by the financial secretary to the treasury, when, speaking in the name of the chancellor of the exchequer, he said:

"My right honorable friend has on a number of occasions expressed the view of his majesty's government that although a return to the gold standard might be our ultimate objective when proper conditions were assured, we must reserve complete liberty to choose both our own time and parity. He does not think he can usefully add anything to that statement now."

If there are countries where prices and costs are already in actual equilibrium we do not regard it to be the task of the conference, as it certainly is not the purpose of the American Government, to persuade or compel them to pursue policies contrary to their own conception of their own interests.

Present Evils Temporary.

It is not sufficient to escape from present evils, but it is our duty to consider together how to avoid a recurrence in the future.

The first task is to restore prices to a level at which industry and, above all, agriculture, can function profitably and efficiently.

The second task is to preserve the stability of this adjustment, once achieved.

The part which gold and silver should play after adjustment has been secured would seem a further subject suitable for consideration by the conference.

We conceive, therefore, that the great problems which justify the assembling of nations are as present today and as deserving of exploration as was the case a few weeks ago; and we find it difficult to conceive that the view which it has been our obvious duty to take on the minor issues of temporary stabilization can in any way diminish the advisability of such discussion.

U. S. Interference Held Slump Cause

Charlottesville, Va., July 5 (A.P.).—Dr. Rufus S. Tucker, former chief analyst for the Department of the Treasury, in an address before the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs today said the way to avoid future depressions is to reduce, not increase, Government interference in industry.

Along with Dr. Tucker's discussions of depressions, the Institute listened to Dean Raymond Pinchbeck, of University of Richmond, recommend that Virginia's 100 counties be consolidated into 40 or 50 geographical units.

Dr. Tucker said his suggestion did not mean that legislation of a purely humanitarian sort was inadvisable.

Secretary Roper announced the 896 departmental separations and furloughs, as well as the 995 already made in the Commerce Department's field service, are based on the department's possible expenditure of $29,000,000. Budget Director Douglas had asked the Secretary to cut his budget to $26,000,000.

"We have advised the Director of the Budget that we shall continue to study this situation," Mr. Roper told newspapermen.

"Business is improving and we assume that this will be reflected in the needed service from the department. We can, therefore, hope to look to a larger income for the Government for 1934 than was estimated in April, and the service of the department may, in that event, justify us in using more people than the financial conditions at the present time justify."

He said he is seeking to convince the Public Works Administration of the advisability of having some of its funds allocated to the Commerce Department.

The Commerce Secretary added he has spared no efforts to find jobs for those workers who have been let out.

Urged Employment in March.

"As far back as March, when the bill for increasing agricultural purchasing power was under consideration, I proposed the use of some of the surplus personnel of this department in connection with new units which might be set up through congressional action at the special session of Congress," he said.

"We have followed this proposal, and the Civil Service Commission is being furnished with the names of the employes separated from the department, with the idea of assisting us in having them considered by these new organizations which have been or are being created.

"In anticipation of the reduction in our personnel we furnished to the departments under which the new units were created a list of persons whose services might be utilized by them, and also gave to the Civil Service Commission a preliminary list of employes whose names could be placed on the re-employment register."

The tabulation of Commerce Department separations showed 18 released from the secretary's office, 15 departmental and 315 field workers from the aeronautics branch, 37 from Census, 435 departmental and 297 field workers from Foreign and Domestic Commerce, 38 Bureau of Standards workers released, 296 in Washington and 35 in the field indefinitely furloughed; 13 field workers released from Fisheries, 1 departmental and 20 field workers dropped from the Lighthouse Bureau, 55 departmental and 135 field workers let out of the Bureau of Mines, and 1 Washington employe separated from the Patent Office. In addition every Commerce Department unit will get a 15-day payless furlough. In the case of the Census Bureau, it will be longer.

Balbo Poised To Hop Today For Labrador

Reykjavik, Iceland, July 5 (U.P.). The Italian aerial fleet, westward bound over the north Atlantic for Chicago, landed on the choppy waters of Reykjavik Harbor late today, after an uneventful flight northwest from Londonderry, Ireland.

The first of the 24 seaplanes were sighted flying high over the Iceland capital at 4:45 p. m. Led by Gen. Italo Balbo, Italy's air minister, the first squadron of three circled over the harbor craft, where whistles shrieked and crowds cheered. The pilots then nosed their big planes into the wind and brought them gracefully down to the water's surface.

The others came in high and fast from the southeast, in perfect formations, and the last plane came to rest with its mates at 5:35 p. m. The Italian airmen, some 100 in number, were given a tumultuous welcome by practically the entire population of Reykjavik.

It was one of the most inspiring sights the fisherfolk of the Icelandic capital had witnessed in years. The roar of the motors joined with the hoarse blasts from watercraft below.

Gen. Balboa reported the flight "proceeded normally" from Ireland. Visibility was clear on the last half of the flight, and the sea perfect. They passed the Faroe Islands on the way, dipped their wings in salute to the few inhabitants and sped on their way here.

Gen. Balbo hoped to be able to hurry on to Sandwich Bay, Labrador, possibly at dawn tomorrow, after a good night's rest here. The airmen retired early after the 930-mile flight from Londonderry, to be prepared for the grueling grind westward toward the North American continent in the morning.

The next phase will be one of the most hazardous of the entire remarkable flight from Ortobello Airport, Italy. It is a 1,500-mile hop over the treacherous, blustery sub-Arctic Atlantic. Once at Labrador, the airmen should have comparatively easy going.

They are to proceed to Montreal, 1,000 miles from Sandwich Bay, and thence on to Chicago, where they should arrive by the first of next week, at the latest, or possibly by Sunday, weather permitting.

Two Rescued Tell Of Trio Drowned

Somewhat recovered by the time he arrived here today, Knowles said that he was going to New York for a visit as a passenger on the Wilder, which was bound there from Jacksonville with a load of lumber.

The barge was in tow of the tug Brooks Scanlon, but was abandoned in heavy weather Sunday afternoon and shortly afterward the five men on board took to their dory, expecting the tug to pick them up. They soon drifted out of sight, however.

Sturko told how the men on the barge manned the pumps all day Saturday and on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock got into the dory, accompanied by Lewis' dog.

After they had been in the small boat for an hour, he said the Freighter Kent came by and offered to pick them up, but they refused, still hoping their towing tug would come back and find them. Soon after this high seas overturned the dory. "At about 6 o'clock 'Pop' Lewis gave out and sank." Sturko said. "The dog thought a lot of him. He swam out to where the body sank. We heard him bark once or twice, but he didn't come back."

At about 6:30 o'clock, Frank—he was 28 years old and I don't know his last name—gave up. He waved good-by to us. There was nothing we could do. At about 7 o'clock Ben Knowles had to quit. He had been on his feet a long time trying to save the barge and was exhausted. He shook hands with us. His father began to cry. Capt. Ben just went under and didn't come up.

Ships Warned As Hurricane Heads to Texas

Brownsville, Tex., July 5 (A.P.). High tides and heavy seas marked the aproach of a violent tropical disturbance across the Gulf of Mexico toward the mouth of the Rio Grande tonight.

Observers late today estimated it was 300 miles slightly south of east of Brownsville. The city is situated 20 miles from the point where the great river of the North empties its waters into the gulf.

Barometer readings dropped slowly but steadily all day from Corpus Christi, 125 miles to the north, to Brownsville. In a three-hour reading period during midday the barometer dropped from 29.90 to 29.80 at Corpus Christi, and from 29.90 to 29.76 here.

Heavy seas, tides above normal and north winds were reported from the upper coast from Galveston to Port Arthur, but barometer readings were close to normal. In those sections, the gulf disturbance was believed to be "pulling" the winds toward it.

An airplane from the municipal airport there went out to warn fishermen and meteorologists urged those persons living in the lowlands to vacate by nightfall. A section at the extreme north end of Padre Island was quickly cleared.

There is no appreciable amount of property along the coast toward Corpus Christi and the storm would strike first the long Padre Island, a sandy waste. Most towns of consequence are situated 10 to 25 miles inland from the gulf and the principal damage expected was loss of cotton, now rapidly opening, and the blowing of fruit from citrus trees.

Col. Sawyer Now Vies for Title of Busiest Man in Washington.

By Robert F. Whitney.

Just the other day, among the many thousands of letters that pour into the offices of the Public Works Administration, was one addressed simply: "Col. Donald Sawyer, Work Administrator."

It bore the postmark of Ottawa, Ill., which may have been the reason why the colonel read all of it. It was from Rebecca, an aged former Negro servant of the Sawyer family.

Rebecca recalled the childhood days of "Mr. Donald," and expressed the fervent hope that he would make "a lot of jobs for the millions of men out of work."

That is Col. Sawyer's job all right.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's claims to the title of the busiest and hardest-to-see man in Washington might be disputed by Col. Donald Hubbard Sawyer.

For the civil engineer, drafted to the Nation's service for the third time in his career, this time to head the biggest construction program in history, is on a morning, noon and night schedule.

Thousand callers a Day.

A thousand visitors a day crowd the office from which he is planning the allocation of $3,300,000,000 for the work project to make millions of jobs.

Col. Sawyer was busy at civil engineering in Spokane and Seattle in 1917 when the Army decided that it needed him to speed up wartime construction.

His first job was the building of Camp Grant in his native State, Illinois. This he did, one of the largest of the Army camps, in record time.

He also was given the jobs of building Camp Bragg at Fayettsville, N. C., and a nitrate plant at Cincinnati. The war over, he hung up his uniform to return to civil engineering.

Col. Sawyer is essentially a builder and engineer. He believes in getting things done in a hurry, but well done. There is no room for much red tape in his idea of things.

Answered Second Call in 1931.

The colonel is an emergency man. He answered the Government's second call in 1931, when he was commandeered to head the Federal Employment Stabilization Board.

This organization was designed to plan Federal public works six years in advance and its work is used today as a guide by the Cabinet Advisory Board in the great public works program.

Col. Sawyer points out that had this procedure of planning been in vogue in the cities and States of the country, it would not now be necessary to send out an S. O. S. for programs of public enterprise in response to the national recovery act.

Col. Sawyer is 54 years old. He was born at Mount Pulaski, Ill., and was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1902. He practiced his profession in Illinois and in the Pacific Northwest until the World War.

Air Industry Faces Return To Prosperity

Record Expert Figures Are Revealed; War Planes Demand Heavy.

By Charles E. Planck.

Prosperity shows signs of returning to the aviation industry.

Exports of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation of New York, since the first of the year total $2,500,000, a figure equal to the entire exports of the company for 1932.

United Airlines, faced with unprecedented traffic on their coast-to-coast passenger and mail schedules, have placed an order with the Boeing Co. of Seattle for fifteen more of the 3-mile-a-minute passenger, express and mail planes, of which 40 are now at work on the company's routes.

Overtime Schedule.

The Douglas Co. of Santa Monica, Calif., are working overtime building almost a score of large transports for the Transcontinental and Western Air Lines.

Airplane factories in St. Louis, and in Northville, Mich., are working full time building new planes to be placed on the widespread network operated by American Airlines.

Other factories in California are building planes for passenger service here and abroad.

The Curtiss Co., through Thomas A. Morgan, president, lists military equipment as the major part of the huge export business. There were 101 airplanes on the orders, among which were 54 Curtiss "Hawks," powered by the new 700-horsepower engines, 9 "Falcons," observation planes, 9 training planes, 4 "Ospreys," and 30 Cyclone engines of 700 horsepower.

Fokker Buys Heavily.

Mr. Morgan described the new and successful efforts of his salesmen in countries that hitherto had been buying but only a few planes from this country. The company also is selling many engines to manufacturers of planes in foreign countries, notably the Fokker Airplane Crporation in Holland.

During the past six months the company has made shipments to China, Russia, Germany, Spain, Poland, Switzerland, France, Holland, Italy; Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Bulgaria, Colombia, Chile, Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador, Venezuela, Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, Santo Domingo, Puerto Rico, Cuba, El Salvador, Canada, Australia, Phillippines, Turkey and the Dutch East Indies.

At the request of the Turkish government, the Curtiss-Wright Co. has surveyed 4,200 miles of proposed airways in Turkey. The first airline of the Turkish government is now in operation between Ankara and Istanbul, using American-built planes flown by American pilots. The government purchased 24 American planes for army pursuit work, having a speed of 200 miles an hour, and now is building pursuit and training planes under American patents in a Turkish plant at Eskisehir.

Month after month this year passenger records have been broken on almost every airline. The United Airlines' 21-hour service from coast-to-coast has been flown in sections frequently during the last three months, and the 40 new planes on that line will be supplemented by the 15 in the latest order. The planes carry ten passengers, their baggage, mail, two pilots and a stewardess at 171 miles an hour.

The daily mileage of United Airlines planes has been increased to 45,000. July 1, the company increased its service between New York and Chicago from 8 to 11 planes daily.

Air lines, long accustomed to red ink on their books, are flying into the black with planes of a new design, faster, more comfortable and much more economical in operation. The faster a plane can fly with its proper load the less time it spends in the air, and this decreases depreciation, crew's pay and maintenance charges. Lines that "cruised" at 110 and 120 miles an hour last year are this year flying at 150 to 175 miles an hour. The increased speed has been accompanied by improved records of safety and increased passenger comfort.

For aviation generally prosperity seems to be just around the cloud, and the cloud is thinning out.

Paralyzed Woman to Benefit From Dance by Co-Workers

Hotel Employes Hope to Aid Mrs. Elsie Ballentine Another Year.

That friendship goes beyond distance and physical suffering is attested to in the efforts of the friends of Mrs. Elsie Ballentine, who at 10 o'clock tomorrow night will hold a dance at the Raleigh Hotel to aid her in a fight against infantile paralysis.

Mrs. Ballentine, now a patient at the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation Hospital, won the hearts of her coworkers when she was employed at the Raleigh and Annapolis Hotels. Stricken with paralysis last September, she reaped the harvest of good fellowship.

Rather than desert their friend, employes of the two hostelries formed a nameless association to aid her.

While she was at Gallinger Hospital receiving treatment, they learned that she might be treated with success at the Foundation Hospital at Georgia. A dance was held for her benefit and Mrs. Ballentine was sent to the hospital. Later a boat trip was held and enough money was realized to buy necessary steel braces for the stricken woman.

The dance tomorrow night is sponsored by Joe Turner, local athletic promoter, and E. C. Owen, manager of the Raleigh Hotel. The proceeds will be used to keep Mrs. Ballentine at the hospital for another year. The additional treatment is expected to return the use of her limbs. Mrs. Velda Earnest, who worked with Mrs. Ballentine for several years, is arranging the benefit dance.

3,000 Applaud Pan-American Union Concert

Chilean Singer, Army Band and Lisa Gardiner Are Featured.

Jointly celebrating the 122nd anniversary of the independence of Venezuela and the 157th of the United States of America, the Pan-American Union presented last evening its sixty-sixth concert of Latin-American music, played by the United States Army Band, under the direction of Capt. William J. Stannard, with Leopoldo Gutierrez, distinguished Chilean barytone, and Lisa Gardiner and her dancers as guest artists.

Senor Gutierrez's contribution to the program, presented in the exotic Aztec garden before an audience of more than 3,000, was especially noteworthy for the concert premieres of "Senora Tenacion" (Lara); "Mandrugo" (de Morales); "Quietude" (Elie); "Devozione" (Mignone), and the monologue from the last act of Mignone's opera, "O Contractador dos Diamantes," as well as for the already introduced "Estilo Criollo" (Tucci); "El Copihue Rojo" (Contreras), and "Si Tu Supieras" (Lecuona). Senor Gutierrez was accompanied at the piano by Irene Hampden.

Lisa Gardiner Triumphs.

A triumph for her, no less than for the sagacity of the Pan-American Union in presenting dances for the first time, was Lisa Gardiner's interpretations of the folk melody, "Sanunga," and Partichela's "Jarabe Tapatio." In the "Yaqui Dance" (Alvarado) Jeanne Densmore, Eda Vomacka, Alice Louise Hunter, Cristine Stewart and Esther Whited, all decked out in "war paint and feathers," were acclaimed no less spontaneously than Miss Gardiner. Miss Gardiner's performance last evening marked the high spot of her career.

Chief among the premiers for this series of concerts was "Quenas" (Lavalle), arranged and conducted by Maj. R. J. Hernandez, U. S. A. retired, and featuring the quena, the five-tone shepherd-pipe of the Incas (and still used in the highlands of Peru and Bolivia), the Peruvian harp, and native drums. An eerie, plaintive melody, sometimes startling in contrast with the tonal capacity of the present-day instruments, was produced, a melody that stood out in high relief against the fantasia capricho No. 3, "Aires Colombianos (Murille), "Conciones y Danzas" (Boero), "Yo Me Encelere" (Garcia), and "Triunfo de Amor" (Fonseca), the other band premieres.

Musicians Are Applauded.

The Maya-Quiche selection "Xelaju" (Diaz), a quintette for marimbas and string bass, received its first rendition by Musicians John Baumann, Joseph L. Young, Clyde Borman, Charles D. Hershey and Frederick Tovornick. A cornet solo, "Amapola" (Lacalle), was played by Musician Charles W. Barnes, and a trombone solo, "La Aurora Brilla" (Maza), was offered by Musician William F. Raymond, accompanied on the xylophone and vibraphone by John Baumann, on the banjo by Wallace Kirsch, on the celeste by Harry L. Wagner, and on the string bass by Elisha Bailey.

The program was opened with Arruda's stirring marcha militaire, "O Desfile," and was closed with the Venezuelan National Anthem and "The Star-Spangled Banner," a program of inherent beauty studded with novelties, played amidst the transplanted Aztec splendors, that will take its place in the memory as one of the Pan-American Union's most delightful concerts.

Stork Loses

Father-to-Be on Time by Seizing Woman's Taxi Despite Attacks.

Salt Lake City, July 5 (A.P.).—William Flanagan's race with the stork early today entailed various assaults and strategems—against Mr. Flanagan—but he beat the bird by a comfortable nose, notwithstanding.

Apprised that Mrs. Flanagan had a rendezvous with the stork at a hospital, Flanagan applied at a taxicab office for transportation. The only cab available contained a woman fare who declined to quit it.

In the extremity, Mr. Flanagan got aboard with the purpose of dropping the woman at a downtown hotel. Before he reached it, however, two men in a motorcar halted the cab, demanded to know what he was doing with the woman, pulled the driver and Flanagan out, beat them and then fled, along with the woman.

Flanagan had hardly resumed his way home when the pair again appeared and attempted to ram the car with their machine, police were summoned and, thus escorted Flanagan proceeded home and then with Mrs. Flanagan to the hospital.

The baby was a boy.

Daughter of Late West Virginia Operator Dies of Pneumonia.

Miss Nancy Walton Jones, 17-year-old daughter of Mrs. Edith J. Jones, of 2511 Tracy place, and the late James Ellwood Jones, West Virginia coal operator, died yesterday morning at the family country home in Switchback Mountain, Maybeury, West Virginia, after a three weeks' illness of influenza-pneumonia.

After completing her studies at Holton Arms, where she was active in outdoor sports, including tennis and riding, Miss Jones went to Paris to study art and languages at Princess Mestchersky's school. It was on her trip home from Europe she contracted a cold which developed into pneumonia on her arrival in West Virginia.

Miss Jones, who was one of the most popular and attractive members of the younger set, was to have been presented to society next year. Miss Jones' father, the late Col. James Ellwood Jones, who himself died only six months ago, was a graduate mining engineer of Columbia University. He was a prominent coal operator in the bituminous field of West Virginia and had considerable silver holdings in Colorado. He was the Republican nominee for the United States Senate from West Virginia in the recent senatorial campaign.

Miss Jones was related to the Bowen family of Virginia and West Virginia, and through her mother with the Marshall, Jenkins, Walton, Borntraeger and Evans families of Pittsburgh.

Surviving Miss Jones, besides her mother, is her brother, James, jr., a student at the Fay School, Southboro, Mass. The funeral service will take place in the family home at Bramwell, W. Va., at 3 o'clock this afternoon, with interment in the family burial ground at Bramwell.

Record Low Marriage Mark

For First Period in 21 Years, the Number of Weddings in United States Is Under the Million Mark.

(Associated Press.)

A new all-time marriage low of only 7.87 marriages for each 1,000 of populaton was set in the hard times year of 1932.

For the first time in 21 years, the number of marriages in this country fell below the million mark. There were only 981,759 in the year, a 7.5 per cent decrease from the year before.

Whether the figure will increase this year may never be known, since there is some doubt as to the continuation of the marriage and divorce statistics service because of another threatened economy cut.

Annual marriage rate statistics date back to 1887 and in all that time the rate has never before fallen below 8.5 per cent per 1,000.

Here's how the marriage rate went down from 1929 to 1932: 10.14; 9.15; 8.54; 7.87.

"Hard times hit even the Nevada marriage market," said Miss Hagan.

The divorce rate was on the upward climb the entire time from 1887 until the stock market crash of 1929. It has fallen since then, however, 4.9 per cent in 1930; 4.1 per cent in 1931, and 4.1 per cent in the 1932 statistics announced today.

There were 160,329 divorces granted in the United States in 1932, as compared to 183,664 in 1931.

Repeal Session Set for Aug. 17 By Gov. Pollard

Executive Postpones Meeting One Week at Request of Members.

Richmond, Va., July 5 (A.P.).—August 17 today was designated by Gov. Pollard for the convening of a special session of the Virginia General Assembly, demanded by assemblymen who pledged themselves to confine its work to legalizing beer, preparation for eighteenth amendment repeal referendum, and public works legislation.

In setting the date, Gov. Pollard said he had yielded to requests from assemblymen and others in postponing it one week from the August 10 date he tentatively set. He said also that the convention postponement might be correspondingly applied to special elections necessary for filling ten vacancies prior to the session.

The governor pointed out that it is not necessary to hold all of these elections on the same date, and those desiring to postpone them as much as a week after the August 7 date he set might do so.

Among other developments in the Virginia beer situation today were the announcement by the State tax department that beer purchases by merchants would be included with merchandise taxable under the State merchants license law, and the seizure by the State prohibition agents of 175 cases of 3.2 beer on Petersburg turpike, with the arrest of two men on charges of transporting ardent spirits.

The Federal Diary

By George D. Riley.

Tomorrow the Cabinet meets. This is the supreme opportunity for the President to make strong representations on behalf of the several thousand civil service workers separated from their jobs by recommending they be placed in the new boards first and ahead of comelatelys who seek these "temporary" jobs. Insistence can take the place of suggestion.

VOICING interest in the fate of dismissed Federal employes, the American Federation of Federal Employes asks that all who desire reinstatement or reemployment attend a meeting Saturday at 3 p. m. at the A. F. of L. Building, Ninth street and Massachusetts avenue, when a roster will be prepared of those out of work.

The A. F. G. E. sponsors formation of the Civil Service Reinstatement League, having for its purpose immediate reemployment of all former Government employes ousted because of the economy wave and reorganization.

The league proposes to contact appointment officers, members of Congress, civic leaders and organized labor leaders. John P. Simpson, president, Interstate Commerce, Commission Lodge, No. 58, and Cecil M. Mears, president, Panama Canal Lodge, No. 6, will assist the league. Mr. Simpson will preside at the initial meeting Saturday.

"If the merit system ever meant anything, and it is believed it is the backbone of efficient personnel administration, says Mr. Simpson, "employes who have obtained their jobs under civil servise rules should not be discarded in favor of untrained and untried workers. The A. F. G. E. will lend every aid possible to this unfortunate group in their endeavor to get back on the pay roll.

"The A. F. G. E. has always advocated and believes that sound policy would dictate transfer of civil service employes who are indefinitely furloughed or dismissed to other Government agencies where their services are required and where appointments are contemplated."

There is a difference between "inefficiency" and "comparative efficiency," explains Secretary Roper.

The Secretary expressed desire to hear of any cases where men and women have been notified of dismissal for inefficiency. They have been discharged on the basis of comparative efficiency, he explained.

Meanwhile, the method of arriving at dismissals puzzles personnel. Some ratings have been handed in and have been returned two or three points under the first level. Here is how separations in Commerce stack up:

	Separations D. C. Field	Indef. Fur. D. C. Field
Office of the Secretary	18
Aeronautics Branch	15	315
Census	37
Foreign and Domestic Commerce	435	297
Standards	38	296 35
Fisheries	13
Lighthouses	1	200
Coast and Geodetic Survey	—	—
Navigation & Steamboat Insp.	—
Mines	55	135
Total	600	960 296 35

Total separations and indefinite furloughs—Departmental, 896; Field, 995.

Every unit of Commerce will impose upon the remaining employes in Washington at least 15 days furlough without pay so as to reduce the number of separations. It is Mr. Roper's understanding that in the Census Bureau even a greater period of furlough has been agreed upon by a certain group.

MR. ROPER, himself a member of the Public Works Board, says he hopes to get funds from that organization to restore personnel. Commerce has been "adjusted" at the $29,000,000 figure, he says. The matter of getting public works money rests with a subcommittee.

Clerical help, too, will be enrolled with the Civil Service Commission to await their turn, according to ratings.

"In anticipation of the reduction in our personnel we furnished to the departments under which the new units were created a list of persons whose services might be utilized by them and also gave to the Civil Service Commission a preliminary list of employes whose names could be placed on the reemployment register," says the Secretary.

6th Maryland's Bid for Federal Building Ready

District Will Insist Upon Share Before Ritchie Committee Today.

Government construction work, as recommended by the last session of Congress, will be the main projects insisted upon today for the Sixth Maryland Congressional District at a meeting of Gov. Ritchie's full committee of public works appropriations, according to Representative Stephen [illegible] Gambrill (Democrat), of [illegible].

The meeting, to be held at the governor's office in Baltimore, will open a series of sessions necessary to determine the proper distribution of between $45,000,000 and $55,000,000 allotted Maryland by the public works bill.

Among the Government projects already planned within the congressional district is the erection of ten six-room apartment houses within the Naval Academy grounds at Annapolis. These would be completed at a cost not to exceed $720,000.

Other Annapolis proposals include the completion of breakwaters along the bay front, at a cost of $497,000, and the installation of a sewage disposal plant and "hook-up" system, costing $225,000.

The subcommittee from the Sixth Congressional District, composed of Representative Gambrill, H. C. Byrd, vice president of the University of Maryland, and H. C. Walton, of Annapolis, will also insist upon the Paris Creek Harbor dredging.

This work, which has already been approved by the United States Harbors and Rivers Board, would require an outlay of $19,300,000.

The committee, it was stated at the recent district hearing at Upper Marlboro, is understood to be highly in favor of an appropriation from the general fund of $238,000,000 for the construction of naval vessels, and $9,000,000 for airplanes. Such appropriations, it is believed, will materially affect the congressional district.

The last of the Government construction work to be urged for this section of Maryland will be the erection of a smokeless powder plant in Charles County.

"The most important on the list of private enterprises asking aid from the public works fund," Representative Gambrill said yesterday, "is the request for money to construct the proposed George Washington Wakefield Memorial Bridge in Southern Maryland."

This bridge, which would be completed at a cost of $3,300,00, would extend from Popes Creek, Md., to Dahlgren, Va. A loan of $2,800,000 has already been sought from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Other requests to be brought up at the committee meeting will include one from the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission for $650,000 with which to lay trunk lines and water mains.

The boards of education of Prince Georges County, St. Marys County and Anne Arundel County will ask for the building of schools, $365,000, $130,000 and $100,000, respectively. The University of Maryland will ask $350,000 for new buildings.

Kentucky's Feud Deaths Go to Eight

West Liberty, Ky., July 5 (A.P.).—Kentucky's toll of dead resulting from Saturday's school trustee elections mounted to eight today, when two slayings not previously reported, were revealed by a local court action.

Luther Cox, 25, was held to the grand jury under $500 bond in connection with a shooting at the Goad Ridge schoolhouse, 16 miles west of here in Morgan County Saturday in which John Lovely, 50, and Bruce Cox, 20, were slain, and W. B. Barker and Luther Cox were wounded.

Officers said the shooting occurred when a voter reached the polls and election officers said it was two minutes past 4 o'clock, and no more ballots could be cast. Rhoda Sexton, officers were told, was leading Riley Lovely for trustee by one vote.

Under similar circumstances, a dispute over voting rights and whether or not the polls were closed, Prather Creek in Floyd County, saw five men meet death Saturday. Another was slain in a Breathitt County school election.

Detroit Bank Quiz May Be Stopped

Detroit, July 5 (A.P.).—The advisability of continuing the one-man grand jury probing Detroit's banking affairs, now in its fourth week, tonight was questioned by Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien, whose petition brought the jury into being.

At the close of today's session, in which a witness charged that the General Motors and Chrysler Corporations, as well as George P. Davison, New York banker, had sidetracked a plan to reopen two national banks after the Michigan bank holiday, the attorney general said he feared the inquiry "threatens to become merely repetitious."

Advice to 30-Year Group

A NEW wrinkle affecting Federal workers, especially the 30-year service group, is now operative. In practice, the unsuspecting is depayrolled and the plan saves money for the Government at the expense of the employe.

Case in point: An "eligible" (desiring to retire) was told by his immediate superior not to report for duty after June 30. Not being gullible, he sought counsel, learned his case had not yet been approved by the Civil Service Commission. By virtue of this advice, the eligible continued to report for duty. Net result: Had he followed supervisor's instruction, in the absence of Civil Service approval, and since retirements are effective on the first of each month succeeding displacement, said eligible would have been without pay pending an authoritative sanction of the retirement.

All of which suggests, in these hectic days, that an employe should have in hand a pale red slip, or other signed paper, before accepting ouster. He or she may throw away his or her rights. The "bill of human rights" hangs today in the balance. "This is preeminently the time to speak the truth," says a notable statesman, "the whole truth, frankly and boldly."

What is needed is an edict, an Executive order, to clarify the situation, and to coordinate and standardize the application of the legislative enactment, with equality and fairness to classes involved.

Annapolis Speech Marks Leahy Visit

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 5.—The new group of 220 young officers undergoing special instruction at the Navy Postgraduate School here were addressed by Rear Admiral William D. Leahy today, on the occasion of his first official visit to the Naval Academy since becoming chief of the Bureau of Navigation.

Admiral Leahy was received by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent, and his staff officers in front of the Administration Building, where a detachment of Marines and band were paraded. A thirteen-gun salute was fired in honor of the visiting chief.

Admiral Leahy then was escorted to the Postgraduate School, where he delivered a brief talk to the student officers, after which he was luncheon guest of Admiral Hart and inspected several of the academic departments, returning to Washington in the afternoon.

Debt Revision To Be Tried in August Parley

Defaulters Are Barred From Discussion by State Department.

(Associated Press.)

Preparations were made at the State Department yesterday to begin war debt discussions early in August with the envoys of those nations which have paid their installments at least in part.

Acting Secretary Phillips announced that while no definite date had been set for the opening of the debt conversations, the first would get under way well before August 15. Mr. Phillips added, however, that he was not prepared to say which nation would appear for the initial talk.

Finland, the only country thus far to meet her requirements in full, stood at the head of the debt talk list, but announced through her minister that it would be more satisfactory to appear later.

Great Britain, or possibly Czechoslovakia, are expected to present their cases for revision first, with other eligible nations to follow.

The United States has barred France and other defaulting nations from the discussions unless their back payments are made. In the case of France a pointed note was sent, informing her that not only must at least partial payment be made on the June 15 installment, but also full payment of the $19,000,000 payment skipped last December.

Whatever agreements are reached at the conversations, none can be considered final. Congress holds the power to refuse to ratify, and sentiment on Capitol Hill has turned strongly against scaling down or cancelling the obligations owed this country by Europe.

Priest, 72, Dies, Failing To Reveal His Attackers

Martins Ferry, Ohio, July 5 (A.P.).—The Rev. Parthenios Colonis, 72, pastor of the Martins Ferry Greek Orthodox Catholic Church, died today from hatchet-inflicted wounds. He was found unconscious in the basement of the church Saturday night, his skull fractured by blows from the blunt and sharp edges of a blood-stained hatchet.

He regained consciousness, but did not indicate who attacked him, although police say they believe he knew his assailants. It was the third time in three years that the priest was mysteriously assaulted in his church.

Speeder Jailed For Inability to Pay $25 Fine

Gets 10 Days; Motorist to Appeal $151 Fine on Three Charges.

Unable to pay a fine of $25 and costs in the Hyattsville Police Court when found guilty of speeding, Raymond C. Hasbrouk, 307 Third street northeast, yesterday was committed to the Marlboro Jail for ten days. He was arrested Sunday near Laurel, Md.

Fined $151 and costs for driving while drunk, reckless driving and illegal possession of liquor, Charles W. Hodgson, of Baltimore, gave notice of appeal.

Hodgson was arrested Saturday by Albert Anderson, Prince Georges County policeman, and Constable Howard Slater after a chase through Hyattsville. Jessie King, Baltimore, his companion, was fined $1 and costs on a drunk and disorderly charge.

Jules Rodier, Lanham, Md., forfeited $6.70 collateral for hurling firecrackers at automobiles on July 4, and Jerome Jackson, 1408 Fifth street northwest, was committed to jail for 60 days in default of $60 fine for reckles driving and no permit.

William Hunter, colored, 30, of Roanoke, Va., was sentenced to 30 days in jail for being drunk, disorderly and assaulting Constable Slater. Slater was attacked by Hunter and two other colored men when he attempted to make an arrest last Saturday. Two of the assailants escaped.

58 in Fairfax File Poultry Loss Claims

61 Sheep Also on Lost List; Board, However, Snubs Missing Rabbits.

Hog farms, roads, building permits, magisterial district lines, subdivisions plats, county poor relief, and claims for poultry and live stock killed by dogs were some of the things that were considered at the monthly meeting of the board of supervisors of Fairfax County, Va., yesterday.

The board was told by Mrs. Eleanor W. Aud that 194 families in the county had been aided by her office at a cost of $11,800, of which the county contributed $8,000. Dr. F. W. Huddleson, county treasurer, reported uncollected taxes for this year were about 1 per cent less than last year.

A resolution was passed requiring that all subdivision plats formerly filed with the county engineers office now be filed with the county purchasing agent.

The county engineers office was abolished by the State law establishing the secondary State road system, putting real estate developers in a quandary as to where to file such records.

Road Change Asked.

Attorney F. Shield McCandlish, at the instance of Dr. Samuel M. Jonson and W. S. Hoge, appeared before the board asking them to rescind its action of opposing the construction of the Lee boulevard through the county at this time.

Chairman W. F. P. Reid told the board that during a conference with H. G. Shirley, State highway commissioner, last Saturday, he was informed that Culpeper district would receive approximately $1,250,000 for primary roads and $20,000 for secondary roads from the Federal industrial recovery funds.

The report of the committee, composed of Supervisors D. W. Buckley, of Centerville district, and Kyle A. Davis, of Lee district, for animal and poultry killed by stray dogs was adopted. The claims were made by 58 persons who ask pay for 61 sheep, 31 lambs, 670 chickens, 138 turkeys, 64 ducks, 19 hogs, 3 cows, 18 rabbits and 12 goats. The claim for rabbits was not allowed as they are not assessable livestock, under the State law.

New Ruling Set.

In the future only live stock and poultry claims filed with the county clerk within 90 days from the day the loss occurs will be considered.

County Surveyor Joseph Berry filed a plat showing the line between Falls Church and Providence magisterial districts. He stated that he was unable to find a recorded survey in the county records, but he established the line from information given him by A. D. Crocker, of Falls Church, who made an unrecorded survey in 1887.

The three county police captains, Heywood J. Durrer, Lewis L. Finks and Carl R. McIntosh were reappointed for the next year at a salary of $112.50 a month.

Brentwood Officials Reappointed to Jobs

In view of nominations by Lloyd V. Moxley, newly elected Mayor of Brentwood, Md., Reuben E. Brown, chief of police; E. W. Baker, town clerk, and Stephen McVey, road director, have been reappointed to their respective positions for the coming year.

The reappointment of Chief Brown was made in spite of a petition, bearing 200 names, asking that E. W. Markward be given the office. Mr. Moxley, as mayor, succeeds James E. Sampson.

Postmaster at Fairfax, Hoover Friend, Relieved

The affairs of the Fairfax, Va., postoffice were transferred formally yesterday to L. M. Coyner, who has replaced as postmaster Miss Lurema Sayre, a close friend and schoolmate of Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

Miss Sayre failed to keep an appointment yesterday with Postoffice inspectators, who are closing out her accounts. Books which she had taken home with her on Saturday were returned by messenger. The absence of the books prevented the closing of her records.

Clarendon's K. of C. Will Meet Tonight.

The Edward Douglass White Council, No. 2473, Knights of Columbus, will meet this evening in their new clubhouse, 14 Garrison road, at Clarendon.

Alex A. Kirchner has been appointed financial secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the election of J. R. Raeburn to the office of treasurer.

Hare Raising

Fairfax Will Not Pay for Belgian Breed Killed by Stray Dogs.

Technically a Belgian hare is not a rabbit, but under the Virginia State law it is in the same category as the animal magicians pull from hats.

This fact was established yesterday by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors in passing on a claim against the county for Belgian hares killed by stray dogs.

Under the law stockmen and poultry raisers are entitled to damages from the county for such losses. But owing to the fact that Belgian hares are neither live stock nor poultry the supervisors held that they could not pay the claim.

Body Studying Action on Beer For Arlington

Civic Federation, Seeing Legislation Near, Surveys Laws.

Arlington County Bureau of The Post, Clarendon, Va., Tel. Clar. 500.

With the possible assurance that the General Assembly of Virginia will pass an act legalizing the sale of 3.2 beer at the special session to be held August 17, the Arlington County Civic Federation, at its meeting last night at Lyon Park, instructed the committee of park, planning and zoning to make a study of restrictions to be placed around its sale. The committee also will consider the subject of location of proposed beer gardens. A report is asked for at the August meeting.

Before the federation would take any action for or against the plans of the county board for the installation of a county-wide sewage system, the legislation committee was instructed to make a study of all phases of the subject. The committee was instructed to bring in its report, with recommendations, at the August meeting.

L. C. McNemar, chairman of the special committee in charge of circulation of petitions asking the Potomac Electric Power Co. to extend its lines throughout the county, reported that he has in hand approximately 80 petitions bearing the signatures of 4,000 residents of the county. He said there are about 20 more petitions to be heard from and that Saturday night has been set for the dead line for all petitions to be in the hands of the committee. He announced that he will at that time turn them over to the public utilities committee for their use in making an effort to have the company come into Arlington County.

The secretary, on motion of Arthur Orr, was instructed to write to the chairman of the Arlington County School Board asking if it has taken any action on the matter of a reduction in the salary of the county school superintendent.

It was stated that the federation was advised that the county school superintendent was willing to accept a 10 per cent reduction in his salary.

Citizens Plan To Save Noted Drug Concern

Alexandria Civic Groups Discuss Formation of Corporation.

Representatives of practically every civic and patriotic organization in Alexandria met last night in Gadsby's Tavern to discuss the formation of a corporation to purchase and retain in Alexandria the fixtures, equipment and records of the Leadbeater Drug Corporation.

It will be necessary for the fixtures and equipment to be sold at auction under bankruptcy proceedings, and the American Pharmaceutical Association is interested in purchasing and installing the old fixtures of this historic store in its Washington headquarters. However, the association has expressed a willingness to cooperate with the citizens of Alexandria in retaining the original site of this company, which was established nearly a century and a half ago and the ownership of which has remained in one family for all of these years.

The organizations represented last night were: the American Legion, the Alexandria Association, the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, the Alexandria Garden Club, the Business and Professional Women's Club, the Cameron Club, the Colonial Dames, the Mount Vernon Chapter, D. A. R.; the Kate Waller Barrett Chapter, D. A. R.; the John Alexander Chapter, D. A. R; the Ann McCarthy Ramsay Chapter, C. A. R.; the Kiwanis Club, the Knights of Columbus, the Lions Club, the Rotary Club and the Washington Society of Alexandria. It was decided last night that these representatives place the matter of raising funds before their respective organizations this week, as it will be necessary to raise approximately $2,000 in cash or pledges by July 19, the date set for the auction. It will be the purpose to form a committee on which each of these organizations will have representatives to purchase the old fixtures, take title to the two buildings on south Fairfax street and do a certain amount of restoration work. Robert M. Reese was elected temporary chairman of a committee to receive funds.

A meeting, open to the public, will be held in the American Legion meeting room in Gadsby's Tavern, at 8 p. m. next Wednesday, when it is hoped to form a permanent organization and make plans for the purchase of the property.

'Buried Alive' Boy Nearly Drowned

Special to the Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 5.—A strange youth was literally scared out of his grave here during a sharp electrical and rain storm.

The youth was the subject of a "buried-alive" stunt for commercial purposes at the northern end of the city, staged by four strangers. When the storm broke, with water flooding down toward the grave and with lightning hitting a tree nearby, the boy fell into a frenzy of pleas for rescue while his backers worked feverishly to get him out. Once he was free, the party started immediately for an unannounced destination.

Departing, the group took with them a local boy on the promise of high adventure, but the youth's father overtook the party at Williamsport, Md., and recovered the boy after threatening prosecution.

Recovery Act Funds Sought In Alexandria

Loan for School Project Proposed to Council by Board.

The Alexandria School Board last night passed a resolution to present to the city council urging consideration be given procuring of funds promised by the industrial recovery act for erection and equipment of a new high school building in Alexandria, should plans of the commis[illegible]de for such loans.

Alexand[illegible]s have long been hampered by lack of classroom space, particularly in the high school department, and should a new building be erected large enough to take care of all high school work, it would release for grade classes the present Alexandria and George Mason High School buildings. High school classes the last few sessions have been placed in the former auditorium, and also in cloak and committee rooms. In the grade school work, one teacher has two part-time classes in the same room.

T. C. Williams, the new superintendent, was authorized to secure specifications and plans for such a building from Raymond V. Long, State school architect, in Richmond, to be prepared to give definite information regarding the building and equipment should favorable action be taken by the council.

Mr. Williams recommended establishing a bookkeeping system for the schools, which he was authorized to do.

New teachers were not selected, as Williams stated he had not been in the city long enough to give sufficient consideration to applications on file to make recommendations for filling vacancies.

Trial Court Profit Cited

Judge's Report of Year-Old Experiment in Fairfax County, Va., Bares More Than $3,000 Gain.

The trial justice court of Fairfax County, Va., is run at a profit to the county, according to the annual report of Judge Paul E. Brown, made yesterday to the county board of supervisors. Besides a profit, it was estimated that the county had been saved more than $3,000 in circuit court costs since the creation of the trial justice court a year and eight days ago.

Judge Brown's report for that period shows that he has handled 846 criminal cases and 609 civil cases. Of the criminal cases, 220 were major prohibition law violations that formerly were handled solely in the circuit court; 24 major felonies were sent to the grand jury, 225 were for traffic law violations, 182 were for minor misdemeanors, 25 lunacy hearings and 170 were for drunkenness or disorderly conduct.

Prohibition fines collected and turned into the State treasury by Judge Brown amounted to $9,612.50; other fines, $1,415, and jail fees were $518.50. Fines turned over to the county treasurer for violations of the county traffic ordinances amounted to $1,142, and fees in these offenses were $230.

The court fees in criminal cases collected and turned into the county treasury amounted to $1,844.25, and for civil cases, $1,470.75. The court fees more than offset his salary for the year, which amounted to $2,520, and left a balance of $396.

Under the former county judicial system the trial fees went to justices of the peace trying the case.

Uphold the Civil Service.

Some hope is held out to Federal employees who have been released as a result of the economy program that President Roosevelt will intervene in their behalf. The President has not yet revealed his attitude, but he announces that a committee is at work on the subject. When this group, composed of Cabinet members, makes its report the President will decide what steps are in order to reemploy the 4,000 civil service workers who are now idle in Washington.

Secretary of Commerce Roper intimates that a mistake may have been made in the curtailment of service rendered to business and the public at a time of reviving activity. Discussing the sharp reduction in his departmental budget, he said:

> Business is improving and we assume that this will be reflected in the needed service from the department. We can therefore hope to look to a larger income for the Government for 1934 than was estimated in April, and the service of the department may in that event justify us using more people than the financial conditions at the present time justify.

As a result of this situation Secretary Roper has asked the Public Works Administration for $10,000,000 for various projects to be carried out by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Bureaus of Fisheries, Standards, Mines, Aeronautics and Lighthouses. In other words, the Department of Commerce, which has a sharply reduced budget, is asking the Public Works Administration, which has $3,300,000,000 to spend, for funds to finance "certain functions here which seem to us (the officials of the Department of Commerce) necessary and at the same time conducive to the retention of people on the rolls."

If important functions of the Government are being neglected and employees who are really needed in the Federal service are being released for the sake of economy, it is quite reasonable that work of this kind should be given preference over other projects, in spite of the confusion resulting from the financing of regular departmental activities from a special fund set up outside the Federal budget. But other departments may not be able to relieve their dismissed employees in this way.

Secretary Roper's statement that as far back as March he "proposed the use of some of the surplus personnel of this department in connection with new units which might be set up through congressional action" increases the hope that the administration may urge the transfer of experienced civil service employees to the emergency organizations now being set up. Patronage seems to be the largest factor in the selection of employees for these new units thus far. A word from President Roosevelt would give civil service employees the consideration which their experience merits.

Soviet Activities.

In contrast with the old conditions under the czars, Soviet Russia is today a beehive of industry. Whatever the aberrations of the government may be on the political side, it apparently is keeping the people busy. The transformation of old Russia from indescribably squalid conditions into a modern state is a task of such appalling proportions that only fanatics, perhaps, would be optimistic in undertaking it.

In their zeal for betterment the Russians seem to delight in daring economic and scientific experiments. With light-hearted confidence they are attacking the technical difficulties of tractor and automobile manufacture on a great scale, and claim to have turned out 3,466 tractors during May at the Stalingrad works and 2,646 tractors at the Kharkov works, besides motors for 400 "combines" at Kharkov. The Stalin automobile plant, according to the Soviet bulletins, turned out 1,850 machines during May. The Gorki works produced 950 trucks, 600 light cars, and 1,900 combine motors in May, according to the same report.

At Yaroslav the "CK-1" plant is said to have produced 329,320 pounds of synthetic rubber in April and May. The last of three blast furnaces was blown in at the Stalin metal works. A new 50,000-kilowatt turbine was installed at the Magnitogorsk power station. The agricultural combine plant at Saratov produced 20 machines a day during May. The Dinamo works is turning out electric locomotives, and a recent run "developed greater speed than American engines." A textile plant is under erection at Kaisereh. Malleable iron is manufactured at the Molotov works. Fifty specialists and 150 workers have been dispatched to the Bliave mine fields, where copper and iron deposits have been partially developed. All this according to Soviet official reports.

In agriculture, the total area sown by June 5 equaled 88.2 per cent of the "plan." At Kolkhozy, where tractors are operated on a scale exceeding any operations in this country, the area sown reached 92.3 per cent of the estimate. Individual peasants sowed only 69 per cent of the amount allotted to them.

Soviet experts are active in studying the possibilities of foreign plants for cultivation in Russia. They are also testing out market possibilities in the Near and Far East. Soviet publications deal with such subjects as cattle breeding in Persia, karakul breeding in Afghanistan, and cattle breeding farms in Sinkiang (Western China); fruit and nut cultivation in Turkey; standardization of eastern (Indian) cotton, and cotton growing in Persia. The export opportunities of the eastern vilayets of Turkey and the Red Sea regions (Eritrea, Abyssinia, Yemen, &c.) are subjects of special reports.

Difficulties in Cotton.

Field agents of the Department of Agriculture report considerable scattered opposition throughout the South to the Government's plan to reduce cotton acreage. Planters on the more productive lands have discovered that their normal yields may bring them a greater income than reduced crops plus the Government bounty. In such cases, where the yield per acre is considerably above the national average, the planters apparently feel that, as a matter of prudent business judgment, they should reject the Federal bounty and decline to reduce acreage. But when one planter in any county rejects the scheme others in the community fear that their own potential contribution in acreage reduction may prove futile.

Over large areas in the fertile Mississippi delta whole counties are reported to have rejected the reduction program because a few large planters with extremely low production costs found it unprofitable to accept the curtailment bounty.

Unquestionably it is more sound from the viewpoint of national economy to keep the richer lands in cultivation, and to accomplish the desired reduction by the elimination of marginal areas. That is how the normal forces of economic adjustment eventually would have accomplished the essential acreage reduction. Under the new scheme, men who can produce cotton profitably at low prices are reluctant to cooperate in a venture which might place them on an even competitive footing with neighbors who produce on poorer land at higher cost.

This basic conflict of interest between low-cost and high-cost producers is encountered in every branch of industry and agriculture. It presents, apparently, a difficulty not clearly visualized in the blueprint of the cotton plan. Unless the prosperous and successful farmers cast their lot with their less fortunately situated neighbors, whose production costs are higher, the whole acreage reduction program may be vastly complicated.

Such difficulties of practical administration offer a hint as to the bewildering complexity of the controlled production project contemplated in the theory of the new agricultural program.

Wages and Buying Power.

A novel plan designed to adjust purchasing power to productive capacity was presented to the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia by Henry K. Norton. It is the work of Arthur L. Deane, who had the collaboration of Mr. Norton in drafting the plan and submitting it to authorities at Washington.

Mr. Deane has attacked a fundamental deficiency in the present economic system and evolved what he believes to be a simple remedy. In periods of prosperity the capacity to produce tends to outrun the average buying power of the people. Since about 90 per cent of all the goods and commodities produced in the United States are also consumed in this country it was concluded that American workingmen "must be provided with sufficient purchasing power to raise the total consumption of the country to the level of the total producing capacity." "Only by sustaining consumption at this high level," said Mr. Norton in explaining the Deane plan, "can every class of property be raised to its full value and be assured of an income sufficient to justify that value."

The hope in which these investigators indulge is for a "market capable of absorbing the output of industry working at its full capacity and enlarging that market as rapidly as producing capacity is available, up to the limit of desire for each particular product." "The surest means of arriving at this result," Mr. Norton said, "is to increase the incomes of those in the lower income groups, because their unsatisfied desire for consumers' goods is practically unlimited."

The remedy prescribed by the Deane plan is far more novel than its diagnosis of the present maladjustment. The plan calls for establishment of regional and national averages of working hours per week. Employees would be allowed "supplemental compensation," amounting to 50 per cent of their hourly rate of pay, when their employment fell short of the regional and national averages. On the other hand, workers employed for more than the average number of hours per week would be taxed 25 per cent of their basic hourly rate of pay for each successive hour, and a similar tax would be levied against their employers. This feature of the plan is designed to distribute work, regulate wages and make workmen feel more secure.

To avoid expansion of productive capacity beyond buying power special surtaxes would be levied upon all incomes in excess of $3,000 whenever the yearly average of employment might be above normal. Receipts from these taxes would go into a revolving fund that would be used to enhance purchasing power through the payment of "supplemental compensation" or higher wages.

Mr. Deane's plan presents an interesting theory. But industry usually blinks at any plan so sweeping in its nature as this. Indeed, the plan may be too simple for application to the vast structure and diverse conditions of American industry. Use of the taxing power to regulate wages is an unexplored field. There has been little study of the idea, and we know of no actual experience upon which conclusions can be based.

Birthplaces of Leaders.

The Cleveland News raises an interesting question when it suggests that northern Ohio produces "more leaders per capita than more southerly sections of the country." The News cites the fact that "two members of the little group known as President Roosevelt's brain trust come from the Western Reserve of Ohio." They are Raymond Moley and Harry F. Payer, newly appointed Assistant Secretary of State. The News may now add the name of Joseph B. Keenan, a Cleveland man who has been chosen to act as Attorney General Cummings' lieutenant in the Federal war against gangsters.

This is a fine showing for the Western Reserve, and doubtless there is abundant raw material left from which to form brain trusts. The old Western Reserve has furnished many superior men to the nation—men famous in law, literature, administration, legislation, and industry. Presidents Garfield and McKinley were born in the same county in northeastern Ohio; President Hayes was born at Delaware and President Harding at Corsica, both in northern Ohio. The State also produced President Grant, born at Point Pleasant; President Harrison, born at North Bend, and President Taft, born in Cincinnati.

Whether northern Ohio or Ohio as a whole has produced more leaders per capita than other sections of the country is a subject which the reader may study at leisure. Every State can boast of great men, and each in due time doubtless will furnish a President. American genius seems to flourish as well in one State as another.

More Schools Badly Needed.

The Public Works Administration can well afford to be liberal in its policy toward States and communities which are ready to propose sound school projects. The educational system of the United States has been badly hit by the depression, and children in all States are in need of better school facilities. Teachers have been heroic in the emergency, working often for no pay at all, as is notably the case in Chicago. In mountain regions boys and girls tramp many miles each day to obtain schooling. Shortage of public funds has caused States and counties to curtail their allowances for schools, to such an extent that millions of children are deprived of educational opportunities.

The lack of adequate school facilities in Washington is an example of the failure of public authorities to keep pace with the needs of oncoming citizens. Important projects for schools and school betterments in the District of Columbia are now in preparation to be submitted to the Public Works Administration. States are expected to make similar recommendations to bring their school systems more nearly up to present requirements.

The population of the United States increases by more than 1,000,000 a year. This means that provision for schooling must be planned on an enormous scale. There were 36,000,000 inhabitants of school age in 1930.

Instead of erecting postoffices in towns and cities that can carry on a while without such non-productive improvements, the Public Works Administration would do well to give preference to schools in States which stand ready to do their share of the financing.

When 24 planes with 100 men jump from Ireland to Iceland in one day it's a sign that Italy can still produce Columbuses.

If this thing keeps up, wheat farmers may look around for some way to establish losses for income tax purposes.

Exploding Atoms.

From the Houston Post.

The intricacies of modern science are enough to make any laymen and a good many scientists who attempt to understand them ask for the tender care of an alienist.

What is one to make of such an assertion, for instance, as that made by Dr. Gilbert Lewis, a Nobel prize winner, to the recent conference in Chicago of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, who told the delegates that time is a two-way proposition? He stated that it violated no law of physics to state that time can run from future to past, as well as from past to future, and that "events which will happen tomorrow might have influenced Caesar to cross the Rubicon."

Who's crazy? Maybe it's ourselves.

Almost as difficult to understand, if understanding be possible, but of more apparent significance were the reports of several distinguished delegates to their confreres about their experiences in exploding atoms, those tiny elemental particles of which all matter is composed.

Scientists have long known of their existence, but the puzzle has been to find out what they in turn are composed of. Not only that, but to discover what forces they contained. In order to do so they have been trying to break the atoms down, explode them.

The most effective method evolved at first was to fire rifle bullets at them and take pictures of the results. The bullets, however, did not pack enough punch. Prof. Ernest Lawrence, of the University of California, constructed a much heavier piece of artillery in the form of "deutons"—the centers of hydrogen atoms—which he whirled around with a big electro magnet until they carried a charge of 1,330,000 volts, when he loosed a barrage at his atom target.

When they landed directly, the photo plate showed a shower like a bursting star, revealing a release of 12,600,000 volts of energy. This leads the doctor and others to believe that they are on the track of the original energy source that they believe may have built up the universe.

No one can deny that the London conference has been a grand success for Mr. Litvinoff of the Soviet.

After all that has been said, the resumption of foreign loans by Government lending to Russia and China leaves nothing more to be said.

It was not alone in France, but among the doctors of finance here it was also noted with some trepidation that the President didn't have a good word to say for the gold cure, past, present or future.

Industry's glee over the prospect of higher prices and release from antitrust bondage is now tempered by concern as to whether these benefits will offset higher wages and shorter work hours.

There are still some differences of opinion as to how much price increases are due to restored confidence and how much to speculation.

SMALL-MOUTHED BASS TIME.

I don't mind work when the wind blows cold,
And I don't mind work when the ground's snow white;
But I can't settle down when I'm being told
This is the day when the bass should bite,
And I can't settle down when the skies are blue
And the breezes soft seem to say to me:
"What's so important for you to do?
There's a bass grounds near that you ought to see."

I don't mind work when the days are drear,
I don't mind work when it drizzles rain;
But I find it hard when a friend draws near
To whisper the bass season's on again.
It's then I'd like to be free once more
To follow the trail to a spot I know
And cast a lure toward a rocky shore

Work isn't hard when the snow lies deep
And the lakes and rivers are frozen tight;
But once you have seen a black bass leap
In the gleaming sun as he makes his fight,
You will never again sit down to care
In the self-same placid, contented way
When June returns and you're well aware

You Can't Scare People Away From a Bank by Guaranteeing Deposits

By Robert Quillen

SOME years ago, old John B. Slicker possessed an idea and a little money. The idea was good, but he needed more money to make it work.

Being unable to borrow the money, he formed a company with the State's permission and began to sell stock. To make the stock sell better, he promised fabulous profits.

Old John's idea was to build a factory and make something that people needed. And each share of stock he sold represented a share in the business and deserved a share of the profits.

That, you will say, was fair enough. But the factory and the business were worth only $10,000,000, and old John sold $100,000,000 worth of stock. It seemed an easy way to get a lot of money.

Now observe what happened. The stock wsa sold to farmers, school teachers, preachers, doctors and grocers. These invested their savings in the hope of getting a fair return.

But a business worth ten million can't pay dividends on a capitalization of one hundred milion without charging an unholy price for the thing it sells.

So that is the kind of price charged by old John's business. For years and years to come the public must pay ten times too much for something it needs so that old John's company can pay fair dividends to the innocents who bought his watered stock.

That is bad enough, but the story doesn't end there. Other members of the Slicker family, observing how easily old John got other people's money, decided to follow his example.

They also formed companies and sold stock. They also promised fabulous profits. But they were swindlers and the stock they sold represented nothing but blue sky. They robbed the innocents of their savings.

Do you know how much the Slicker family got? They got, according to government statistics, a trifle over 23 billion dollars—a sum equal to the national debt at the height of the boom.

Custom made the Slicker plan respectable and America accepted the theory that suckers alone are to blame when they get robbed; but evils always destroy themselves, and the ever-increasing boldness of the Slickers at last prompted the government to interfere.

The present law requires the directors of a company to make public all "material" facts concerning their business before offering stock for sale. If they make untruthful statements or fail to tell all of the truth, they are individually responsible for any loss a stock buyer suffers.

Big Business is horrified. Its high priests say: "It will be impossible to finance industry. Nobody can take such a risk."

They mean, in simple words, that they can't sell stock if they are required to tell the truth.

But they are mistaken. Once assured that stock offered for sale is honest stock, the public will buy more than ever. And honest business will get the savings formerly pocketed by the Slicker family.

Political Comment

Using Trained Employes.

Kansas City Times.

Aside from its relation to veterans, which has been given particular consideration, the actual application of Federal economy at the beginning of a new fiscal year has meant the displacement of several thousand government workers. That seems in conflict with a government program deliberately calculated to put men to work, and it has been protested on that identical ground. But the policy in both directions is justified on the assumption that employment in the one is economic and in the other it is not. Obviously, employment can not be the sole basis of public expenditure. The government can not keep workers on the public pay rolls just to give them jobs and the people, who pay the cost, can not afford it.

But there is an ameliorating circumstance in the loss of public employment through economy. It is that many of the workers affected may find new employment in the expanded operations of the government. It is the announced policy of department heads to make this sort of shift wherever possible. If the worker is competent and his services are needed, it becomes a fully warranted policy.

Gentlemen, That's a Vote!

Buffalo Courier-Express.

New York City thought it was wet with a 40-to-1 vote for repeal. But San Francisco considers a vote like that merely a sign of moisture. The Golden Gate City voted 60 to 1 for repeal.

False Prophets.

Jacksonville Times-Union.

Dry paper says revenue from beer is a false hope. But there seems to be nothing false about more than $10,000,000 revenue from beer in 30 days.

Put It in Spuds.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Under the cotton proposition a man whose land can raise 275 pounds an acre a year can get $20 an acre from Uncle Sam for keeping it out of cotton production and is free to use it for any other crop. If this doesn't bring about diversification of crops generosity means nothing to the planters.

War on Gangsters.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Appointment of Mr. Joseph B. Keenan, a Cleveland lawyer, as Assistant Attorney General marks the beginning of the Federal Government's organized movement to curb the activities of racketeers and gunmen. Desperate conditions require heroic remedies and the Government finds justification for assuming a responsibility ordinarily belonging to State and local authorities not only in their apparent inability to cope with the forces of crime but also in what Attorney General Cummings regards as a direct challenge to action in the recent killing of a Federal official by gangsters at Kansas City.

Just Like Congress.

Topeka Capital.

The London economic conference acts something like a session of Congress in the absence of a President. It lacks leadership, although there is a plentiful supply of leaders. Ramsay MacDonald, chief boss of the conference, has been kept busy trying to keep it from adjourning so far, and it looks like speedy adjournment. There are many bills on the calendar but none of them is passed. Adjournment to a later date seems the only sensible course, and what effect that would have on the American dollar and the stock market is disturbingly problematical. It was a premature conference.

Old Resident Rejoices in Assurance of Firemen's Parade on Labor Day.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It was a happy thought on the part of The Post to sponsor the firemen's parade of 1933. When I read the news last month that the parade would not take place this year it was something of a disappointment. To a good many old-timers, during the last ten years, turning over the pageantry of Labor Day to the firemen was especially welcome in recalling one of the great delights of their boyhood and girlhood days. I think it has a good influence in linking the present with the past. Certainly in this day of movies, motoring, radio and jazz, such an old-time celebration can not help having a refreshing effect because, if for no other reason, it is something different.

As one of the paper's original subscribers I am glad to note this indication that, under the new management, in addition to maintaining its well-earned reputation as a first-hand and reliable authority in the field of national politics, as well as in that of the worth-while news, The Post will continue the generous and sympathetic interest in local affairs which has been characteristic of it in the past.

A PEACE STAMP.

From sturdy little Holland comes an idea that possesses more than the germ of common sense, says the Montreal Star. It consists of a peace postage stamp, with the regular design and a peace symbol added, to be sold in popular denominations by all nations at the same prices as their regular issues and for the same purpose. The voluntary purchase of a peace stamp will be regarded as a vote for peace, the request for such a stamp and the use of it being taken as an indication of the purchaser's sentiments.

Reich Catholic Party Agrees To Dissolution

Last Non-Nazi Group Quits for Hitler's Sake; Was Once Powerful.

Berlin, July 5 (A.P.).—Former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening announced tonight the dissolution of the Catholic Centrist party, last non-Nazi political party in Germany.

A laconic statement issued by him said: "The Centrist party has dissolved itself in agreement with the chancellor (Hitler)."

The extinction of the Centrists marks the end of the parliamentary party system in Germany as well as the end of political Catholicism. The Bavarian Populists, allies of the Centrists, quit the political scene yesterday. Between them these parties held 88 of 584 seats in the pre-Hitler Parliament.

Another Dissolution.

The Volkspartei, or Peoples party, of the late Chancellor Gustav Stresemann, which had only two Reichstag seats, but was formerly much more powerful, also announced its dissolution yesterday.

These parties followed the lead of the Nationalists, who had combined with the Nazis in establishing the new regime last January, in voluntarily disbanding. The Nazis themselves had previously outlawed the Communists, Socialists and Staatspartei.

The Catholic parties had held the balance of power in the Reichstag until the Nazi-Nationalist electoral victory of March 5.

May Become "Guests."

Semiofficially it was announced that the Centrists would become "guests" or "hospitants" of the Hitlerites in the Reichstag. One source said former Chancellor Bruening himself would not take this course.

His intention of largely maintaining a hands-off policy in the church situation in Germany was disclosed today by Chancellor Hitler to the dean of Chichester, who came here to investigate German Protestantism under the Nazi regime.

Meanwhile, an official announcement declared that satisfactory progress was being made in the efforts of Wilhelm Frick, minister of interior, to bring about a settlement of the Protestant church situation.

Howard Collapses; Dress Codes Wait

Deputy Chief of Recovery Board Felled by Heart Attack at Hotel.

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—The collapse from a heart attack of Earl Bean Howard, deputy administrator of the National Recovery Board, brought a sudden halt today to a meeting of apparel industry representatives seeking to draft operating codes under the industrial recovery act.

The National Millinery Council, composed of four organizations in the women's hat trade, had submitted a code, and representatives of other branches of the apparel industry were conferring on their own lines when Howard was stricken in a hotel elevator returning from lunch. Physicians revived him in his room and ordered him to take a complete rest.

Mr. Howard is a professor at Northwestern University. He had hoped to complete the code by tomorrow.

Auto Crash Is Fatal To Woman in Virginia

Covington, Va., July 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Virgie Helen May, 21, died in a hospital at Clifton Forge today as a result of a broken back suffered Sunday, June 24, when an automobile in which she was a passenger rolled down a mountainside into Jackson River.

Mrs. May and three other occupants of the car were in or on the bank of the river for several hours before they were able to attract attention of travelers on the highway above them. An ambulance was about to leave with the others when Mrs. Mary succeeded in attracting attention to the rock on which she was clinging.

Four Men Hang Prisoner After Jail Abduction

Clinton, S. C., July 5 (A.P.).—Four unidentified white men dragged Morris Bendy, 35-year-old Negro, from the small Clinton jail early today and a few hours later his beaten and strangled body was found in a church yard near here.

Bendy was placed in the jail, a typical small-town building with no regular jailor, late yesterday for striking Marvin Lollis, 22, white Clinton truck driver, and resisting arrest.

About midnight, the jail's Negro janitor said, four white men came to the building, knocked the lock off with a wrench and forced Bendy into their automobile. They disappeared before an alarm could be spread.

Thad Moore, a deputy sent by Sheriff Columbus Owens, of Laurens County, to search for the Negro and his captors, found the body in the old Sardis church yard, 7 miles from here, shortly before 1 p. m.

It bore marks of a severe beating and around the Negro's neck was a rope. The body, however, was lying at the gateway to the church's cemetery and Sheriff Owens said Bendy apparently had been hanged elsewhere and the body removed there.

Gen. Kress, Oldest West Pointer, Dies

Brig. Gen. John A. Kress, U. S. A., retired, reputed to be the oldest living graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, died Tuesday at Walter Reed Hospital. He was 93 years old and entered the academy in 1858, being graduated in 1861.

Gen Kress was born near Wellsboro, Pa., November 3, 1839. In 1861 he was named a major and the next year was raised to lieutenant colonel. He served through the various grades of the service and was retired at his own request after 40 years service in 1903.

Air Race Lost By Turner for Cutting Pylon

Wedell Awarded Victory in Event; Miss Earhart Plans Record Try.

Municipal Airport, Los Angeles, July 5 (A.P.).—A technical violation of the rules governing closed course racing took first place from Col. Roscoe Turner today in the valuable 100-mile event of the national air races and gave victory, to Jimmie Wedell, New Orleans pilot.

The Californian was disqualified by the contest committee for failure to turn the fourth pylon on the first lap of the race, run yesterday. Although Turner, on the next lap, encircled the pylon, the committee cited the regulation requiring the pilot to correct such a mistake immediately before proceeding on the remainder of the course.

First-place prize money of $3,375 was handed to Wedell, who ran second to Turner in speed.

Mechanics serviced the red high-wing monoplane of Amelia Earhart Putnam, transatlantic flier, here tonight in preparation for what was believed to be an attempt by the blonde flier to make a nonstop transcontinental flight to New York tomorrow.

Miss Earhart was not immediately available for comment on her plans, but friends understood she had in mind an attempt to set a new nonstop record for women between the two coasts. The present record for women of 19 hours 4 minutes from Los Angeles to New York was set by Miss Earhart August 26, 1932.

Weather conditions were reported good and mechanics said they had instructions to get the plane in shape for a take-off between midnight and 1 a. m. (Pacific standard time) tomorrow.

Ban on Divorcees' Marriages Asked

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—Divorced persons should be forbidden to marry again, Clarence E. Martin, president of the American Bar Association, told the National Education Association tonight.

Divorce, he said, has reached a higher rate here than in "any civilized country."

"Divorce by agreement," as proposed recently before the Association for the Advancement of Science, already exists in the United States, the Martinsburg (W. Va.) man said.

"Nearly nine-tenths of the divorces granted in this country in 1930 were uncontested cases," he said. "We have divorce by agreement. While not so bold or open as in Russia or Mexico, it is just as effective."

He proposed sharp tightening of the marriage laws.

Electric Rate Cut Seen in River Plan

Norris Tells Lehman That St. Lawrence Holds Best Promise.

Albany, N. Y., July 5 (A.P.).—Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, told Gov. Herbert H. Lehman late today that he believed the development of the St. Lawrence power program was New York State's best hope for reduced power rates.

Senator Norris and Senator Homer T. Bone, of Washington, called on Gov. Lehman shortly after they arrived in Albany from an inspection tour of the proposed power sites on the St. Lawrence River.

Both the senators favor the ratification of the treaty authorizing the power project and the St. Lawrence waterway, and it is understood that they will lead the fight for the power end of the program when the joint resolution comes before the Senate at its next session. The resolution has already passed the House. Senator Norris will go to Washington tomorrow, where he expects to confer with President Roosevelt on the power question within the next day or two.

Vital Energy

Florida 'Weakling' Asks D. C. 'Mayor' to Enroll Him in Health Institute.

Physical culture is apt to lose an ardent would-be disciple in Sarasota, Fla., on account of District economy habits and for other reasons.

"Would you be willing to help a friend mold his body from a weakling into a strong, vigorous, healthy body packed with vital energy and strength?" opens a letter addressed to the mayor of Washington by one Herbert Stanfield, of Sarasota, and received yesterday by the District Commissioners.

Then, for two typewritten pages, the writer explains his need for $37 to enroll in an institute of physical culture, which has built more than 10,000 men from weaklings into fellows of "big developed muscles, broad chests and strong legs by following his instructions a few minutes each day."

Commented Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the Commissioners: "He probably doesn't know that the District Government ended the fiscal year with a deficit of about $500,000.

W. C. T. U. Step Toward Third Party Is Taken

National Session Proposes Move to Attract Drys of Major Groups.

Milwaukee, July 5 (A.P.).—Dissatisfied with the stand taken by both major political parties, the annual convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union today adopted a resolution proposing a third party which would attract dry voters.

The plea for the resolution was made from the floor of the convention. The members of the committee hastily assembled and later submitted the following resolution:

"As the leaders of the major political parties are supporting the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, we call upon dry men and women in every State to consider sympathetically proposals for the formation of a new political party which will actively support the principles and policies of prohibition, along with other great moral issues. The times call for citizens to return to the standard of justice and honesty set by the framers of the Constitution."

The organization adopted it as the final act of business of the fifty-ninth annual convention, which ended with the acceptance speech of the new president, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, of Des Moines, Iowa, at a dinner tonight.

Mrs. Smith indicated that she was thoroughly in accord with the demand for a new party.

"If the major political parties fail to heed the demands for good government, the people have the power to call into being a new political party which will be a channel of expression for decency and honor in government."

$5,000,000 Is Left By Edward Swift

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—The estate of Edward F. Swift, who fell to his death from a window of his North Side home May 28, 1932, was valued at $5,000,000 in an inventory filed in probate court today.

The document showed money left in banks of Boston, New York and Chicago totaled $436,392 and listed other assets, including 121,622 shares of Swift & Co. stock. Mr. Swift was vice chairman of the board of the packing concern.

His will left $1,500,000 to charity, half the remainder of the estate to the widow, and the balance in a trust fund for his three children, T. Philip Swift, Edward F. Swift, jr., and Mrs. Annie May Swift Henry, and the latter's husband. The trust terminates two years after the death of the last survivor, and the estate then will go to the grandchildren.

Sheriff Forces Grand Jury to Abandon Work

Louisiana Panel Assailed in Open Court for "No Bill" in Vote Case.

New Orleans, July 5 (A.P.).—The Orleans Parish grand jury was forcibly made to adjourn a session today by the parish sheriff and deputies after the jurors had voted a "no true bill" in the prolonged investigation into alleged vote frauds here and Presiding Criminal Judge Alexander C. O'Donnell had refused to accept the finding.

The jury was assailed in open court by District Attorney Eugene Stanley, who publicly announced he would have nothing further to do with the panel.

Today's meeting of the grand jury followed publication of a statement by James M. Colomb, juryman, last Saturday in which he charged that nine members of the grand jury had agreed to report a "no true bill" in the vote investigation without examining contents of the Orleans ballot boxes used in last November's election, which had been brought into the jury room.

Court attaches pointed out that the court's refusal to accept the report left the investigation open for further action by this or another grand jury.

Air Records Set At Chicago Races

Municipal Airport, Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—Two of America's premier speed pilots—Johnny Livingston, of Aurora, Ill., and Jack Wright, of Utica, N. Y., set new unofficial air speed records today as the American air races ended.

Livingston, who has won more air races than any other pilot, shot his tiny white racer over a straightaway course at a speed of 242.34 miles an hour, more than 4 miles a minute.

Wright flashed over the 1.932-mile court at 183.86 miles an hour, in a two-seater plane weighing less than 1,000 pounds compared with the official record of 139.6 held by France.

Both pilots announced they would attempt later to exceed their marks under conditions that will make the records official.

Oklahoma's First Governor Expires

Charles Haskell Victim of Pneumonia; Was Once Rated Millionaire.

Oklahoma City, July 5 (A.P.).—Charles Nathaniel Haskell, the first Governor of Oklahoma, died today of pneumonia, at the age of 73. His wife was at his bedside. Funeral arrangements were delayed pending the arival of two daughters, Mrs. F. E. Richardson, of New York, and Mrs. W. B. Edmondson, of San Antonio, Tex.

A victim of Wall street ventures after reputedly becoming a millionaire, Haskell spent the evening of his life in efforts to recoup his fortune. When he left the governor's office in 1912, he was penniless.

Borrowing money for a vacation, he later became personal attorney for Harry Sinclair, oil magnate. Within a few years he was in New York looking after oil and other interests valued at $70,000,000. By 1928 his fortune had been depleted and after ventures in Texas and Mexico he returned to Oklahoma.

The Mode . . . Dare

YOU can wear sports wear on Mr. Roof's roof if you wanna—but I don't wanna, you see? And I just don'wanna, and I won't.

There I stepped gracefully (I hope) towards the elevator, around the terrace of Mr. Roof's summer night roof. Music softly playing, table after table of beautiful women and lovely women and gracious women, interesting men, nice men, dull men—and—if I must look out of the corner of my eye—they did turn their heads!

Shall I tell you what I wore? It was so simple! My long, dark gray organdy dress, rather simply cut, not too fussy; gray shoes and stockings; long gray suede gloves, and the gray straw hat that I stiffened with colorless nail polish—'member? Well, and a mauve handkerchief, a mother of pearl vanity that belonged to great-great-grandmother, and her soft filagree and dull amethyst brooch.

They had their chic sportwear, but I didn't. And they liked what I had, too. I think it's more appropriate for roof dining and dancing, so that's that. Sportswear, if you happen to be out in it, yes. But if you purposely dress for summer night dining and dancing, don't you think you owe it to elegance to dress as though for dining?

Thrilled to death and then some to be going back to Paree again—boat sails Saturday, and is there a rush! This time I haven't an extensive evening wardrobe, nor even much time in which to get one, nor much inclination to get one, nor many pennies with which to get one—sounds like a song or something, doesn't it! Well, as it happens, that's the way things are. I'll write about things on the boat though, so watch for the news.

Have you some sleeves in your wardrobe that you don't quite like? Sleeves that are perhaps ruined underneath, too. They are the hard ones to do anything with. But I had some, and worked so hard to make them over in order to get more use out of the dress, that I just thought you would like to have the leaflet telling you how to do it. So-o-o-o-o, here it is all ready for your stamped, self-addressed envelope, which you simply send to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. And the directions for some new and interesting ways to remake old sleeves into new sleeves will be yours. Nothing like the leaflet we gave on this subject some time ago, either. Send for it and see.

New York seems to find the white pique jacket with the black skirt, white or black shoes, and the little white hat with a black band, a nice dinner outfit. At any rate, several of these have been seen dining out. One chic miss even had white spats over her black shoes and if that didn't look doggy!

By Mary Brook Lucas

If you are the type for big hats you are in clover this summer. For a club luncheon, Jeanne chooses a brown toyo model with a crisp bow and matching gloves of brown and white polka-dot organdie. Her dress is in a creamy beige sheer, cut with a square neckline and fly away collar.

A clever hat for the matron is a tailored narrow brimmed model of coarse white straw banded in wide black velvet ribbon. An upstanding front trim of pique petals and yellow linen daisies give it quite an air. A crisp little bunch of the daisies trim the pique frock's simple neckline.

Red, white and blue field flowers encircle the absurd crown of the cartwheel of rough white straw. This same type of hat in black with corn flowers and daisies or in leghorn trimmed with wheat ears are reminiscent of the days when we wore sailor hats with elastic chin straps.

Crowd Jostles First Lady at Son's Sailing

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt paid a dime, just like all the others, and elbowed her way through the crowd on the pier to board the S. S. Washington today and bid good-by to her son, Franklin, jr., sailing for a vacation in Europe with three classmates from Groton School.

Capt. George Fried, famous skipper of the new United States liner, came down to the boys' cabin before the ship sailed and promised to let them take a turn at the wheel. And pretty girls tugged at young Roosevelt's arm as he walked the deck.

"I'm a great admirer of your father and I like you, too," one of them said.

"Thank you," the young man replied, touching his hat.

Mrs. Roosevelt kissed her son good-by and departed half an hour before sailing time so he could be with his friends. They called him "Roose" as they shouted from the dock.

Sailing with him for a two months' sojourn in France, England, Spain and Switzerland were George Whitney, jr., son of the Morgan partner, and Drexel Paul, jr., of Philadelphia.

Other passengers on the ship included William E. Dodd, ambassador to Germany; Robert P. Skinner, ambassador to Turkey; Monnett B. Davis, consul general at Stockholm; Henry P. Leverich, vice consul at Berlin; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and Dr. and Mrs. Fred A. Albee. Norman H. Davis, ambassador at large, had booked passage, but canceled his reservation.

"The President seems to be moving toward better international feeling," said Ambassador Dodd, a former University of Chicago professor. "He is Wilsonian in his international outlook. I feel personally that the United States has a great mission to perform in international affairs."

FREAK HANDS.

FREAK hands at Bridge defy the ordinary rules of bidding, as unusual distribution sets at naught the values of honors and frequently makes Aces worth less than deuces. The chances of extremely freakish distribution are greatly reduced through the ordinary precautions taken in shuffling, but it occasionally happens—particularly with people who do not study the make-up of a deck of cards—that precautions taken to assure a good mixture of the cards result in the most bizarre freaks imaginable.

A hand actually dealt recently in a Rubber game at Crockford's Club, New York, was most freakish. Actually, while the distribution was freakish, the cards fell exactly as any one who had studied the make-up of a deck of cards could have known. In order to guard against a recurrence of such a thing, I will give the hand with the bidding.

South, Dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Dbl.	Redbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Obviously, the hand is made laid down. There is not a single trick available for any one except the declaring side. It is equally obvious that the hand produces a Grand Slam in any one of the four suits.

The only interest in such freaks is the method by which they are obtained. In this particular case a new deck of cards had just been opened and the player who became the Dealer decided to give them what he thought would be an excellent shuffle. He took the top card from the deck and placed it on top of the bottom and repeated the process throughout until he had gone through the deck. The deck, without further shuffle, was then handed to his right-hand opponent, who, paying no attention to the manner in which the deck had been shuffled, cut. Then the deal proceeded in order. The result was this apparent freak, which, while proving nothing, was perhaps a tribute to the accuracy of this particular method of shuffling.

After the deal was over, naturally there was a discussion. One player raised the point that the deck could not have been shuffled. Obviously this was incorrect, as if the deck had not been shuffled, no player would have received more than four cards in any suit for less than three. In fact, an unshuffled deck produces the least freakish of all possible distributions. This distribution, however, is not particularly desirable as a regular diet. Irregularities in the distribution of the cards are much more to be sought after than a distribution which follows a regular pattern, and that pattern dictated by the card manufacturers.

Such hands as are shown above, or so-called perfect hands, containing 13 cards of a suit, are not impossible if the ordinary precautions of shuffling before dealing are taken. They are, however, so extremely improbable that it is probably safe to say that no perfect hand has ever been dealt with cards that have undergone the regular process of shuffling.

The result of this deal, so far as the participants in the game in question were concerned, was that each of them hereafter will not put much faith in attaining anything like a perfect shuffle by the process that is ordinarily known as "milking" the deck. So far as the unfortunate Dealer and his partner were concerned, the milking process did not end with the shuffle. It reached later into their pocketbooks to the extent of a non-vulnerable Grand Slam made redoubled. While the Dealer had no one but himself to blame, possibly the result slightly strains any milk, even the milk of human kindness.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

South, Dealer.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

FELONS.

A CORRESPONDENT wants some information on felons. A specific question is whether the condition is found on the thumb or is limited to the fingers.

Felon is a colloquial name for infection of the deeper tissues in the last joint of any one of the fingers, including the thumb. The writers father lost one joint of his thumb from that cause. Some class suppurations around the mail among the felons; others do not. On the other hand, some limit the term to those deep suppurations which destroy bone. The first inclusion is not proper and the second limits the term too much.

The wonder is that there are not more felons. The fingers are the original inquiring reporters. They are almost always on the job—feeling this way and that, poking in here and there. They are to man what the antennae are to insects, the whiskers of catfish and sturgeon, the tongue to snakes, the pseudopodia to various lower forms of animal. The eye has something of that function, and the ear, but they are well protected. The fingers have all kinds of chances to pick up infection.

These organs are arranged for business. They consist of a bone stem to which many ligaments, tendons and fascia are tied. Around this is skin. There is almost no excess baggage. The tissues are strong and dense. This arrangement means that if bacteria capable of causing suppuration get through the skin and into the dense layers of fascia beneath they tend to spread into the bone, the ligaments and the tendon sheath.

Deep boils in this region are impossible. The reason for not including suppurations around the nails among the felons is that the location is superficial to the deep fascia and it results in boils. Once an infection gets into the deep tissues it can no longer come to a head on the surface. It tends to burrow under layers of fascia and along the sheath of tendons. If, therefore, a felon is left alone to be to a head, as is proper in the case of a boil, the pus is apt to cause the loss of a small finger bone, to stiffen a joint, or otherwise to put the finger out of commission permanently.

For this reason it is advisable to open a felon early and to be rather extravagant with the openings. The openings should be lengthwise of the finger as a rule because tendons must not be cut across, and they should go to the bone. The object is to make it easy for the pus to escape through the dense tissues and to the outside lest it burrow into the bone and the joints.

Other than this, a felon should be considered as a boil and treated as such. Once the infection can get through the dense tissues and to the outside it acts like any other infection causing a boil. It is the nearness of bone, with the preponderance of dense tissue, that causes felons to be recognized as a class to have a name and to call for special treatment.

GLAND PROBABLY TO BLAME.

J. J. B. writes: Is it possible for a person to reduce weight if he has been stout from birth? When I was 14 years old I weighed 170 pounds and kept steadily gaining until today, at 40, I weigh 237 pounds. I am a man 5 feet 6 inches tall and I am getting short-winded.

REPLY.

The probability is that your trouble is due to a ductless gland disorder. It may be that you can be reduced. You would need to diet and also to take thyroid and pituitary under a physician's observation.

The Meanderer Says

What a soft time the Meanderer had collecting data for the report of her wanderings today! She searched for the laziest hard-to-get-out-of loafing corners in the shops selling porch and garden equipment. The luxurious amount of time taken in examination of the admirable ways to be lazy, with all the notes taken in a dawdling position, had to be atoned for by much fast galloping back to tell you about it.

The wheelbarrow bench, a droll summer comfort creation, gets high score on the Meanderer's list of ways to be lazy. Its general outline is that of a generous park bench glorified with cushions for comfort. But one end is supported by regular bench legs and the other is set on wheels, so that the whole is pushable. So if the sun gets too hot one literally picks up this downy bed and trundles it over to the better location; or if the groupings on the porch or lawn aren't any too congenial, this amusing wheelbarrow couch may be shifted about ostensibly to demonstrate its mobility and, presto! to make for a more tactful grouping thereby.

Soft backing of matting in another piece of lawn or porch furniture makes it one of the most comfortable articles of its sort on the market. The frame of this chair is steel, and its shape is the leanback shape of the deck chair. The matting seat and back make for coolness. This chair costs $7.50 in an F street store.

Garden or beach umbrellas of bright cloth cost as little as $4 in this summer furniture department. The umbrellas fit into tables, to make an attractive outdoor ensemble.

Old-fashioned hammocks tempted the Meanderer to stay on and on until the hammocks almost didn't get mentioned in this colum. A couple of dollars will buy this time-honored comfort. Most of the hammocks look much like they did years ago, but one of them—in large green and white blocked pattern, has felt the onslaught of the 1933 mania for plaids. The green-checked one is yours for about $4.

The travel bureau in one store was a spot the Meanderer wanted to stop in, to see how some Washingtonians were planning to spend their vacations. But the bureau is so popular that the Meanderer could only get on the outer edge of the group of "travel shoppers." "Nof if you stay at such-and-such a place overnight you will need another $10, and then $2.50 more to get you to another so-and-so place (of much inviting sound) . . ." babbled on the travel saleswoman. The Meanderer wished she could have had a travel vacation wrapped up to carry home, so alluring did all the varied itineraries sound.

Portable radios combined with electrolas are going on many a vacation. This two-way amusement feature is featured at $69.50 complete.

Eleanor Custis, gifted Washington artist, has done a sailboat cover on one of the quality magazines that can inspire one to sail away "from it all" and have a vacation with destination unknown.

Oh, well, stay-at-homes can buy a tricky little table fitted with two good-looking brass trays that will hold a lot of beers or highballs, for only $1.95. Thrown in with this comforting low price are a cigarette box, ash trays and match box, matching the brass trays. The table frame is designed of real teakwood and folds up unobtrusively when not wanted, but is guaranteed to stand by faithfully when needed.

Amber glass liqueur sets of slender, appealing design—bottle and six gracefully long-stemmed glasses for only $1—seem to take glory from the shiny brass when used with the table described above, the whole making a costly effect for a nominal price.

Ice compartments within a new beer pitcher keep the beer and ice quite separate and do a good job of chilling the beverage. The thick glass ice compartment, extending from the lid of the pitcher, holds four ice cubes from the average electric refrigerator, and the compartment is so insulated that the ice lasts satisfactorily without replenishment.

Gouverneur Morris' Maid Beats Burglar

Los Angeles, July 5 (A.P.).—A burglar invaded the home of Gouverneur Morris, novelist, early today and escaped with revolvers, jewelry, bric-a-brac and a bump on the head.

He was given the bump by a maid who wielded a seltzer bottle while her sister caned the burglar's companion. The Morris family was on a holiday trip.

War-Time Potash Boom Town Quits

The Sheridan County Board this week merged it with Reno Precinct, the remains of the boom town of Antioch. The action followed discovery that $110 taxes assessed in the precinct were balanced almost exactly by the expense of the assessment.

Two potash plants costing $2,000,000 apiece were built in Hoffland Precinct after the World War had cut off America's potash source in Europe. The fertilizer was obtained from alkaline lakes in this region. Antioch thrived on the business and 1,200 to 1,500 people crowded within its limits. But the boom died when cheap European potash floated into American ports again. A few piles of brick mark the sites of the plants.

What Today Means

By Mary Blake.

"CANCER."

INFLUENCES operating on this date will tend to make people secretive to an unusual degree. People will be loath to give out information and individuals engaged in work of an investigatorial nature will make little progress. In affairs more personal and particularly in the home, an air of mystery will clothe even the simplest of happenings.

The child born on this July 6 will quite possibly have a destructive streak in his make-up; he will be very careless with his toys and at times will willfully break his playthings. He will be rough on his clothes and will be a very difficult little one to keep clean. Will probably have an excessive amount of energy.

If July 6 is the date of your birth it is possible that you are the type of person who is very fussy about details, often to the neglect of more important matters. If you are a housewife, you are much more inclined to fuss about the outward appearances of your home rather than about the broader and more important matters of its management. If you are a man, you will no doubt have greater facility for handling matters of detail and routine rather than for handling matters executive in nature. You will do better working as an assistant to some one, following up plans outlined and inaugurated by your superior. You are the type of person who more often than not is the perfect assistant; you are thoroughly reliable, accurate in handling detail and eager to cooperate with your fellow workers.

Born on July 6, you will undoubtedly marry more as a matter of routine than because of a great love. You will be happy, devoted to your mate, absolutely faithful, and unusually fond of your children.

Miss Hawks Back From Paris Parley

Miss Mary G. Hawks, president of the National Council of Catholic Women, returned to Washington yesterday after attending the International Congress in Paris on Industrial Work of the Mother and the Workingman's Home. She was the only delegate from the United States.

The chief problem of the congress, according to Miss Hawks, was the alarming increase in every country of mothers engaged in industrial work, with resulting depopulation, infant mortality and delinquency.

Miss Hawks was chosen at the end of the congress, attended by social workers from every part of the world, to make the address thanking the municipality of Paris for its hospitality.

History Will Figure In New Ship Names

Yorktown and Valley Forge, two famous landmarks in Colonial history, are expected to be the names of two of the Navy's new aircraft carriers, it was learned at the Navy Department yesterday.

Rear Admiral Frank B. Upham, former chief of the Bureau of Navigation, has urged the selection of these names to Secretary Swanson, and it is probable that the Secretary will accept the recommendations.

In making the recommendations, Admiral Upham emphasized, that the names are in keeping with Lexington and Saratoga, two of the present carriers.

Four destroyer leaders, the first of that type to be built for the Navy, will be named for four naval heroes—Dewey, Farragut, Porter and Mahan.

Auto Death Inquest Set at Hyattsville

An inquest will be held Saturday night at Hyattsville into the death of Arthur Harvey, colored, 24, of 2205 Virginia avenue northwest, killed early yesterday in an automobile accident near Lanham, Md.

Harvey was killed while riding in an automobile operated by Elliott Spriggs, colored, 2146 I street northwest. The car, Prince Georges County police said, struck the rear of a machine driven by Charles Wood, 1401 Perry place northwest.

Relief Work Strike Continues in Iowa

Sioux City, Iowa, July 5 (A.P.).—The strike of more than 1,000 men employed on county and city relief projects continued today. The men held out for increased wages and payment in cash instead of grocery orders.

Extension of relief to unemployed has come to a halt except in extreme cases of need. The men are asking a wage of 45 cents an hour with a minimum of 30 hours a week.

Tennessee Valley Project Is Unique

"Pioneer" Architecture to Be Invoked for Housing of Workers.

A distinctive architecture, drawing its inspiration from the soil and from the pioneers of Tennessee, will be called into being to house the workers at the Cove Creek development of the Tennessee Valley.

Earle Sumner Draper has been appointed by the Tennessee Valley Authority to take charge of land planning and housing.

"It is my feeling," comments Mr. Draper, "that the architecture which will form the motif for this town must be very carefully studied. It should disregard any other housing development, regional or otherwise, and go back to the early settlers for its inspiration, so as to provide architecture that is not only adapted to the particular use required but is also typical of Tennessee."

Oliver Hardy's Wife Gambles Back at Him

Los Angeles, July 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Oliver Hardy, wife of the heavyweight member of the film comedy team of Laurel and Hardy, says her husband likes to gamble, but can not pick a winner.

Answering her husband's divorce suit with a cross-complaint, in which she seeks the decree, Mrs. Hardy said their community property had dwindled because of Oliver's gambling losses. Once in 1931, she said, her husband lost $30,000 on the horse races at Agua Caliente. She also stated he dropped $3,000 at roulette, and that he lost from $100 to $175 a day on wagers on golf and cards.

Wallpaper Industry Fixes Wage.

Joliet, Ill., July 5 (A.P.).—A minimum wage of 30 cents an hour for 40-hour week has been agreed upon by the wallpaper industry, Eugene M. Lennon, of Joliet, chairman of the advisory committee of the American Wallpaper Manufacturers Association, said today.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

WITH Manager Joe Cronin and Pitcher Alvin Crowder signally honored as participants, Washington fans will doubtless tune in on the description of baseball's "Game of the Century," in which an all-star National League team will be pitted against an equally brilliant aggregation of American Leaguers this afternoon. (WRC and WJSV, 1 o'clock.)

Cronin and Crowder went directly to Chicago after the Fourth of July double-header with the New York Yankees to take part in the contest.

The "Game of the Century" will constitute organized baseball's contribution to a Century of Progress. Proceeds of the game will go to the retired players of both leagues who are in need of financial assistance.

While the world's series brings together the championship teams of each league, many of the game's greatest stars are with other clubs. The two teams meeting today were named by the presidents of the two leagues, William Harridge and John Heydler, from the results of popular vote.

Two thousand manufacturers, merchants and business men in New York City will attend a discussion of "Industrial Recovery" at a luncheon of the Merchants Association of New York this noon.

Donald Richberg, chief of the legal division of the industrial recovery administration, and Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will be the speakers. Richberg is now working closely with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the great plan. (WRC, 12:15 p. m.)

A NEW show, which begins at 9 p. m. over WRC, with Ray Perkins as master of ceremonies, will bring to the air for the first time Ray's kid sister, Bobby Perkins, musical comedy ingenue, who has appeared on Broadway in a number of musical comedies, including "Animal Crackers," with the Marx Brothers.

The Rollickers male quartet, Roy Smeck, the "wizard of the strings;" Jimmy Brierly, tenor; Mario Cozzi, barytone; Kathryn Newman and Peg La Centra will provide the vocal music and will be assisted by Louis Katzman's orchestra.

There will be a specially written "Raising Junior" sketch by the Dixons; comedy impersonations by Hildegarde Halliday, diseuse, and a Shakespearean monologue by William S. Rainey. Ray Perkins will contribute two numbers and will introduce each of the artists, assisted by Howard Claney as "vice-presider."

This show succeeds Jack Pearl, "Baron Munchausen," who went off the air last week and will not be back until October. There is a report that Jack has definitely discarded "Baron Munchausen" because he is of the opinion that the celebrated raconteur has had his day.

When Pearl returns to the air he will still wear the crest of a baron, but he will not be the notorious fabricator so familiar to listeners. He will be a more serious-minded soul. And—"Sharlie" will be there.

Ed Wynn said Carnera is so big that he keeps company with the Statue of Liberty. Likewise the Italian champion is so huge that he uses Niagara Falls for a shower bath.

A PERSONAL touch was added to the address of Senator Couzens, of Michigan, from the World Economic Conference in London when he concluded by saying:

"I want to thank the broadcasting company for permission to send greetings to my youngest grandson, who has been born in Detroit since I left for London."

Senator Couzens referred to the child of his eldest daughter, Mrs. Madeline Yaw, of Detroit, who as yet has not been named.

That favorite of old-time favorites, "Casey Jones," will be featured by "The Railroaders," a collegiate male chorus of ten voices, when they appear in the second of the "World's Fair Invitation," over WJSV at 8:45 p. m.

After this program, "World's Fair Invitation" will settle into its regular schedule each Monday and Thursday at the same hour. The Monday show was omitted in the first week.

Dispossessed of his river show boat, Capt. Henry and the entire troupe of show boat entertainers will nevertheless be heard on the air tonight from aboard a United Fruit liner en route to Havana. (WRC, 8 o'clock.)

When Uriah Cadwalder, rival show boat operator, evicted Capt. Henry from his river boat in Owensboro last Thursday, he thought that he had driven Capt. Henry out of business. But the captain always has something up his sleeve, so tonight the show boat audience has been promised that they will hear their regular entertainment crew broadcasting from the ocean instead of one of their usual river stopping places.

GILDA GRAY, better remembered by some of us as a dancer, but who is also a vocalist; Willie and Eugene Howard, comedians; the Hertz Brothers, musical team, and Bert Lytell, Broadway stage star, will be on Rudy Vallee's hour at 7 p. m. over WRC.

Gilda will be assisted by Louis Alter, composer of many song hits, at the piano. The Hertz Brothers play the saxophone and accordion. It seems that Rudy Vallee, motoring to Rye the other Sunday, happened to tune in on WAAT, Jersey City, with his car radio and heard the brothers. Impressed by the quality of their playing and their arrangements, he got in touch with them and is bringing them to the network for the first time.

Boswell, Dr. Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Sheridan and the famous actress, Mrs. Siddons, are some of the characters who come to life again in "The Silver Candlestick," a serio-comic moment before an eighteenth century first night in the theater, which will be presented tonight through WMAL at 9 o'clock.

The playlet is by Rudolph de Cordova and Alicia Ramsey, joint authors also of "Dr. Abernethy," which won first place in the British Drama League competition. It takes place just before Mrs. Siddons plays Lady Macbeth, and the argument, participated in by the most brilliant writers of the day, is to determine whether or not she is to carry a silver candlestick in the famous sleep-walking scene.

BEGINNING a series of political talks by various speakers, W. Worth Smith, Democratic primary candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in Virginia, will speak over WJSV tonight from 9:00 to 9:30.

"The Nitrogen Problem" will be taken up by Robert Fiske Griggs, professor of botany, in the George Washington University Forum (WMAL, 7:30 p. m.)

The Elementary Science Corps of the D. C. Public Schools will present another program at noon over WRC.

After years of study and research, Jack Benny, radio's exponent of the gag, has discovered what the nudists do when cold weather comes. They dress in cellophane.

Home of O. Henry's Widow Razed by Fire

Asheville, N. C., July 5 (A.P.).—The home of Mrs. William Sydney Porter, widow of the short-story writer, O. Henry, near Weaverville, was destroyed by fire today.

The 100-year-old house was burned to the ground within 30 minutes after the blaze was discovered. Several special editions of O. Henry's works were saved as was most of the furniture and personal property of Mrs. Porter. The house was valued at $10,000.

Park Service Post Is Given To Cammerer

Named Director as H. W. Albright Resigns; Two Others Appointed.

Three appointments in the Department of the Interior were announced yesterday as the resignation of Horace M. Albright as director of the National Park Service was accepted "with deep regret."

Arno B. Cammerer, associate director of the Park Service, was named to succeed Mr. Albright. T. S. Hogan, Texas oil man, was appointed assistant solicitor of the department. Mr. Cammerer's post will be filled by Arthur E. Demaray.

Mr. Albright was director of the Park Service in 1929, at which time he was one of the youngest bureau chiefs in the Government service. He served as assistant director from the formation of the service in 1917 until 1919. Mr. Albright resigned voluntarily, to become vice president and general manager of the United States Potash Co.

Mr. Cammerer became assistant director of the service after Mr. Albright left in 1919. Later his title was changed to that of associate director, as the service grew. He has been in the Government service since 1904. During this time he has served as assistant secretary to the Fine Arts Commission and secretary to the Public Buildings Commission.

The new associate director, Mr. Demaray, has been senior assistant director of the service, which he joined in 1917. He is largely responsible for the service's accounting system, the Yorktown Sesquicentennial celebration and the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Mr. Hogan entered public life at the age of 21, when he became secretary of state of Montana. Later he practiced law and built up a cattle ranch and oil business. He served one term in the Montana State Senate, but recently has been interested in oil developments in the West and Southwest.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—This domestic comedy occurred in one of those suburban communities that edge onto New York, and the reason the hostess' name isn't mentioned is that she is attempting to keep the true story a secret from her guests.

The other night she invited half a dozen friends to a formal little dinner and one of the chief items on the menu was to be mushrooms grown in her own garden. When her gardener, a Japanese, brought in a pan of the mushrooms, they didn't look just right, so she ordered the cook to feed a few of them to the dog first and see if anything happened.

After dining, the dog appeared quite as healthy as ever, and so the mushrooms were served at dinner and appreciatively devoured by the guests.

As they were having coffee, the cook whispered to the hostess, "I'm sorry, mum, but the dog just died. He—"

The hostess didn't wait for details. Rushing to the 'phone, she summoned an ambulance and several doctors. All the guests were given emergency medical treatment, and they came out a wan, suffering lot. Then the doctor asked for the body of the late lamented dog.

Marine Note.

A friend of mine tells me a tale that seems most typical of true Yankee conservatism. An old downeaster was cruising about Long Island sound when he saw an agitated speck in the distance. Overhauling it, he saw that it was an overturned canoe with two men clinging to the sides.

Pulling up beside them, he contemplated the scene for a few minutes, making no effort to pull the shipwrecked striplings aboard.

"Waal," he finally concluded, "you boys are right in the boat lane and somebody is bound to pick you up before dark. But, being as I'm out here, I might as well pick you up myself. So climb in."

A dramatic star, with a prima donna complex, was complaining to Arch Selywn about her role. "I don't like it," she protested. "I should have a more dramatic entrance."

"I don't know about the entrance," flipped Selwyn. "But I can give you a more dramatic exit. You're fired."

The World's Most Famous Rhymster

Respect the Dead.

WHEN Poe, the poet, died the death, no sooner had his final breath escaped his worn and tortured frame than fierce and jealous writers came and pictured him as one so base he shamed the well-known human race. Fair-minded men have nobly tried to renovate him since he died, to clear his badly smirched renown, and show that lies were written down by many a false and bitter skate, inspired by envy and by hate. And so in later years we feel that Poe received an ugly deal, and he was made of finer grit than his detractors would admit. But even in these better times some still bewail the poet's crimes; he is not here for his defense; he's sleeping by the boneyard fence, and from his rest he can not rise to nail the liar and his lies. A book just published brings a new and frightful charge, if it is true; it says that Edgar, now so mute, when he was living played the flute. I'll not believe the deadly charge; no witnesses are now at large who ever heard that harassed gent blow tunes from such an instrument. I say it is a wicked shame to place new blots upon his fame just when the world is being led to pity poor unlucky Ed, whose life was full of thorns and tares, whose pathway led by gins and snares.

Valuable Gold Ore Found in Campfire

Salida, Colo., July 5 (A.P.).—July Fourth may prove to have been a real independence day for K. C. Keim, Salida paperhanger. He found a piece of gold ore the size of an egg in a fire he built in a cave while on a holiday outing.

Robert Smith, Leadville mining engineer, said the ore assayed in excess of $60,000 per ton.

U. S. Committee Backs Plan to Protect Prices

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 5.—Frustration of European efforts to influence American monetary policy, first by political and then by central bank action, is viewed with satisfaction by the committee for the Nation.

Commending President Roosevelt's response to developments at London, this committee of industrial and agricultural leaders recommends that the currency ratio controversy be given a further quietus by immediate exercise of the President's authority to revalue the dollar.

The extent of revaluation recommended by the committee's economists as necessary to restore the 1926 price level is a cut of 42.8 per cent in gold content. This would amount to increasing the United States Treasury price for gold from $20.67 to $36.17 an ounce, compared with the current London price, which, at recent exchange equivalents, has been about $26.

Free Gold Market.

The committee for the Nation would approve either immediate revaluing of gold at $36.17 or gradual increase to that price by establishment of a free gold market in America.

"The purpose of European statesmen, taking a short and mistaken view, has been to keep the purchasing power of the United States dollar from returning to 'normal,' says the committee. "This has been in evidence since the visit to Washington of Prime Minister MacDonald, when a $3.50 ratio was suggested.

Stabilization at this point would have left American industry and agriculture burdened with an insupportable load of debt and fixed charges, and seriously handicapped in their competitive position in world markets.

Europe Changes Tactics.

"When combined European influences were defeated at London by President Roosevelt's refusal to accede to the first proposals for stabilization, they renewed their efforts through the central banks to gain the same end. On June 23 an illuminating dispatch from London indicated that the central bank plan was frustrated by premature jubilant publicity in the British and French press.

"At the same time John Maynard Keynes, economic adviser to the British Cabinet, was leading a new movement 'to link the pound with the dollar and so join and help control the American inflationary movement'.

"All information from London has indicated a purpose in Europe to limit American action so that the cut in gold value of the dollar should not exceed 25 or 30 per cent. Confirmation of this purpose came in a signed dispatch from London by Sir Arthur Salter, member of the British Economic Advisory Council. Sir Arthur went so far as to supply for Mr. Roosevelt the wording of a compromise statement by which the British economist would have had the American President announce his intention to reach a price level about half-way between the present level and that of 1928."

Domestic Price Level.

"Every attempt to arrest the fall of the dollar—whether this be called 'ironing out fluctuations' or 'steadying exchange'—checks the rebuilding of our domestic price level. Only in proportion as the dollar continues to move down to its 1926 purchasing power can our domestic price level move up. Only as we reach the 1926 level do the various economic groups come back to the balance which will permit prosperity. To enable us to reach our 1926 level, the dollar ratio to sterling of present gold value must go to $5.80 to the pound.

"The longer the delay in restoring our price level, the greater the opportunity for continuing interference from Europe and resistance from misguided and short-sighted interests at home. Business activity that has resulted already from a partial reduction of the abnormal purchasing power of the dollar during the past ten weeks, has amply demonstrated the feasibility of restoring the 1926 price level within four or five months. To continue on this course, in the face of the propaganda flowing from Europe, requires further courageous and decisive action. The President should be backed up by Nation-wide public opinion in favor of prompt revaluation of the dollar adequate to carry through the program of recovery.

"The impression that rapid restoration of normal price levels is dangerous, is a fallacy. The more rapidly purchasing power of the United States dollar is brought back to the 1926 normal, and the price level restored, the more rapidly America can return to that high level of industrial activity which made it the greatest consumer in the world of raw materials and other nation's goods.

"Every central bank operation interfering with adjustment in the gold value of the dollar delays industrial and economic revival not only of the United States but of all nations which profit from prosperity in this country."

Public Works Plan Aids Many Fields

(Associated Press.)

A dozen-odd industries are expected by the public works administration to benefit from the building of $400,000,000 worth of highways.

In fact, the administration figures that more men will be employed in industry than in actual construction of the roads. Where there are 11,000 man-hours of work required for the actual laying of one mile of highway, the administration said yesterday, 19,000 man-hours are needed to supply the materials.

Thus, estimated Donald H. Sawyer, temporary administrator of public works, the outside payrolls will be above $200,000,000. The industries he enumerated included steel, cement, explosives, gravel, crushed stone, fuels, sacks and bags, ore, gypsum, limestone, sand, power, asphalt, brick, and wire. Around 12,000,000 tons of freight must be transported, he added.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Structural steel—Sales of fabricated structural steel during the first half of the year approximated 400,000 tons, compared with 430,000 for the like period last year, according to trade estimates.

Canned foods—Several items display underlying strength on improving demand and light stocks. Spinach quotations are reported higher on the Pacific Coast. Trade opinion is that cling peaches will be quoted at advanced levels in the forthcoming opening.

Silver—The spot market has shown pronounced firmness during the past week in spite of a less favorable prospect for any developments of tangible value to the industry at the London conference. The current market is close to the 1933 high.

Fuel oil—An advance of 10 cents a barrel in bunker fuel oil has been made by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, affecting the company's Atlantic Coast and Gulf territory.

Cotton Curbing Likely to End Next Saturday

South Rushes Reduction Program for Early Conclusion.

Atlanta, July 5 (A.P.).—The South pushed its cotton-reduction pledging campaign today in hopes the drive for promises to reduce cotton acreage will be completed by Saturday.

That is the date selected as end of the pledge campaign, although the work may be extended. Farm leaders today reiterated announcements that cotton should not be plowed under until the Government gives the signal, and that figures on the pledges will not be released until the campaign is concluded.

Latest reports from Mississippi show that State has agreed to retire more than 750,000 acres. Its quota is 1,209,000 acres. C. A. Cobb, cotton administrator, congratulated Mississippi on its July Fourth "Farmers' Independence Day" drive. Approximately 7,000 field agents in that State were instructed today to organize squads to reach every planter in the State and get his pledge before Saturday.

Texas, largest cotton-growing State in the Union, has not released figures, but authorities there said recently the drive was well under way.

Alabama farmers have signed contracts to retire 303,096 acres. That State's quota is 988,000 acres.

Georgia workers reported pledges to retire 260,000 acres have been received. Louisiana farmers, through July 1, had pledged 41,875 acres of their 550,000-acre quota. Approximately 160,000 acres of Tennessee's 317,000 acres have been pledged.

Figures for South Carolina and Oklahoma were not announced, but the campaign was being pushed vigorously in both States.

Latest figures from North Carolina show 22,594 acres have been pledged there. Arkansas has pledged more than 151,000 acres.

Crude Oil Skyrockets To Peak of 85 Cents

Ponca City, Okla., July 5 (A.P.). The price of crude oil in Oklahoma, Kansas and north Texas skyrocketed an average of 33 cents today to a top of 85 cents with the posting of new quotations by the Continental Oil Co.

Curb's Decline Is Checked by Late Upswings

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Considerable profit-taking developed on the Curb Market after a steady opening today. Losses ranged from 1 to more than 3 points at one time, being particularly evident in utilities. A late upturn, however, reduced recessions in a number of issues and a few inactives and specialities closed higher.

Aluminum company recovered a point after dropping 5. Safety Car Heating reversed its recent trend by sagging 3. Celulloid issues were heavy, while Singer Manufacturing lost 2½ on a small transfer.

Distillery issues closed lower, Hiram Walker losing more than a point. Oil shares were fairly steady in the early dealings but closed irregularly. Gulf and Humble eased, while Standard Oil of Indiana and Standard Oil of Ohio improved. Mining shares finished with slight recessions.

Losses of a point or more among utilities and others embraced electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric, National Sugar, Swift Internacional, General Tire & Rubber and Great Atlantic & Pacific. Transfers approximated 645,000 shares compared with 707,000 Monday.

Foreign Markets.

London—Encouraged by favorable trade reports and foreign buying, industrials and home rails were the features of a general cheerful session of the stock exchange today. Gilt-edged securities eased while oil shares were active and firm. Argentine rails rose 1 to 3 points, but Transatlantic issues were irregular, losing part of an early improvement on today's Wall street opening. The market closed steady.

Paris—Unexpected weaknesses in the pound sterling and the dollar tended to unsettle prices on the bourse, causing some operators to take their profits and withdraw. However, renewed buying absorbed offerings and the closing was firm.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was uncertain and prices closed dull.

Stock Loss Reduced By Closing Rail Rally

Declines Are Trimmed by Recoveries to Six-Tenths of a Point; Specialties Hold Strength; Sales Total 5,922,010 Shares.

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Most financial markets drifted inconclusively today as governments endeavored to keep breath in the London conference.

Stocks were generally lower until a late flourish by rails boosted that group and helped others reduce earlier losses.

Dollar exchange began the day weakly, but eventually hardened. Perhaps our currency's rally against sterling prompted profitaking in stocks after midday's inflationary spree; at one time shares, including rails, showed losses of 1 to 5 points under active realizing.

By closing time, carriers had become strong, although neither industrials, as a whole, nor utilities were able to finish even with final prices of the previous session. Trading in all markets was brisk, stock sales totaling 5,922,010 shares.

Large traffic gains reported by several roads, including New York Central, for last week over a year ago bolstered the case for rails and net gains of 2 to 4 points accrued to New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Santa Fe, Illinois Central, Chicago & North Western, Atlantic Coast Line and Chesapeake & Ohio. Chesapeake Corporation was up 5. Union Pacific, after its rise of nearly 11 on Monday, was off 3.

Elsewhere, a few specialties gleamed brightly. Gillette lifted 3 points and Simmons, a favorite of 1929 days, rose more than 2. National Distillers and U. S. Industrial Alcohol upheld the banner of the wet issues. However, American Telephone, American Can, Westinghouse, du Pont, Case, Public Serice of New Jersey, Union Carbide, Eastman, Industrial Rayon and Celanese subsided 1 to 3 points net and a number of other leaders, including U. S. Steel, were off fractionally.

Coppers got some comfort from the 8½ cent quotation on domestic metal, the best price in about two years. Stocks have been reduced substantially over the past two months and if demand is maintained the industry expects still better results. Advances in midcontinent crude oil quotations were announced by some companies, but petroleum shares were rather indifferent.

Willys Overland Body Fights Reorganization

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—The committee representing the 6½ per cent sinking fund bonds of the Willys Overland Co. in a statement today declared its opposition to reorganization of the company under terms proposed by the committee headed by W. B. Stratton, who is also chairman of the preferred stockholders' committee.

The bondhlders' committee is headed by G. Munro Hubbard, of J. G. White & Co., Inc., of New York.

Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, says the road's June net operating income was as good as that of May, when $1,576,584 was reported.

Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation today reported that its June shipments were the largest in volume since October, 1930.

The thirty-seventh postponement of the auction sale of large blocks of Commonwealth Edison Co., Peoples Gas Light & Coke and Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois stocks, pledged as collateral for loans made to two Insull investment trusts by four New York banks, was made today. The sale was originally set for May 5, 1932, but has been deferred from month to month by litigation. The stocks pledged had a market value of $10,325,000 14 months ago; they are now worth approximately $9,700,000.

A block of 2,519 shares of Louisville & Nashville Railroad stock appeared in the name of Dutch brokers at the end of 1932, it was disclosed today. No Dutch interests were listed among the 20 largest holders in the previous year.

Because of the holiday, the Iron Age steel trade review and the weekly report of electric power production, usually appearing Wednesday, will be issued tomorrow.

Deposits of the National City Bank of New York increased $111,430,436 from March 31 to June 30, the statement for the latter date discloses. Deposits at the end of last month aggregated $1,134,750,257. The Guaranty Trust Co.'s deposits increased $35,078,104 in the same period to total of $1,087,621,195.

New public financing in the United States during the first half of 1933 totaled only $125,560,000, a decrease of 48 per cent from the same 1932 period, according to a compilation by National Statistical Service, Inc. The aggregates exclude domestic and Canadian municipal offerings.

Rails Aid Bond Market's Rise To New Highs

Sharp Rallies Give Push to Prices on Sale of $19,824,000.

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Sharp rallies in some secondary railway liens and foreign obligations today aided a somewhat uncertain bond market, to close at new high levels for the year.

The trading volume expanded to $19,824,000 par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced two-tenths of a point to another 1933 peak at 80.

Transportation mortgages, up 1 to 5 or more points on reports of further substantial increases in traffic earnings, included some of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake Corporation, Chicago Great Western, Chicago & North Western, Rock Island, Erie, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Frisco, Seaboard Airline and Southern Pacific. A contrary member of the Central of Georgia family, however, was the 5 per cent issue, Macon & Northern Division, which sold for the first time this year at a loss of 58¼ points.

A number of foreign obligations attracted buying at advances of 1 to 6 or more points, commitments in this section apparently being inspired by dollar depreciation. The most active gainers here included loans of France, Dutch East Indies, Japan, Poland, Switzerland and Great Britain. The Germans were irregular.

Domestic utilities and industrials were not especially enthusiastic, as Colorado Industrial 5s advanced 3¾ points, Old Ben Coal 6s were up 6, and bonds of the Paramount group gained 3 to 4½ points. American & Foreign Power 5s dropped 2, and there were a number of losers of around a point.

United States Government securities were quiet and moderately mixed.

Corn Rise High Above Wheat's Lead of Grains

Crop Damages Blamed as All Prices Shoot to High Ground.

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—With corn in the lead, all deliveries of all grains today outbid recent high-price records, corn soaring more than 4 cents a bushel.

Millions of dollars' damage which the new corn crop, especially in Illinois and Iowa, has suffered from cinch bugs, the most destructive insect pest known to American agriculture, was largely responsible for upturns of values.

In addition to corn crop uncertainty, with the critical period of growth ahead and unfavorable weather, the corn market also was stimulated by Washington plans for sharp curtailment of corn acreage.

Profit-Taking Appears.

Corn closed flurried, 2⅛ to 3¼ above Monday's finish; wheat, ⅝ to ¾ down; oats, 1¾ to 1⅞ off, and provisions showing a rise of 2 cents to 25 cents.

Attention of grain traders was focused on the corn market owing to reports by a leading crop authority, who had just returned from a 400-mile trip through the heart of the Illinois corn belt, and said the State was experiencing the greatest loss it had ever known from chinch bugs.

He reported complete destruction of whole fields in corn territory around Joliet, Kankakee, Gilman, Champaign and Bloomington. Thousands of acres of corn in Iowa's two southern tiers of counties were also reported destroyed.

Corn Insect Damages.

The fact that the Nation's corn crop this season is unusually late and that its condition is poor, did much to emphasize the menace from insect devastation. Houses with Eastern connections were especially active on the buying side of the corn market. Almost complete absence of offerings was witnessed at times in the corn pit, simultaneous with outbursts of unusual activity on the part of buyers, and price changes so rapid that blackboard quotations were often a full cent out of line.

Wheat values owed their upturns largely to advices of continued major crop losses, with Canada included. At today's apex, May delivery of wheat reached $1.09½, as against 43¾ cents for some future deliveries about six months ago. Complaints of urgent need of rain to prevent deterioration of domestic spring wheat attracted special notice. Oats chiefly followed wheat.

Gains in Business Revealed As Covering Entire Nation

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Business gains throughout the country in the last two months are characterized as "decisive" by the New York Board of Trade.

It made public yesterday the results of a survey garnered from chambers of commerce, boards of trade and other organizations in more than 100 cities.

As a result, the board says: "Using every index by which business is measured, the replies indicate substantial progress generally throughout the entire country."

Percy C. Magnus, president of the board, commented: "Upon reading the reports that have reached us * * * the conclusion is inescapable that the depression is over and that we are well on the road to recovery. The four months of March, April, May and June witnessed economic changes of colossal proportions."

The survey showed improvement in employment, working hours, wages and volume of sales. The only shaded portions of the report concerned Maine and Michigan, where gains were reported slow because of closed banks; similar difficulties in one city in Pennsylvania and another in New Jersey; and wheat crop failures in restricted areas of South Dakota and Kansas.

DOMESTIC BONDS.

The Theaters Announce Their New Attractions for Ensuing Week

Forgotten Men To Have a Gala Opening at Met

By Nelson B. Bell.

With the cooperation of civic, military and patriotic organizations, the dazzling play of spot and floodlights, flags flying, bugles sounding and all of the other colorful concomitants of a typical Hollywood premiere, "Forgotten Men," a symposium of official films assembled from the archives of 14 of the combatant nations on both sides of the World War, will be spread before the eager—and probably startled—gaze of Washington theatergoers for the first time tomorrow at the Warner Brothers' Metropolitan Theater.

While the customary house hours will be observed, with the first presentation of the feature scheduled for 10 a. m., it is for the 7:30 p. m., performance that the elaborate ceremonies have been planned.

The invitation list for this first evening presentation will include the ambassadors and ministers of all the countries whose activities are emblazoned upon this pictorial record of the conflict between the allies and the central powers, other members of the Diplomatic Corps, high ranking officials of the Army and Navy, members of the President's offical family, members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who will march to the theater in a body, headed by a brass band; Disabled War Veterans, Boy Scouts, service patients from the Walter Reed, Mount Alto and Naval Hospitals and members of the Boys Club. All these will be present as guests of the management.

The scenes revealed in "Forgotten Men" are said to be actual and to constitute one of the most impressive arguments against war ever released for public exhibition. In fact, the film is so grim, so brutal and so realistic in its depiction of all the slaughter and the terror and the filth of modern armed combat that it caused a storm of argument upon the recent occasion of its first presentation on Broadway.

One side contended that it was too horrible for mass public consumption; the other that in its ghastly realism lay its very power as documentary proof of the stupidity and futility of the highly organized butchery made possible by the destructive efficiency of the perfected implements of modern warfare.

Increased production of both features and short subjects, greater variety in film plots and the adaptation of more screen plays from popular novels and successful stage hits are the salient features of the program announced for the season of 1933-34, just made public by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures, and already under way in the Universal studios on the West Coast under the general direction of Carl Laemmle, jr.

Universal will make 36 feature pictures in the next twelve months, as compared with 26 last year, and short-reel comedy and novelty production will be proportionately increased.

Among the players previously featured in Universal productions who will continue under contract, many with advancement both in monetary return and prominence in billing, are "Slim" Summerville, ZaSu Pitts, Paul Lukas, Gloria Stuart, Tom Brown, Andy Devine, Onslow Stevens, Vince Barnett, Louise Fazenda, Sterling Hollaway, Hugh Enfield, Mabel Marden, Chester Morris, Ken Maynard, Buck Jones and Richard Talmadge.

Papa Laemmle has not attempted to specify by title the entire three dozen feature releases to which his company is pledged. He has, however, made plain that the nucleus of his pretentious program will consist of at least four musical productions, among them Sigmund Romberg's "Blossom Time," "Take a Chance," by Laurence Schwab and Buddy De Silva, and a B. F. Zeidman production for which Victor Schertzinger, who directed "The Constant Woman," now at the Columbia, will write the score and which he also personally will direct; "Slim" Summerville and ZaSu Pitts, in Ring Lardner's "Happiness Ahead," "Nervous Lovers," "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby," by Bertrand Robinson and Howard Lindsay, and a fourth story yet to be selected.

Edna Ferber's "Glamour" will enter production soon and Robert Wyler is preparing to direct "One Glamorous Night," from the novel "Bagdad on the Hudson," by Ward Morehouse. De La Motte Foque will contribute a fanciful marine story, "Daughters of the Sea;" William Anthony McGuire is collaborating with Billie Burke on "The Great Ziegfeld" and will also write "When the Time Comes" and a third original for direct translation by the cameras.

Elmer Rice, Pulitzer Prize winner, will be represented by "The Left Bank" and Vicki Baum, author of "Grand Hotel," will have "I Give My Love" on the list. Charles G. Norris, author of the memorable "Seed," has sold the screen rights to his latest novel, "Zest," to Universal and John Stahl already is filming "Only Yesterday," suggested by the Frederick Lewis Allen book, with Margaret Sullavan, John Boles and Billie Burke featured.

Several of Harold Bell Wright's adventure stories are to be picturized and there will be the correct proportion of exciting "Westerns" for Universal's group of cowboy stars.

All of which would seem to augur favorably for a longer season to be enjoyed next year by Manager Rodney Collier and the Rialto Theater, the official Washington outlet for the celluloid creations engineered by Papa Carl Laemmle and the smiling and toothy "Junior."

Raul Roulien, the handsome young South American, whose popularity in Buenos Aires is reputed to be comparable to Col. Charles Augustus Lindbergh's in this country, and who is to be seen in his first stellar assignment in "It's Great to Be Alive," at the Columbia, beginning Monday, has had his contract renewed by Fox on the strength of his work in his first American starring picture. The moral of this seems to be that it's great to be alive if you can star in vehicles like "It's Great to Be Alive."

Adolphe Menjou, who recently returned to Hollywood from New York with 24 new suits of clothes for use in Jesse L. Lasky's "The Worst Woman in Paris," makes the statement—and declares that it is his story, even if he is stuck with it—that paunchy men never are well dressed.

"An apple stomach," he says, "is death on clothes—or, at least the effect of good clothes. No tailor alive can make a dapper lady-killer of a fat man."

Which, by implication, is to say that only lady-killers can be well dressed. However that may be, M. Menjou startled the film colony a few hours after arriving by committing himself to the further statement that the ten best-dressed men in Hollywood are Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Doug, sr., Clive Brook, William Powell, Owen Moore, Frank Elliott, Sam Goldwyn, Sidney Franklin, Cedric Gibbons and George Fitzmaurice. A probable eleventh would be Adolphe Menjou.

Today is the day smoking begins in the mezzanine of RKO-Keith's, the first of the downtown, first-run houses to adopt the innovation—and that, I believe, is only on an experimental basis.

Bring your own matches! Also your own cigars, cigarets, pipes, hookahs, narghiles and corn silk!

This column finds it extremely difficult to lash itself into the lachrymose and briny state of morose misery enjoyed by the professional "sob sister" over the domestic debacle that seems to have overtaken Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, pere, and the imperial palace of Pickfair.

Thirteen years ago, as a result of that miraculous emergence of the motion picture as the favorite form of entertainment of millions of people, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford found themselves the "king" and "queen" of the "movies." As the reigning monarchs of their kingdom, they fell tremendously and hopelessly "in love."

The fact that Mr. Fairbanks had a wife and young son and that Miss Pickford was, at the moment, the wife of Owen Moore, was a mere negligible incidental to the glorious consummation of this grand and flaming passion.

There is reported to have been great anguish and a bitter estrangement in one household and a little impetuous pistoling in the other. But out of it all came that flawless abode of a bright and shining devotion known as Pickfair.

And now Pickfair has exploded with a loud and resounding bang that has had its repercussions around the globe.

There can be no question that Miss Pickford is a courageous young woman with a certain sort of simple and benign dignity, and that Mr. Fairbanks is a handsome and debonair exponent of a gay sort of romantic athleticism, and that it is all very pitiful, this disruption of their magnificent temple of legendary bliss, but, after all, there is only being visited upon them now what they visited upon others, no more culpable, in those sunrise days of 13 years ago. Business, in the light of later-day developments, has ceased to be business.

For your ready reference, next week's offerings in the cathedrals of the celluloids will be as follows: RKO-Keith's, Constance Bennett, with Joel McCrea in "Bed of Roses," opening today; Earle, Sylvia Sidney, with Donald Cook, Mary Astor and H. B. Warner in Theodore Dreiser's "Jennie Gerhardt," and William and Joe Mandel headlining the vaudeville bill; Loew's Fox, Jimmy Dunn and Sally Eilers in "Hold Me Tight," and Nan Halperin headlining the vaudeville, with the Illini Glee Club, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday only; Metropolitan, "Forgotten Men," official war film; Columbia, Raul Roulien in "It's Great to Be Alive," opening Monday; Palace, Jean Harlow and Clark Gable in "Hold Your Man," second week.

Proving Gen. Sherman Was Right!

A glimpse of the raging inferno known as war, as it is vividly and viciously depicted in "Forgotten Men," a picture that visualizes modern armed conflict with such ghastly realism as to constitute the screen's most vital argument for peace. An elaborate Washington premiere is planned for "Forgotten Men" at the Metropolitan Theater tomorrow night.

Confidence in Peru Cabinet Is Voted

Lima, Peru, July 5 (U.P.).—Congress tonight voted confidence in President Oscar R. Benavides' new cabinet after a dramatic speech by Premier Jorge Prado, whose reception was a mixture of personal acclaim and patriotic fervor. The vote was 84 to 4.

The cabinet broke all precedents by attending the session of Congress. It was not required to be present by the constitution and Congress had extended no invitation. An enormous crowd lined the streets and gave the cabinet members an ovation.

The keywords of Premier Prado's speech, in which he outlined the future ministerial policy, were "concord and justice." He said the times called for peace and tranquility and urged all to give up personal passions and prejudices "for peace and concord so that justice will be able to exercise its rights."

Navy Will Get U.S. Refunds of 114 Millions

Revealing Economy Saving Swanson Also Bares Development Plan.

Sixty million dollars, saved through naval operation and maintenance economies during the past four years, will be given back to the Navy, together with an additional $54,000,000, for a total of $114,000,000, all to be used for fleet maintenance and shore station construction, it was revealed yesterday in an announcemeat by Secretary Swanson.

The neccessary funds again will be sought from public works money, the Secreatry said in revealing the new plans which will bring the total to be expended on the Navy from this source to more than $350,000,000.

Approximately $77,000,000 will be used on fleet modernization, while around $37,000,000 will go for new shore stations and improvements of stations and navy yards now in service. President Roosevelt already has allocated $238,000,000 for construction of 32 new ships, while about $10,000,000 will be spent on the Navy's flying forces.

Swanson Is Confident.

The modernization program is designed to bring the operating efficiency of the American Navy up to its par under the provisions of the London Treaty. Naval officials pointed out yesterday that during the past four years they have failed to receive $60,000,000, which the general board of the Navy estimated was necessary to carry on the requisite maintenance. Public works money now will be used to effect these repairs.

"This program will make our battleships the equal of those of any navy," Secretary Swanson said in making the announcement.

Extending over a number of years, the program provides for gun elevation for the New York and the Texas, and greater deck protection for the California, the West Virginia, Maryland, Colorado and Tennessee.

Naval construction experts at the Navy Department explained that although the work could be done in a comparatively short period of time, it is deemed advisable to stretch it out over a period of three to five years to prevent the retirement of a number of our battleships to dry docks at the same time.

Seek Par as Fighting.

Limited by the London Treaty to 15 battleships, the Navy wants to put these on a new par of modern fighting power. Three of superdreadnought type, the New Mexico, the Mississippi and the Idaho, now are being modernized with the first two scheduled for completion in September. When these are completed work will start on one or two of the other ships under the new program.

Ships on which modernization work recently has been completed include the New York, Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Nevada, Pennsylvania, and the Arizona.

Cruisers, destroyers, aircraft carriers and submarines also will come in for a share of the repairs under the new program. General reconditioning and mechanical replacements will be made wherever necessary and as far as funds permit, it was explained.

Although none of the work has been allocated for the naval construction program, it is a foregone conclusion that the Washington Navy Yard will come in for a good share of the construction.

Dr. Wise Suggests Jews' Withdrawal

Hails Palestine as Port of Refuge if Hitler Continues War.

New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Dr. Stephen S. Wise, honorary president of the American Jewish Congress, said today that if "there is no recession from the Hitler oppression" a movement to bring the Jewish population out of Germany should be started.

Sailing to Europe to confer with Jewish leaders, Dr. Wise said that in the event the Jews must vacate Germany Palestine "must become their port of refuge."

Samuel Untermyer, in a statement issued on the eve of his departure for London, where he will attend the anti-Nazi World Conference, called for a world-wide boycott of German goods.

Jewish Body Raps Nazi Propagandists

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—The accusation that the Nazi government had employed propagandists to spread anti-Semitic publicity in America was made today at the closing session of the Sixth District Grand Lodge convention of the B'Nai B'rith Jewish fraternal order.

Sigmund Livingston, chairman of the order's Anti-Defamation League, charged Nazis had organizations in all large American cities which at first contributed to Hitler's political climb financially, then retained the services of a large New York propagandist organization to attempt to justify anti-Jewish activities in Germany.

He produced literature he said had been circulated for this purpose, and announced B'nai B'rith would reply with a program "to educate the public as to the true position of the Jew in Germany."

BASEBALL WORLD'S EYES ON ALL-STAR GAME TODAY

This Morning

By Shirley L. Povich.

THIS may be no time to be talking pennant, what with the season still lacking five games of being even half completed, but there may be something to the rumor that the Nats might win it.

Hundreds of reservations for world series tickets pouring into Griffith Stadium yesterday lend dignity to the belief that the Nats are apt to finish on top on October 1, and you can't convince those 3,000 Washingtonians who saw the Fourth of July celebration in Yankee Stadium that Joe Cronin hasn't got the best ball club in the league.

The old adage that the team that leads the league on July 4 is the team that wins the pennant brought up many serious arguments last Tuesday morning. Did it mean the team that leads at dawn, or the team that leads at dusk? The Nats had only a half-game margin, and two wins by the Yanks would have put New York on top. But after the twin bill was completed, it didn't make any difference.

Wild Pitches Helped Nats.

Strange that the Nats should beat the Yankees by the margin of a wild pitch in each game of the double-header. Or perhaps it's not so strange that Lefty Gomez and Russ Van Atta should wild pitch a run home in a game that was decided by one run.

I dare say that against any other club in the league Gomez and Van Atta wouldn't have cut loose with those wild pitches, which, in the final analysis, gave the Nats the winning margin in both games when a runner scored on each heave. It was a case of the Nats making their own breaks, I think.

Gomez and Van Atta had to be bearing down all the time if they were to beat the Nats. There isn't a soft spot in the Washington batting order these days, and it is not remarkable that a pitcher encounters a temporary let-down when he faces the Nats. Those wild pitches were just that. Gomez and Van Atta had no breathing spells against the Washington hitters and their lapses simply took the form of wild heaves that scored runners from third base.

Yank Games Supreme Tests.

Those two games in New York were more or less the supreme tests for the Nats. They were meeting a Yankee team that was only a half-game behind the lead, with its hitters showing signs of waking up and its ace pitchers, Gomez and Van Atta, freshened for the twin bill.

That Fourth of July afternoon, the Nats showed their versatility. Showed how they were able to slug it out with the Yanks in the first game and pitch it out with them in the second game. Walter Stewart's five-hit performance in the finale was typical of the way the Nats' pitchers have been delivering in time of need.

The only other game in which the Nats needed really good pitching to win out West was last week at Cleveland, when Tom Bridges held them to two runs. And on that day, Alvin Crowder came through with a pitching gem that limited the Tigers to one run and deposited the victory in the laps of the Nats.

That's the kind of a team the Nats are this season.

RUNS, HITS AND ERRORS.

Cronin's last orders to the team before he left New York for Chicago Tuesday night were to call them out to Griffith Stadium for practice Thursday and Friday . . . he's overlooking no bets . . . the Nats' next effort is scheduled for Saturday, when they meet Cleveland here in a double-header on Walter Johnson Day . . . you will see uncle and nephew on the first-base coaching lines for the two clubs . . . Johnny Kerr, of the Nats, having married Walter Johnson's niece last winter . . . Heinie Manush is a stiff-arm hitter against Lefty Gomez's fast-breaking curves . . . and says the pitching form of Walter Stewart and Russ Van Atta is exactly the same . . . Joe Kuhel's four whiffs in the first game of the July 4 twin bill lacked one of equaling the record set by George Pipgras in the world series of last year . . . and equaled this season by Jimmy Foxx . . . the triple tiers at Yankee Stadium cast shadows that make left field the hardest field to play in the league . . . Al Schacht has signed for weekly comedy stunts in the National Professional Football League.

Satoh Beaten in 4 Sets by Crawford

WIMBLEDON, England, July 5 (A.P.).—The new and the old kings of the tennis courts, Ellsworth Vines, jr., and Henri Cochet, met today for the third time and for the third time Vines won, smashing through the once invincible French ace to a 6—2, 8—6, 3—6, 6—1 triumph in the semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

The tall, rubber-legged American youngster, towering a head over the little Frenchman, completely dominated the play throughout and at the end Cochet, apparently convinced he at last had met his master, warmly congratulated Vines as they met at the net.

Vines showed himself a real champion as he rallied from 2—5 to take the second set and then ran six straight games in the fourth to end the match, frequently leaving Cochet standing flatfooted shaking his head as the terrifically-hit ball sped past him like a bullet.

Cochet appeared dangerous only twice, in the second set which Vines rallied to win, and in the third, which Cochet took when the American youngster developed a wild streak. The rest of the time he was outhit, outpaced and outmaneuvered.

Vines Had Won Twice.

The two first met last July in the Davis Cup challenge round where, with the series already lost, Vines won, 6—4, 6—0, 5—7, 6—8, 6—2, and he repeated the victory impressively in the finals of the American championships a few weeks later, winning in straight sets, 6—4, 6—4, 6—4.

Vines will defend his title, which he won last year on his first appearance on the famous London courts, against Jack Crawford Saturday, the Australian champion defeating Jiro Satoh, of Japan, 6—3, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4, in the other semifinal.

On the basis of the day's play Vines was much the more impressive player, but he is only a slight favorite over Crawford, who defeated Cochet in straight sets a few weeks ago in the final of the French championships and is rated second only to Vines in the world. They have met seven times with Vines victor in five of the matches.

Elizabeth Ryan Winner.

The victory of Vines was the feature of a day which saw Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian, advance both in mixed doubles and women's doubles and the elimination of Helen Jacobs, the United States champion, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke in women's doubles.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, seeking her sixth Wimbledon title, did not play during the day, but will get back into action tomorrow both in singles and mixed doubles.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES, FOURTH ROUND.

Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree and Mrs. L. R. S. Michel, England, defeated Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, United States, and Muriel Thomas, England, 6—3, 9—7.

MIXED DOUBLES, FOURTH ROUND.

Elizabeth Ryan, United States, and Enrique Mater, Spain, defeated Susan Noel, England, and R. Nunoi, Japan, 6—2, 8—6.

Baron Gottfriend von Cramm and E. Nourney, Germany, defeated E. D. Andrews and A. C. Stedman, New Zealand, 3—6, 7—5, 9—7, 6—3.

Vernon G. Kirby and Nat Farquharson, South Africa, defeated John S. Olliff and I. H. Wheatcroft, England, 6—2, 6—3, 9—7.

MIXED DOUBLES, FOURTH ROUND.

Dudley One of Trio Tied With 70s

Nolan Comes Back With 71; Sarazen Places in Group of 72s.

By Frank H. King.

ST. Andrews, Scotland, July 5 (A.P.).—Walter Hagen, grand old warrior of American golf, jumped into the lead today with a brilliant 68, five under par, in the first round of the British Open Golf Championship as 22 of the 117 challengers for Gene Sarazen's title found St. Andrews so ideal for low scoring that all shot par golf or better.

Hagen's mark, stirring aftermath of the record-breaking 67 William "Pat" Nolan, Irish professional, turned in yesterday to clinch the qualifying medal, withstood every attempt to shake it down as the big field, accustomed now to the sun-scorched fairways and blisteringly fast greens of the "old course," tore through the first eighteen holes of the 72-hole championship play.

Man after man, among them half a dozen of Hagen's compatriots, blew up on critical holes in the home stretch trying to catch the American Ryder Cup team captain, who four times in the past eleven years—in 1922, 1924, 1928 and 1929—has captured the highest prize in British golf. As a result Hagen tonight has risen again to his familiar place, favorite again for the title no Briton has won in ten years.

Hagen 2 Strokes Ahead.

Hagen's 68 gave him a lead of two strokes on the closest of the field, three strokes on the medalist, Nolan, and two other British professionals, Herbert Jolly and Fred Robertson; four strokes on the defending champion, Gene Sarazen, and five strokes on the Englishman still considered strongest of the defending forces, Henry Cotton, now a professional at Waterloo, Belgium.

Nolan's subpar 71 today was just one shot in the barrage of low scores, and, with the baked terrain changing ordinary par 4 holes into a drive and pitch, anything around perfect figures caused little excitement.

Three men, for instance, shot 70s, Thomas R. Fernie, of St. Anne's; Cyril Tolley, burly English amateur, and Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., professional, who had the most trying experience of the day.

Dudley took the first nine holes apart with a 31, a single stroke under Hagen's effort going out and five strokes under par, only to skid back in 39, two over par, with the royal eyes of the Prince of Wales upon him.

Sarazen in 72 Group.

Sarazen, Joe Kirkwood and George T. Dunlap, jr., doughty New York amateur, who went to the semifinals of the British amateur, all were in the group that shot 72s. C. Ross "Sandy" Somerville, the Canadian, who holds the United States amateur crown, wound up in the 73 even-par class with Densmore Shute, of Philadelphia, and Horton Smith, Chicago professional.

This 467-yard stretch, with a road just back of the green to catch a long second and cause all kinds of trouble, had been bothering everyone all day. Few had dared to go straight for the pin with a second, fearing to trickle over. Most were content to taks 5s and no chances.

But Hagen, with the audacity that has made him a heroic figure in British eyes, banged his second straight for the pin. Another burst of strength might have ruined his round, but the ball stayed on, he got his birdie 4, his par 4 on the eighteenth, and the 68 that up to yesterday had been Bob Jones' record for the course.

Just a Habit, Says Hagen.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 (A.P.).—Dick Oliver, a young right-hand pitcher grabbed off the sandlots of Philadelphia, made his starting debut in the major leagues today and pitched the Athletics to a 4 to 2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Striking out eight and allowing only seven hits, Oliver kept the Sox away from the plate in every inning except the eighth. The Sox grouped three of their hits to score all of their runs in the eighth, but the rally was stopped short when Oliver fanned pinch mitter Fothergill with two on base. He also squelched a rally in the first inning by fanning Smead Jolley with the bags loaded.

McNair Leads Attack.

Eric McNair was the big gun in the A's attack, driving in three runs with a homer and a double. The circuit drive was hit in the first inning with the bases empty and the double in the second with

Lieut. Turner Golf Winner

Panama, July 5 (A.P.).—Lieut. H. M. Turner, of the Army Air Corps, was crowned Isthmian amateur golf champion today as he defeated Earl S. Westman, American business man, one up in the 36-hole final match of the Panama Golf Association tournament at the Fort Amador Golf Club.

Baer, Sartorial Champ, Pays Us Visit

Conqueror of Schmeling Proves Regular Guy; Sees Farley.

CHALLENGER for both the heavyweight and sartorial championships, Max Baer lent his presence to Washington for three hours yesterday. He okayed the town, told the cameramen he photographed best on the right side of his face, personally directed the taking of the pictures and continued on to the West and Hollywood.

Carnera remains to be disposed of before Baer can realize his heavyweight championship claims, but the reporters at Union Station instantly conceded him the fashion title.

Curly-haired and hatless, the conqueror of Max Schmeling, otherwise known as the Lothario of Larrup, was a study in dress—the best-dressed and perhaps the most-dressed of all the athletes. And what a clothes horse his big but trim body makes!

He was attired in a suit of dark checks that breathed of Broadway and the dawn patrol. Suede shoes and socks to match the ensemble. A baby blue tie with a baby blue bordered kerchief. A heavy link of gold served as his watch strap and the other hand was decorated with a delicate slave bracelet of green gold. He was dressed from hangnail to toenail.

Baer Is Good Fellow.

Burl 4th Round Victor Over Landers

By Lewis F. Atchison.

POUNDING his opponent with a fancy assortment of blows that struck home with the accuracy of an arrow plunging into a bull's eye, Eddie Burl scored a decisive victory over Billy Landers in the feature eight-round offering at Twin City Arena last night. Burl won on a technical knockout in the fourth round.

His face smeared with blood from a bad cut over his right eye and weary from the continual thumping of Burl's gloves in his midsection, Landers was a sorry sight when Referee Charley Short stepped between the two. The Norfolk buzz-saw, apparently now toothless, took one of the soundest thrashings of his career.

Burl started pumping leather in the first round. He came in with both arms working like piston rods, and then stood off and coolly measured his foe for long rights to the body. Landers was never in the fight. He failed to land a single, solid blow, and had Short failed to end the affair when he did it is not too far fetched to believe that Landers would have hit the canvas.

Card Full of Action.

As a whole, the card was a good one, crammed with action from the opening preliminary to the end. But the bout that stole the show saw Charley Von Reedon get the nod over Leroy Dougan in eight rounds of milling.

Dougan gave away a pound in weight and several inches in reach, but, despite this handicap, brought the fight to the chap who was a top-heavy favorite to trim him. Von Reedon stood off Dougan with a long, dangling left, but Dougan frequently broke through the Southerner's defense to belay him with a two-fisted attack.

Dougan floored Von Reedon in the fifth but for no count, and Charley reciprocated by knocking his rival into the ropes in the seventh. This latter round was Von Reedon's best. He pounded Dougan with lefts and rights, standing back from him to give power to his blows.

Von Reedon did not appear to be

By Paul Mickelson.

CHICAGO, July 5 (A.P.).—Baseball's dream comes true tomorrow. Out at Comiskey Park, scene of many of baseball's greatest triumph's and tragedies, the mightiest array of sluggers ever assembled unpack their war clubs for an afternoon's bombardment that may still the diamond's most persistent arguments, the superiority of the American and National Leagues.

Eighteen stars, handpicked for every position, will represent each major league in the dream game that promises to be a nightmare for either the pitchers or sluggers, or both marshaling the all-star forces will be the fiery John McGraw, drawn out of retirement to lead the National Leaguers, and the stately Connie Mack, one of the greatest master minds baseball has ever known.

Forty-nine thousand spectators, promised a clear, cool day, already had their precious pasteboards to insure a capacity throng at the White Sox battleground by game time, 12:30 p. m., Central standard time. Charity was a certain winner, as all net profits were to be turned over to the Association of Professional Baseball Players of America, an organization formed eight years ago to care for old and disabled players and umpires.

Line-ups Not Definite.

As the zero hour neared for the big battle between such American sluggers as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Al Simmons, Jimmie Foxx and Joe Cronin and the National League Big Berthas like "Chuck" Klein, Paul Waner, Frankie Frisch and Lefty O'Doul, nothing was definite in the respective line-ups except that the aforementioned powerhouses would swing into action. The pitching selections had every one guessing, but at a late hour the best guess was that Bill Hallahan, ace southpaw of the St. Louis Cardinals, would oppose General Alvin Crowder, of Washington, at the start.

Hallahan and Crowder were "naturals," as starting pitchers. "Wild Bill" has been the most successful National League pitcher in recent world series against the American

Filly Scores by Length at 14-1

Jamison Wins Second in Row in Feature at Aqueduct.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 5 (A.P.).—Sylvi Coucci gave Mrs. Payne Whitney's Dabchick a good ride in the stretch today to account for the Ravinia purse, a five furlong test for the Lassie Stakes, Saturday's feature at Arlington Park.

Spoilt Beauty darted to the front and led most of the way, but Dabchick, an outsider in the wagering, overhauled her in the final strides to win by a length. Constant Wife was third. Dabchick ran the distance in 0:59 and paid a nice price of $31.42 for each $2 straight ticket.

Jamison Aqueduct Winner.

Aqueduct Race Track, New York, July 5 (A.P.).—Jamison, five-year old gelded son of St. James, which races in the livery of Charles H. Miller, sped to his second straight victory when he defeated some smart platers in the third event here today.

The 4-to-1 hazard got home a length clear of Fred Kahn's Mexico. The B. B. Stable's Character, odds-on choice, failed his backers badly by running out at the stretch turn and then finishing third, a half-dozen lengths behind. Jamison ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:19 flat.

Jockey Stout broke the winner on top, but Character and Mexico both darted past him in the run for positions. The leaders were waging a bitter battle for supremacy when Character suddenly dashed very wide at the turn. Mexico then assumed a daylight advantage, but Jamison, closing like a streak, wore down and passed the leader in the final furlong. Character lasted to save the show from the fast-closing Daisaburo.

Latonia, Ky., July 5 (A.P.).—Young Brothers' consistent juvenile filly, Penncote, running right back to her sparkling third in the Clipsetta Stakes, led home a good band of 2-year-old fillies in the Turkey Ridge Purse, today's feature attraction. Second money went to F. L. B. Stable's Ding Bin, with Racing Commissioner W. E. Smith's King Cicero saving the show.

The race, an allowance affair at 5½ furlongs, drew a field of seven, with Penncote backed into stanch favoritism in the late betting. Mrs. W. Crump's Cherry Time cut out the early pace, with Penncote and Ding Bin in closest attendance.

Entering the stretch, Penncote appeared beaten, dropping back as Ding Bin assumed the lead. In the closing drive, however, the daughter of Pennant-Cherrycote came again to get up in the last 50 yards to gain the decision over the tiring Ding Bin by a half length. King Cicero, from a slow beginning, closed fast to beat the tiring Cherry Time for the show.

Penncote rewarded her backers at $4.12 for each $2 ticket and covered the distance in 1:06 4-5.

CAPITAL NETWOMEN PUT OUT OF DISTRICT TITLE TOURNEY

Miss Walker Is Victim of '32 Champ

Bows to Miss Hofmeister in Straight Sets by 6-2 and 7-5.

Mrs. Martinez Loses to Miss Kirson; Finals Held Today.

POSSESSION of the District of Columbia women's singles tennis championship by an invading player for another year was assured yesterday in the tournament semifinals at Columbia Country Club.

Miss Hofmeister and Miss Kirson will clash for the championship tomorrow at 3:30 p. m.

The District's two semifinalists made daring attempts in their matches to bring back the singles crown to the Capital. Miss Walker, playing at top speed, made a nobie comeback in the second set with her Chicago opponent, and carried the champion to 12 games before losing. Mrs. Martinez also pulled up to within a hair's breadth of victory in the second set after being outclassed in the first set and during the early part of the second.

Singles Consolations.

In the consolations of the singles, Marion Pritchard defeated Beatrice Churchman, 6—3, 6—2; Florence Joyce eliminated Louise Stanbaugh, 7—5, 6—0, and Bobsy Turney put out Willie O'Steen, 6—1, 6—2. Today's consolations schedule follows; 10:35, Doris Ferry vs. Frankie Wilmer; 11:45, Ruth Elliott vs. Bobsy Turney; 2:00, Florence Joyce vs. winner of the Ferry-Wilmer match.

There were only two doubles matches yesterday. Miss Walker and Miss Kirson beat Dorette Miller and Mrs. Turney, 6—4, 6—4, and Miss Hofmeister and Marion Butler defeated Mrs. Bruce Colladay and Margaret Graham, 6—4, 6—3.

This morning at 10:30 Miss Walker and Miss Kirson will take on Miss Cochran and Miss Pritchard, while an hour later Miss Hofmeister and Miss Butler will engage Miss Darling and Miss Smith.

All-Star Teams Clash at Chicago

League sluggers. In 1930 he won one and lost one against the Philadelphia Athletics and in 1931 he copped two as the Cardinals broke through the American League victory march in the fall classic to become world's champions. In the four world series games he pitched 29 innings, allowed 21 hits, struck out 20 and walked 16. Crowder was well regarded because of his reputation to labor long and hard during hot weather. Ready to relieve him or any other starting pitcher picked by Manager Mack was Lefty Grove, who came here two days ahead of time to rest up for the engagement.

Hubbell Doubtful.

Carl Hubbell, the great star of the New York Giants, was considered a doubtful moundsman for the National League forces. Manager Bill Terry was dubious about the wisdom of starting his slab ace after that 18-inning shutout game he hurled against St. Louis last Sunday and, anyway, the Giants need every victory Hubbell can pitch in their race for the National League flag. Larry Schumacher, of the Giants, and Lonnie Warneke, young Cub star, were ready to pitch, however, as were the American League's pitching greatest, Lefty Gomez, Wesley Ferrell and Oral Hildebrand.

The National Leaguers had two sets of outfielders, left and right-handed hitters, ready for action. The southpaw hitters were Klein, Paul Waner and Lefty O'Doul, with Chick Hafey, Pepper Martin and Biff Berger swinging from the right side. The infield presented batters from both sides. In the American League outfield ranks were two right-handed swatters, Al Simmons and Ben Chapman, and "lefties," Earl Averill, Sam West and Babe Ruth. Gehrig, Gehringer and Dickey were American League infielders ready to swing from the port side.

Both managers, together with League Presidents Will Harridge and John Heydler were excited but confident over the game.

"I think we'll win, but you can never tell about a game like this," they replied in unison.

Strange as It Seems

—By John Hix

A DONOR whose gift was not forgotten was Don Andres Almonaster y Roxas, who, in the days of the Spanish supremacy, gave to New Orleans its beautiful Cathedral of St. Louis. Every Saturday at twilight for the last 137 years, at his grave in the church, memorial services have been conducted for Don Andres.

The snake, of the reptile family which strange as it seems bears a closer relationship with birds than does the family of mammals, is itself a strange creature. With no way of closing its eyes, the snake must sleep with them open. With no legs with which to walk, it must move about on its ribs—its feet are its scales, and its legs are its ribs.

The scales of the snake are attached each to a pair of ribs. By an undulating motion of its body the snake moves its scales forward on the ground and then, with a backward motion of the ribs, pushes itself forward. The snake, too, has gained a reputation for being wet and slimy. Although it is cold blooded, and hence cool to the touch, it is neither wet nor slimy. A blindfolded person would experience difficulty in telling the difference between the body of a live snake and the surface of an alligator-skin bag.

Bananas will ripen in the hold of a ship, in a warehouse—almost anywhere but on the banana plant. Left on the banana tree (which, strange as it seems, is not a tree), the banana will rot instead of ripen.

Chisox Humble Indians, 10-6; Move Up

Go Back Into 4th Place; Make 6 Hits, 7 Runs in Sixth Inning.

CLEVELAND, July 5 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox battered their way back into fourth place at the expense of the Cleveland Indians today, 10 to 6, by making one big inning count.

They converted six hits into seven runs in the sixth, driving Mel Harder, the starting pitcher, and Sarge Connally out of the box. Pearson finished for the Indians.

Chad Kimsey started for the Sox, but was knocked out by three runs in the first. Urban Faber went in for one inning and was replaced by Paul Gregory, who lasted another. Ted Lyons finished the game and received credit for the victory.

Gastanaga K. O.'s Kennedy in Sixth

Early in the first round Gastanaga nailed the Coast veteran with a hard right jolt to the jaw. This was followed by a right hook that floored Kennedy for the count of nine. He rose to meet another right hook to the chin and took another nine-count. He managed to weather the round.

Rallies by Pirates Defeat Cards, 7 to 6

Five-Run Lead Overcome After Meine Is Driven From Mound.

Pittsburgh, July 5 (A.P.).—Overcoming a 5-run lead, the Pittsburgh Pirates broke loose with a savage attack in the fifth and seventh innings today to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 6, and advance within one game of second place.

Floyd Vaughan supplied the spark that sent the Pirates away on a 4-run rampage in the fifth after the Cards had driven Heinie Meine from the box in the fourth frame. The Pittsburgh shortstop connected with a home run to drive in two of his mates after 1 run had been scored earlier in the inning.

In the seventh inning the Pirates put over what proved to be the deciding runs. Paul Waner was hit by a pitched ball by Sylvester Johnson, and then with two out, Gus Suhr, Tony Piet and Val Picinich drove out hits to send 3 runs across the plate.

Eubank to Play Harper for Va. Title

FARMINGTON COUNTRY CLUB, Charlottesville, Va., July 5 (A.P.).—Lansing Eubank, Hermitage Country Club, Richmond, player and comparatively unknown in famous golf circles, blasted his way through the semifinal match with Earl Howell for a 1-up victory and the right to meet Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, former champion, tomorrow for the State amateur title.

The first surprise came in the morning second round when Earl Howell, Glenwood Club, Richmond, won over Billy Howell, defending champion, with a medal score of 1 under par. Then the favored earl met his nemesis in the inspired Eubank, who sank a 4-foot putt on the eighteenth hole of the semifinal match for a birdie 3 and a 1-up victory.

Meanwhile, the consistent Chandler Harper, after rounding the turn all even, with Joe Mott, a clever Charlottesville youngster, won when Mott went to pieces on the in-coming nine.

Greater Experience.

Chandler, who won the amateur championship back in 1930 and annexed the State open last year, will enter tomorrow's 36-hole final with a great advantage over his opponent in tournament experience.

But the smiling Eubank proved his mettle against the highly favored Earl, who went down fighting in heartbreaking defeat. Six birdies rattled from the clubs of the Glenwood ace, who had a medal score of 74, 2 over par.

Eubank had 75, rounding the turn 2 down, with Earl fighting doggedly. He caught up with Eubank on the sixteenth, when he took a par 5 to the 6 turned in by the Hermitage player who found a trap.

Billy Howell showed a marked reversal of form in an afternoon practice round with Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond pro and Virginia open champion. The blond youngster trimmed the veteran, 3 to 2, with a 71 medal score, 1 under par.

In the second round of the championship division Earl Howell defeated Billy Howell, 5 and 4; Eubank defeated John James, 1 up; Chandler Harper defeated Bobby Riegel, 4 and 3, and Joe Mott defeated Paul Jamison, 1 up. In the semifinals Eubank defeated Earl Howell, 1 up. Harper defeated Mott, 4 and 3.

Pitt, Nee Start Exhibition Tune-Up Golf Series Today

Meet Diffenbaugh, Pro, and Peacock on Indian Spring Course as Developer for Coming Major Events; Women's Teams in Matches This Morning.

By Dave Herman.

AN ambitious schedule of exhibition matches, designed to whip Harry Pitt and Maury Nee into prime shape for such important golf events as the Maryland State amateur, the sectional qualifying test for the national amateur, and the District championship proper, has been arranged for the two local golf stars, with the first of the series slated to come off today.

Over the gently rolling hills of Indian Spring's course, where you have to steer clear of many hazards and keep a straight line if you want to score well, Pitt and Nee will begin their golfing crusade at 2 p. m.

Play Diffenbaugh-Peacock.

George Diffenbaugh, Indian Spring pro, and Roger Peacock, District titleholder and recent winner of the Congressional invitation championship, will furnish the opposition. With Diffenbaugh acquainted with virtually every blade of grass on the Donald Ross layout, and Peacock hitting his shots in championship fashion these days, Pitt and Nee are in for a busy afternoon.

Pitt, winner of the Manor and Suburban invitation crowns this season, and Nee, medalist and finalist in the recent Eastern interscholastic golf championship in Greenwich, Conn., will oppose Mel Shorey and Al Tredor at the Manor layout this Sunday.

Next Tuesday Pitt and Nee will invade Burning Tree for a joust with the Cunningham brothers, Walter and Frank. The following afternoon, at Columbia, they will engage Fred McLeod, pro, and one of his assistants, Billy Molloy.

Visit Richmond Sunday.

One of the highlights of the Pitt-Nee itinerary occurs on Sunday, July 16. Down to Richmond, Va., they will go to clash with Wee Bobby Cruickshank, nationally known star, now pro at the Country Club of Virginia, and Billy Howell, 1931 national amateur semifinalist and Walker Cup team member. Arrangements for this exhibition match were completed yesterday.

Sandy Armour and Luther Steward or Claggett Stevens will face Pitt and Nee on Sunday, July 23, at Congressional. Al Houghton and Maury Fitzgerald will play host to them at Kenwood on July 30.

Columbia will defend a half-point lead in the District women's first team matches this morning at Woodmont Country Club. Hot on Columbia's heels is Kenwood. Chevy Chase is in third place.

Big Schedule Listed.

9, Beaver Dam vs. Washington; 9:10, Kenwood vs. Congressional; 9:40, Chevy Chase vs. Army and Navy; 10, Indian Spring vs. Manor; 10:20, Columbia vs. Woodmont.

An invitation has been extended all women players to participate in a duffers tournament which Miss Elizabeth C. Harris, president of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association, will sponsor Monday, July 10, at Indian Spring.

Only women with handicaps of 16 to 36, inclusive, are eligible to receive the handsome trophy which Miss Harris is donating. Other prizes have been donated by Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely, Mrs. J. F. Cross and Mrs. Alma Von Steinner. The entrance fee of 50 cents should be sent either to Miss Harris, Mrs. Cross or Mrs. Tschiffely. The course will be open for practice rounds until 1 p. m. tomorrow.

U. S. Farm Policies Rapped by Teacher

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—The Federal Government is pursuing conflicting farm policies, Prof. Edward A. Duddy, of the University of Chicago's School of Business, said today.

Foreign countries have stimulated their own production and will not change that policy as long as the fear of war hangs over Europe, he explained. A declining rate of increase in this country's population, he said, indicates a fixed population of about 150,000,000 in 1950, so that the domestic market will not improve.

This analysis, he said, made it "disconcerting" that the Government is refinancing farm mortgages. He expressed the fear that marginal land would be kept in use in conflict with the policy of retarding farm production.

The mortgage relief will reduce farm costs, and consequently make better profits possible, he said. Whether prices will rise far depends, he said, on what income city dwellers are given by the industrial recovery program.

Wallace Moves Against Bread Price Boosting

Profiteering Charges Will Be Turned Over to Justice Department.

(United Press.)

The administration yesterday moved to prevent bread profiteering, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announcing that complaints of this practice had been turned over to the Justice Department for investigation and possible prosecution.

At the same time, Farm Relief Administrator George N. Peek announced the firm intention of his organization to protect the consumer from profiteering.

"Definite guarantees for the consumer were written in the adjustment act itself," Peek said. "Those guarantees should be fulfilled."

He warned there was no justification for some of the bread-price increases that already have been reported, joining with Wallace in the assertion that the antitrust laws still "remain in full effect" and that concerted action to boost prices to consumers might constitute a Federal offense of the gravest character.

"The Agriculture Department," Mr. Wallace said, "has received reports of concerted advances made or to be made in the price of bread in several localities. In line with the usual Governmental practice where apparent instances of law violation are reported, the department is turning over to the Department of Justice the complaints it has received as to actual or prospective price advances in other areas so that the Justice Department may take such action as it finds necessary."

Mr. Wallace announced the surrender of the Iowa Bakers Association, one of the first groups planning to increase bread prices.

D. C. Officials Air Carpenter Pay Complaint

Labor Department Joins in Inquiry of Protest by School Worker.

District Government officials and the Labor Department late yesterday launched an inquiry into the complaints of John Thomas, of Berwyn, Md., that he has been underpaid as a carpenter on a municipal school project in violation of the Bacon-Davis prevailing wage scale act.

Thomas made his complaint to Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals after calling at the Labor Department, and the Commissioner turned the case over to Corporation Counsel William W. Bride for investigation. Simultaneously, Harold W. Baker, director of construction for the District, opened another inquiry.

The charges, directed against the Catalano Construction Co., of Baltimore, which is building a colored vocational school at Twenty-fourth and H streets northeast, were denied by officials of the contracting firm.

Twelve other carpenters at the school now are being paid only 60 cents an hour while signing statements that they are receiving $1 an hour, Thomas said. Thomas asserted he was being paid 60 cents until he complained, and then, he asserted, he was given $1 and subsequently discharged.

Thomas further charged that the payments often were made in the office of Roland Nichols, inspector attached to the municipal architect's office, who was frequently present. Nichols, he said, has two brothers working on the job as employes of the Catalano Co.

Nichols admitted that he "lent" his office to the contractor on pay days, but he insisted he knew nothing about the wage scale. He likewise admitted that two of his brothers are employed on the job, but he said this made no difference in his attitude toward the company.

Upon discovering that the Catalano Co., had filed no sworn statement regarding the wage scale paid, Director of Construction Baker called for one immediately. Al Klingenberg, representating the company, said that all twelve carpenters are receiving the $1 wage scale required and insisted that Thomas was hired as a helper at 50 cents an hour and then was given a 10-cent raise.

Roosevelt to Swim Off 7 Extra Pounds

The Presidential plan for weight reducing was laid bare yesterday at the White House after President Roosevelt had revealed that he gained 7 pounds on his vacation cruise.

The President's weight is now 181 pounds, but he intends to reduce it to 174. The decrease will be accomplished mainly through eating less, although he expects to swim some of it off. This gain was the only bad news of the trip and the condition will be corrected at once, he said.

Capital Journalist Marries Secretary

H. A. Ripley, 35, Chicago Tribune writer, and son of Mrs. George Ripley, of 3300 Sixteenth street northwest, was married in Chicago last night to his secretary, Miss Leone M. Johannes, according to the Associated Press.

Mr. Ripley was born in Washington and received his education in this city. He was page for "Uncle Joe" Cannon during the latter's term in Congress. Miss Johannes is the daughter of Peter L. Johannes, of Eau Claire, Wis.

Roosevelt Postpones Naming District Heads

President Roosevelt does not expect to appoint the two new civilian Commissioners of the District for two or three weeks, he let it be known yesterday.

Appointment of new men to the jobs has been awaited since April 9, when the terms of the incumbents, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retired, expired. Quick action on the question was forecast last week by Postmaster General Farley, but the Chief Executive announcement yesterday put that latest guess among other previous guesses which have been wrong.

Burglar Discovers Cache in Old Stove

An old stove in the basement is certainly not a common hiding place for money. Therefore, Peter S. Mantis, proprietor of a lunchroom at Sixth and D streets northwest, believes it was more than a chance discovery on the part of the burglar who early yesterday found the $169.79 which was hidden in an old stove in his basement.

He Finds Fancy Cane Really Walking Stick

Carved with reptiles and water fowl, with a big hand-filling knob for a handle, it was a "stick" of which Augustus H. Brown, 1412 Chapin street northwest, was proud.

In a moment of haste yesterday he left it in the hall when he went into his apartment. When he returned it was gone. Brown told police the cane was worth $30.

It was a birthday party also, marking a week since the calf arrived on June 28. Mother and daughter are shown above. Not far away another jealous mother, the Indian water buffalo, was holding a party for her male calf, born Saturday.

Silver Gone

Valuable antique silverware, once the property of Gen. Forrester, Confederate leader, was stolen from the home of his great-great-granddaughter, Miss Georgia F. Green, of 3122 Q street northwest, over the holidays.

Miss Green discovered the robbery when she returned home yesterday. The burglar gained entrance by clipping a screen from a window. Plate silver left by Miss Green's grandfather, William Devereaux, and family jewelry also were stolen. The antique silver is a 75-piece set.

2 Imprisoned Men Forfeit Heavy Bail

Although they are "doing a stretch" of from 10 to 20 years each in a Pennsylvania jail, Max Zove and Abraham Reefer, under indictment here in connection with charges they participated in the robbery of the Washington Mechanics Bank, yesterday forfeited $10,000 in bonds each when they failed to appear in the District Supreme Court.

The chronological order of things is this: The pair were arrested in Philadelphia for the local authorities and were released on bonds of $10,000 each for their appearance here. In the meantime they were seized by the Quaker City police and held for a bank robbery there. They were tried on this charge and given sentences of from 10 to 20 years.

So both men are in jail and couldn't be here when they were wanted yesterday.

Leg of Girl Trying Suicide Amputated

Blanche Israel Is Still in Serious Condition After Leap From Hotel.

Seriously injured Monday when she leaped from a fifth-story window of the Ambassador Hotel, Blanche Israel's right leg was amputated yesterday at Emergency Hospital. She suffered fractures of both legs and arms, a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries. Her condition is still serious.

E. M. Headrick, 45 years old, an unemployed electrician, of Knoxville, Tenn., with whom Miss Israel had been living in the hotel, was taken into custody for investigation by police.

Firemen Plan 3-Day National Meeting in Fall

Memorial to Honor All Who Have Lost Lives in Line of Duty.

A three-day program, marking the most auspicious gathering of firemen ever to be held in this country, is the plan of the National Firemen's Association, which is busy preparing for the eleventh annual firemen's Labor Day parade and companion events.

Beginning on Saturday, September 2, activities will continue through Monday afternoon, when the firefighters hold their colorful parade. Saturday will be devoted largely to enrolling, march planning and social activities, Sunday morning to worship, Sunday afternoon to a convention and Sunday evening to a memorial service.

This memorial is expected to be one of the high-lights of the three-day get-together. It will be dedicated to the American firemen who have lost their lives in line of duty.

Weather permitting, and providing permission can be secured, the services will be held at the Sylvan Theater. Leading ministers from all religious creeds will be invited to take part.

Ever since the first firemen's parade in the National Capital eleven years ago, Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, founder of the association, has planned a day devoted to the heroic firefighter dead, and this year he had definitely included it in the program.

Some day, Sergt. Bargagni and the Firemen's Association hope to erect a beautiful memorial building in Washington to firemen who have given their lives in the service of their communities and their departments.

This structure also would house the odlest pieces of fire apparatus in America and would serve as a museum, depicting the history and progress of firefighting.

During his periodic visits to fire departments in different States, Sergt. Bargagni has found many instances of ancient equipment, valuable for its antiquity alone, stowed away to rust, or even junked for whatever price scrap iron was bringing.

Despite the fact that Henry Ford has gathered much of this old fire apparatus for his famed collection, Bargagni believes much of it is still the property of fire companies in all parts of the country and could be obtained easily.

Several meetings are scheduled this week by firemen and organizations working on the parade. Last night, the officers of the Firemen's Association met at Sergt. Bargagni's home. Tonight the ladies' auxiliary of the District Fire Department will meet at the home of Mrs. E. W. Howard, jr., 1512 Monroe street northwest, to discuss its part in the parade.

Old Fossils

Specimens Received Daily at Smithsonian From Amateurs.

If the rock diary of Mother Earth, as museum officials call the collection of fossils at the Smithsonian Institution, were taken at its face value, we might conclude that a few hundred thousand years ago the earth was inhabited by a race of dwarfs and at the same time by huge giants, according to geologists.

Every day fossil specimens come to the institution from amateurs all over the country. Their appearance has been altered so that they look like traces of some peculiar form of animal life.

Lions Join Drive For Lower Taxes

Lusk Declares Organized Minorities Represent Restricted Views.

Reduction of District taxes became one of the aims of the Lions Club yesterday following a luncheon meeting in the Mayflower Hotel, at which Rufus S. Lusk, executive officer of the Washington Protective Taxpayers Association, was the principal speaker.

A course of action looking to cooperation with the taxpayers association's campaign for lower taxes is to be mapped out at an early meeting. Mr. Lusk, in his address, blamed the high tax rate upon appropriation demands from "organized minorities representing restricted community viewpoints."

"We can not afford a 1929 Government structure on a 1933 income," Mr. Lusk declared. "True, vigorous slashing by the Budget Bureau and Congress on the current year's appropriation has resulted in quite a substantial cut. It can and should be reduced more."

Whiteside to Discuss Recovery Act's Effects

Developments under the national industrial recovery act will be discussed by Arthur D. Whiteside, president of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., and deputy administrator of the act, at a luncheon of Washington trade association executives at 12:30 p. m. today at the Carlton Hotel.

Mother of "Fox" Dies at Her Home

Mrs. A. Whitaker Passes in Philadelphia; Son Is in Jail Here.

Mrs. Agnes Whitaker, mother of Norman Whitaker, known as "The Fox" after his trial and conviction with Gaston B. Means on conspiracy charges filed by Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, will be buried in Philadelphia Saturday.

Whitaker is in District Jail serving a jail sentence in connection with the conviction. Outside his purportedly criminal activities with Gaston B. Means, Whitaker attained a national reputation as a chess player. It could not be learned last night whether he would seek to attend his mother's funeral.

Mrs. Whitaker died Tuesday. She was the widow of Dr. Herbert C. Whitaker, noted Philadelphia educator. Surviving also are two daughters, Hazel and Dorthy, and another son, Roland.

Democrats Will Hold River Outing Tonight

As a part of its summer program of social activities, the District of Columbia division of the Young Democratic Clubs of America will hold an excursion down the Potomac River tomorrow night on the S. S. City of Washington, leaving the Wilson Line dock on Water street at 8:30 o'clock. Lyda Mae Francis, Ralph Lawrence and Mrs. Helen Griffin, chairman of the social committee, and Albert Viault, chairman of the program committee, are in charge of arrangements.

Assisting the committee heads in plans for the moonlight sail are Thelma Ross, secretary to Senator Kendrick, of Wyoming; Lyda Mae Francis, Helen Hylton, Rita Cannon, Winfield S. MacGill and Bradford Ross, son of former Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross, now director of the mint.

Auditors Start Senate's Milk Inquiry Today

Chevy Chase, Thompson, Chestnut Farms Dairies to Be Examined.

Examination of the books of leading milk distributors and the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association will be started today by a corps of accountants working under the Senate milk investigating committee.

Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the committee, today will bring the accountants to the offices of the Chestnut Farms Dairy and the Chevy Chase Dairy, both holdings of the National Dairy Products Corporation, and the Thompson Dairy, an independent concern.

By an agreement with the owners of the dairies the books will be opened to the accountants, so that no subpenas will be necessary. The auditors will obtain data for use in the hearing on District milk prices.

The accountants yesterday held a two-hour conference with W. B. Watson Snyder, of the antitrust division of the Department of Justice, who outlined a plan of procedure for them.

The accountants are H. V. Rouse, N. E. Simpson and George W. Rose, of the General Accounting Offices; and George H. Kidwell, Joseph Danos and Paul Keen, of the District Auditor's Office.

Boy, 6, Seeks $20,000 Auto Damage Injuries

Suffering from permanent injuries which he claims to have received when he was hit by an automobile at Fourteenth and Newton streets northwest, Jack Rosenblatt, 6 years old, through his father, Abe Rosenblatt, 1440 Newton street northwest, yesterday brought suit against James Witt and Louis Mirman, 1107 E street southwest.

Through Attorneys Alvin L. Newmyer and Charles I. Kaplan, the father asked for damages of $20,000. The accident happened last March.

Ousting Case Writ Asked by Hekimian

Rug Dealer Seeks to Halt U. S. Marshal Until Suit Is Settled.

Nejib Hekimian, a rug dealer of 1214 Eighteenth street northwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to issue a writ of prohibition directed against George Calvert Bowie, 1001 Fifteenth street northwest, and United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder, to prevent the marshal from ousting Hekimian from his place of business until a suit now pending in the District Supreme Court is adjudicated.

Through Attorney Max Rhoades, the rug dealer informed the court that Bowie began suit last May to regain possession, although Hekimian held a lease to the premises. Soon after filing this suit, a second suit was filed in the Municipal Court, and on June 15 a verdict in favor of Bowie was returned.

The suit filed yesterday seeks to restrain the marshal and Bowie from enforcing the Municipal Court ruling until the case in the District Supreme Court, involving the same principals, is heard.

Police Satisfied Aiken Is Alive; Girl Is Quizzed

This was gleaned yesterday from Detective Sergt. Clyde N. Strange, who conducted the investigation of the man's purported suicide. Strange said the investigation had indicated Aiken had been seen alive since he left his car abandoned on the banks of the Potomac, a suicide note attached.

From now on, the police inquiry, said Strange, assumes only the status in Aiken's case as in that of any person reported missing.

It was tacitly admitted by both Strange and other officials that Aiken had been reported in Jacksonville, Fla. Aiken's young brother, Gordon, is also missing, police said, and this fact was connected with the report that the older Aiken was seen in company with a young man en route to Florida.

A 23-year-old beauty parlor operator, Mrs. Blanche Brawley, 3500 Thirteenth street northwest, was questioned from early yesterday until late in the afternoon, in regard to Aiken's disappearance. After her release police would only say they established the fact that Mrs. Brawley was acquainted with Aiken. She denied, they said, having received any communication from him.

Virginia Auto Believed Used In Jail Break

Hunt for Dangerous Lorton Pair Broadens as Car Is Missed.

Search for the two desperadoes, who escaped from Lorton Reformatory, has been abandoned in the vicinity of the prison because of the belief of reformatory officials that the fugitives have left that vicinity in a stolen automobile.

The prisoners are believed to have made their getaway in an automobile stolen from the vicinity of Accotink, Va., on Tuesday night. The car was owned by J. W. Allen, son of State Senator Allen. The fugitives are John M. Kendricks, 36 years old, a Philadelphia gangster, and Robert E. Gayles, 41 years old, a dangerous narcotic addict.

Four prisoners, who had refused to participate in the protest demonstrations against the food served to the inmates, have been placed in solitary confinement for their protection, Capt. M. M. Barnard disclosed yesterday.

The officials also have threatened military discipline at the reformatory if there are any more demonstrations, A. C. Tawse, superintendent of the prison, said yesterday.

Police Innovations Planned for Oslo

They are to be given automobiles to ride in, and what is more, they are to be given radio-equipped squad cars similar to those used in Washington and other American cities.

They are, that is, if Alf Bjercke, an Oslo councilman who was at the Mayflower Hotel last night, fresh from a study of American crime-prevention methods, has his way. As a member of the Oslo council's police committee, Mr. Bjercke anticipates little difficulty in winning the city's governing body to his view of the effectiveness of the American radio car patrol.

6,904 Pupils Register for Summer Work

Summer schools opened yesterday with a total enrollment of 6,904. This includes enrollment in both white and colored schools and in the Americanization day and evening classes.

Enrollment in the white schools is 3,314, in the colored 3,440. At the Americanization School, 150 are enrolled. The number of summer students is expected to increase materially before the end of the week.

The 12 white elementary schools have an enrollment of 1,206, the two junior highs, 757, and Central High School, 1,351. Enrollment in colored elementary classes is 1,160, 790 in Dunbar High School and 350 at Macfarland Junior High.

Curtailment in the appropriation for summer schools and entrance restrictions have cut down the enrollment, E. J. Lockwood, director of the vacation schools, pointed out. No students are being admitted to take advanced work. At Central there are 38 teachers in comparison to 55 two years ago.

Sunken Schooner Spared Dynamiting

Safe from dynamite, but food for fishes, the two-masted, thrice-sunk schooner, J. J. Underhill, may be the first "ghost" hulk to end its career in Gravelly Creek, off the Mount Vernon boulevard. Officials yesterday decided not to destroy the craft, as was threatened.

Its 25-ton cargo of oyster shells intact, its owner suffering financial reverses, the vessel is lying on the mud bottom of the historic Potomac. The owner of the boat, who piloted the vessel to Alexandria, Va., and lost her when a submerged log stove a hole in the bottom, is trying vainly to raise sufficient funds to rescue the schooner.

Raised once by the District fireboat and again by District engineers, the J. J. Underhill is down for the third time and, as far as the Government is concerned, she is out. Dynamite will not be used, however.

Darkened Highway Proves Still Safe

The elimination of lighting along the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard has caused no accidents, even during the heavy Fourth of July traffic, Park Police officials said yesterday.

The lights were turned off July 1 as an economy measure. The result has been a decrease in the average speed of traffic and more careful driving, police said. Traffic mishaps on the road are infrequent anyway, only 50 having been reported in the last 11 months. These include such minor accidents as bumped fenders and hooked bumpers.

Police also said that no increase in nocturnal lovemaking has resulted from the darkness of the road. Amorous couples still park at the regularly marked spaces, but are models of discretion even in the dark, it was reported.
